FIGHT 'HOLD DRAFTEES' EDICT

POSSES SEARCH FOR ST. CHARLES WRENCH SLAYER

Farm Mother of 5 Struck Down.

Posses composed of more than 200 men were searching the rolling fields and woods of McHenry county near Woodstock last night for a St. Charles school parolee who earlier in the day beat a farm woman to death with a heavy wrench. While the hours of daylight lasted a private airplane from Woodstock assisted in the search.

The fugitive is Richard Wesolik, 16 years old, who was paroled to the Joseph Jung farm a mile south of Woodstock from the St. Charles School for Boys on April 21.

His victim was Mrs. Margaret Jung, 37, mother of five children. She was struck down from behind as she worked in the milk house. Her skull was fractured in two places, and a physician said an attempt had been made to rape her.

Husband Finds Body.

The body was found by Jung in the milk shed when he returned from a 15 minute trip to the nearby town. He told the following story at the inquest in Woodstock:

"We [the family] were going into town last night and asked Richard if he wanted to go along. He said he didn't want to go, that he was sleepy.

"At 10 o'clock we came home and went to bed, thinking the boy was already asleep. But at 2 o'clock he knocked at the door. I let him in, but I told him brusquely to go to bed.

"This morning both my wife and I reprimanded him. He didn't answer back, just seemed to sulk. After the milking I left for Woodstock. The last I saw of him was as he walked toward the horse barn.

"When I got back I found the body."

Wesolik was not named in the inquest verdict of murder, but State's Attorney William M. Carroll explained McHenry county inquests are called to determine only the manner of death.

Gives Him a Ride.

Robert Stading, 23, son of a policeman in Huntley, McHenry county, told the sheriff he picked up Wesolik on route 47 yesterday morning and gave him a ride into Huntley.

"He was awful nervous and he sweat a lot," Stading said. "I let him out in Huntley and he said he was going on to Elgin."

Search for Wesolik ranged from Dane county in Wisconsin, where a youth answering his description was seen, to points between Oswego, Kendall county, and Belleville, St. Clair county, his home town. Police belief that he would head for home was strengthened by reports that he was seen in Oswego during the afternoon. A former St. Charles inmate who knows Wesolik and who now lives in Oswego notified police that he had seen Wesolik in that town.

Wesolik's work clothes were found in his room in the Jung farmhouse. He had put on a white shirt and blue pants and had taken a sweater. The sweater later was found about a quarter of a mile from the home with a blood soaked handkerchief beside it.

Children Hear No Disturbance.

The Jung children, who were playing in the home at the time of the tragedy, did not hear any disturbance.

The children are Marcella, 12; Lucille, 10; Viola, 8; Donald, 6, and Robert, 2.

The slaying recalled earlier attacks made by other St. Charles parolees. In 1939 Lester Groth of Marengo in McHenry county was shot and stabbed to death by Charles Dain, who is serving a 28 year sentence for murder.

On April 14, 1939, Vivian Denton, 17, fractured the skull of Mrs. Meta Christiansen, 77, in an attack in her Geneva home in Kane county. Denton is serving from 1 to 14 years on a charge of intent to commit murder.

Orderly and Quiet in School.

William T. Harmon, managing officer of the school, who is scheduled to retire Sept. 1, said Wesolik during his stay at St. Charles was orderly and quiet. He was sent to the disciplinary cottage only once, and that was for writing an obscene note, Harmon said.

"Just like Sawicki, Dain, and Denton, this boy had a good record with us and gave no trouble," Harmon said. "If he had been otherwise we would not have paroled him."

THE CHANGING WORLD

During the World war the British painted the Germans as Huns with whom friendly intercourse in the future seemed unthinkable.

And yet, in August of 1920, only two years after the war, Winston Churchill, the British minister of war, was advocating an alliance with Germany.

During the World war, poison gas and submarine warfare were represented as the work of fiends in human form.

And yet, two years later, the league of nations' military and naval committee, in session at San Sebastian, had put its approval on these forms of warfare.

Also in August of 1920, after the end of the war to end wars, etc., etc., the Poles and Russians were battling.

After the Russians invaded Poland, the Poles turned around and chased the Russians out. Both nations, as excuses, said they could fight better when their nations were invaded or threatened with invasion.

Reporter Gets a Story—He's in Middle of It

BY GUY MURCHIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 15 [By Mail].—I was walking along narrow Cleveland street, London, this morning to get a kettle I had left to be repaired in an old hardware shop.

Suddenly a man of about 40 years rushed up from behind and cried:

"You're under arrest! Come with me. I'm getting a policeman around the corner!"

He was breathless with excitement and his eyes bulged with fanatical ardor.

"You didn't know I was there, did you?" he said. "But I saw you take that picture around the corner there."

Picture of an Asbestos Suit.

A minute earlier I had taken a photograph of a shop window showing asbestos fire fighting suits for sale. I had thought it of possible interest to TRIBUNE readers.

I showed my card.

"There is no law against my carrying a camera," I said, "and I happen to have permission from the ministry of information even to take military pictures."

"I'm a military doctor," the man roared. "It's my duty as a British subject to arrest you. Come with me."

"I'm not coming with you," I said heatedly.

Easy to Attract a Crowd.

Grasping at my coat with both hands while frantically shouting for "Help!" and "Police!" it was easy for him to attract a crowd.

Being tall, dark, and wearing an old gray felt hat and experienced brown suit, I evidently conformed to the crowd's idea of a continental spy.

"We'll hold him," they shouted patriotically as the "doctor" went off in search of a policeman.

I could have knocked most of my captors flat with one swat—and I was tempted. But somehow I knew that that would make it worse, and every minute the crowd was getting larger.

[Murchie is 6 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 245 pounds, and is solidly and powerfully built.]

I just waited where I was and gazed around at the crowd as they stared at me. I could see the muttered news spreading among them.

"He's a foreigner. He's a fifth columnist. They say he's been taking pictures. He has a concealed camera."

Finally a policeman in a squad car arrived. I was glad to see him. With my ample credentials, I quickly proved myself. The policeman returned my papers with a smile.

"You have to make allowances for war excitement," he said.

WOMAN IS STRICKEN BY RATTLESNAKE BITE FROM PET CHIPMUNK

Suffern, N. Y., July 14 [Special].—A rattlesnake bit a chipmunk here today and the chipmunk bit a woman, sending her to a hospital, suffering symptoms "about the same" as if she had been bitten directly by the snake. Tonight the victim's condition was reported at a hospital to be "fair."

Mrs. Catherine Petheram was chatting in her back yard with a neighbor, Mrs. Harvey J. Conklin, when the chipmunk, apparently in distress, showed up on the lawn. Mrs. Petheram, in the habit of feeding the animal, reached down to pet it and it bit one of her fingers.

She was surprised when the little animal fell back, plainly near death. Its furry body was bloodsoaked. Then she saw within striking distance the rattlesnake at least 3½ feet long.

A call for aid brought a policeman, who shot the snake.

Dr. Robert P. Odenwald tonight said that Mrs. Petheram apparently was not infected by the bite of the chipmunk but by touching the poisoned blood of the chipmunk with her injured finger.

Loses U. S. Job in Fight on Red Clique in Union

New York, July 14 [Special].—Joseph J. Doyle, 27 years old, an American citizen, today found himself denied the right to continue working for the United States government because his opposition to communism led him to make an unsuccessful demand for an investigation of the extent of communist leadership within the National Maritime union [CIO] during the union's convention at Cleveland last week.

The reason for Doyle's plight, which is expected to bar him from working for any private ship having a contract with the National Maritime union, stems from his resignation from the union yesterday when faced with expulsion proceedings which, he said, would have been a farce.

Elected Ship's Delegate.

Doyle has been employed on the liner Ancon, operated for the war department since early last year by the Panama Line. This line is a subsidiary of the Panama Railroad company, the capital stock of which is owned by the government. Doyle missed the Ancon's last run to Panama in order to attend the convention as a delegate.

William R. Pfizer, vice president of the Panama Line, said Doyle's record had been satisfactory, but that he could not be rehired for the next sailing Thursday because all crew members must be certified by the union.

In the normal course of affairs, Pfizer added, Doyle would have been signed again, "but if he has resigned from the union and the union does not redesignate him for employment, there is nothing we can do."

Curran Blocks Probe.

Joseph Curran, union president, often accused of being a communist, was instrumental in blocking Doyle's resolution asking the Red investigation.

"I guess there's nothing I can do," Doyle said. "I'm just a victim of the dictatorial officials of the union.

"But I would like to know who the government is going to back—a seaman who resigned from the union because he is opposed to its officers making a political football out of it, or the dictatorial union officials?"

DEFEAT LIKELY, PRESIDENT TOLD BY HIS LEADERS

F. D. R. Drops Plans for AEF Service.

Mothers Protest

Indianapolis, Ind., July 14 (AP).—Six Indianapolis women announced today a meeting next Monday in the Indiana World war memorial to form a national organization of mothers with sons in the army, or with sons eligible to conscription, for opposition to the proposed lengthening of drafted men's term of service. Their public statement said they wanted to "see the United States government live up to its promise." They insisted that training of draftees should be held to a year and the men not be sent outside the United States.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 14.—Yielding to overwhelming opposition in congress, President Roosevelt today assented to the sidetracking of legislation authorizing him to use draftees and National Guardsmen beyond the western hemisphere "in such manner and in such places" as he should deem necessary.

Senator Reynolds.

At a White House conference with congressional leaders, the President accepted their judgment that the "expeditionary force" legislation must be shelved, but he demanded passage without compromise of legislation extending the service of draftees, National Guardsmen, reserve officers, voluntary enlistees, and other army personnel. A spirited fight against the proposal was developing tonight.

Also Faces Stiff Opposition.

The President was informed that there is almost as much opposition to extension of the service of draftees beyond the one year period for which they were inducted as to the proposed AEF legislation. Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn of Texas bluntly told the President that the house at least would not pass such legislation. Nevertheless, Mr. Roosevelt insisted that there must be no compromise of the proposal to keep draftees as well as National Guardsmen and other army personnel in service indefinitely.

Congressional leaders intimated that Mr. Roosevelt decided to abandon the legislation authorizing him to send troops outside the western hemisphere in order to prevent a furious legislative controversy which for all practical purposes would have been tantamount to the consideration of a declaration of war. To be defeated on such an issue would constitute a blow of incalculable import to the President's war policies and prestige, both domestically and internationally, it was said.

Hearings Start Thursday.

Senator Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the military affairs committee, who introduced the legislation by request of the war department, agreed to begin committee hearings Thursday on the bills extending the service of army personnel. Reynolds, however, said the White House conference, which he attended, failed to alter his opposition to the bills.

Representative Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], chairman of the house military affairs committee, intends to introduce the bills in the house and hearings will be held by the two committees concurrently.

Leaders at Conference.

Besides Rayburn, Reynolds and May, other congressional leaders at the White House conference were Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the foreign relations committee; Senator Lister Hill [D., Ala.], administration spokesman on the military affairs committee; Senator Warren R. Austin of Vermont, interventionist Republican member of the military affairs committee; Representative John W. McCormack [D., Mass.], majority leader of the house, and Representative James W. Wadsworth [R., N. Y.].

SECRECY CLOAKS GERMAN DRIVES ON 3 RED CITIES

Russia said "waves upon waves" of Germans were cut down as they smashed on toward the three cities. But for the first time in recent days it failed to mention the names of towns about which the main fighting has been raging. The Russians claimed to have sunk 13 Nazi transports.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 14.—With the soviet front reported to be tottering in the north and crumbling in the center, the main Russian resistance seems to be offered in the south on the 23d day of the Russian-German war.

Apparently the soviet southern army is the only force still able to carry out counterattacks on a large scale. It seems that this army is attacking the right flank of the German armored divisions standing at the gates of Kiev, capital of the Ukraine.

In the north and in the center the resistance of the Red armies is understood to be lessening perceptibly. This undoubtedly is because of terrific bombardments by German Stukas [dive bombers] and other bombers of the railroad and road system in the Leningrad and Smolensk areas. Smolensk is 230 miles southwest of Moscow.

Trains Jam Stations.

In those districts the Germans declare their air force has paralyzed traffic on railways and roads. German reconnaissance flyers report that almost every railroad station is congested with 40 to 50 trains. The flyers assert that scores of other trains are laid up on the tracks between bombarded bridges and tornup rails.

According to the Germans the soviet railroad system is so completely disorganized that it would be a difficult job to disentangle the mêlée even without the uninterrupted raids of German bombers. According to German estimates, some 30 to 40 soviet divisions are unable to move as a result of the paralyzed railroads.

On the roads, conditions are hardly better. At the beginning of the Russian campaign German flyers stressed that on the whole the soviets retreated in "fairly good order." This has completely changed in recent days, the Nazis say. Instead of tank units moving by themselves, followed by artillery or army units, everything now is hopelessly entangled on the Russian roads of retreat, the Germans maintain.

No Longer Under Control.

This means, according to German military observers, that many Russian units no longer are under the control of their commanders.

Thick clouds of dust add to the confusion of the Russian roads of retreat. Attacking German bombers merely drop their bombs into the dust raised by marching columns.

The terrific losses the soviet tank force has suffered since the beginning of the campaign are becoming more apparent, the Germans declare. At the start of the campaign Russian tank columns comprising several hundred tanks were observed by German flyers. Now the biggest Russian tank columns rarely exceed 20 tanks. According to German figures, the Russians have lost 8,000 tanks.

How Nazis Forced Rivers.

Details of the forcing of the Dnieper and upper Dvina rivers were made known today. As in the western campaign, air supremacy was the prerequisite for the forcing of such formidable obstacles. A fierce aerial bombardment of soviet field fortifications lining the rivers preceded the attack. While the bombers were at work, German guns of all caliber joined the attack.

German infantry then crossed the rivers in boats, including inflated rubber craft. While the advance guards formed bridgeheads, German pioneers [engineers] began building pontoon bridges to enable the heavy supporting arms of infantry and tanks to cross the streams.

77,229 Ballots Cast in State Survey.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Final returns in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S war poll show an 80 per cent opposition to war among the 77,229 Illinois voters who replied to the question: "Shall the United States enter the war to help Britain defeat Hitler?"

The number of ballots received from the 50 Chicago wards, the 30 country townships in Cook county, and from nine election board cities downstate constituted about 30 per cent of the total of 257,484 mailed—one to every 10th voter on the polling lists.

Yes [for war]: 14,176, or 18.36 per cent.

No [against war]: 62,394, or 80.79 per cent.

Spoiled ballots totaled 659, or .85 per cent.

The poll was conducted by postcard ballots printed, mailed, and counted under TRIBUNE supervision, by the Buckley-Dement company, 1300 Jackson boulevard, the largest concern in the direct mail advertising field.

Coincident with the announcement of complete results of THE TRIBUNE'S poll last night was the announcement of final returns in the poll of New York state on the same question by the New York News. In the Empire state the result was 51,507 for entering the war and 122,802 against.

Anti-war Ratio Grows.

Starting with a 3 to 1 trend against intervention in the European conflict, the anti-war percentage in the Illinois poll crept upward daily until it reached 80 per cent, or 4 to 1. First returns were printed on July 3, and additional results on each succeeding day save for the issue of July 5. No count was made on July 4 because of the national holiday.

Downstate sentiment was obtained by sampling one-tenth of the registered electorate in the following cities: Aurora, Bloomington, Cairo, Danville, East St. Louis, Galesburg, Peoria, Rockford, and Springfield.

Percentage of Returns.

Returns from Cook county were 31 per cent of the ballots mailed, and by coincidence this figure applied both to the city wards and the country towns. In the city, 191,246 ballots were mailed, and 59,314 were marked and returned. The suburbs returned 11,312 of the 36,491 sent out.

Downstate, 6,603 of the 29,737 ballots mailed were sent back. This was a 22.2 per cent return. The state-wide return was 30 per cent.

Only one city ward—the 24th—voted consistently for war, the final percentage being 53.3. Coincidentally, the 24th also returned the smallest percentage of ballots mailed—19.2 per cent, or a little less than one of every five mailed to voters there.

Slight War Majority.

The 24th has an extremely heavy Russian Jewish and Polish population, a great many residents being foreign born. From the second day of the poll it has cast a slight majority for intervention.

The banner ward in percentage of returns was the 47th on the north side, where 41.8 per cent of all ballots sent were marked and mailed back. It was also one of the strongest anti-war wards, voting 89.4 per cent against intervention.

The banner ward for peace was the 45th, also on the north side, which has many voters of German descent. Noninterventionist sentiment in the 45th stayed above 90 per cent almost continuously and closed at 90.9 per cent.

Next highest in anti-war strength was the 9th, on the far south side, including the Pullman district, where the noninterventionist percentage was 90.12. The 9th has many Italian and Polish voters in the Pullman section, and there are also Swedish and Dutch families in the Roseland district.

Results in Other Wards.

The 26th ward ran next to the 24th in interventionist strength, turning in a final prowar percentage of 36.3. It has a large Polish majority, with some Russian and a few Italian residents.

Comparatively high prowar percentages were found in the largest colored wards, the 2d and 3d, where in-

GERMANS CLAIM ARMY HAMMERS AT KIEV'S GATES

Leningrad Caught in Vise, Berlin Reports.

BERLIN, July 14 (AP).—Kiev is under such pressure by air and land that word of its capture is expected any time. German tanks on the Moscow side of the Stalin line are jabbing toward the Russian capital, and Leningrad is caught in a German-Finnish vise.

Informed Germans tonight made these statements in giving their broad outline of the war against Russia, at the end of the second day of its fourth week. These areas—Leningrad in the north, Moscow in the center, and Kiev in the south—constitute the main front.

Report Break Thru.

The German high command in another of its uncommunicative moods said simply that "break-thru operations" against the Stalin line continued on schedule, that Finnish forces had opened a two point attack on Leningrad's northern flank, and that two Russian patrol boats had been sunk by German submarines.

One break-thru was said to have been at Opochka, midway between Polotsk and Pskov and near the Latvian frontier.

Finnish forces under Field Marshal Mannerheim were said to be moving down on Leningrad on both sides of Lake Ladoga where Finland's frontier lies about 75 miles from the Russian industrial center and war base.

Such was the sum of the most official news on the campaign. Authorized spokesmen and DNB, official news agency, filled in other details. They said that German, Hungarian, and Rumanian forces were hammering at the gates of Kiev, gateway to the Ukraine's richest industrial and farming areas. The land assault was complemented by an air attack which "leveled warehouses, hangars, and even destroyed the city's waterworks."

Smash at Rail Lines.

The air force smashed at rail lines leading into Kiev, and several trains were derailed, blocking traffic. An authorized source said there was no word the attackers had entered Kiev but that it could be expected.

Mannerheim's Finns were represented as a sort of hammer striking down on a Leningrad held on the anvil of German panzer [armored] forces advancing in the area east of Lake Peipus.

Berlin newspapers reverted to the old czarist name of St. Petersburg for Leningrad, so named for the founder of the communist state, Nikolai Lenin.

[St. Petersburg was founded by Peter the Great in 1703 in a territory which he had wrested from the Swedes. In 1712 the place was inaugurated as the capital of Russia. At the time of the death of Peter, in 1725, it already had risen to a populous city.]

Heavy equipment which the Russians were dragging out of the hot, central section east of Minsk was subjected to aerial bombardment.

Planes Bomb Railways.

The region directly east of Vitebsk was the scene of a concentrated air attack. The Germans said that more bombs fell on rail lines radiating from Smolensk and Leningrad and that the railways had been broken in so many places they could be counted out as a means of army transport in extensive regions. Vitebsk is half way between the former line of demarcation in old Poland and Moscow. Smolensk is 230 miles southwest of the soviet capital.

The Germans admitted that the Red air force was still in the air, but asserted its power was ebbing hourly. DNB reported 167 Russian planes destroyed yesterday.

German commentators stressed military reports that all strategically important stretches of the Stalin fortifications had been penetrated and that the expansive interior of Russia now lay open to the German army.

Nazis Claim New Advances in Russia

2 Sides of Red-British Accord

Suicide Pact—Berlin.

BERLIN, July 14 (AP).—The German press today turned editorial thunder on Britain for her joint action accord with soviet Russia. The Hamburger Fremdenblatt said:

"The reich regards with increasing loathing the fact that England and the communist world revolution now march side by side. The pact which Britain and the soviets made is for Europe an alliance aimed at the entire occident.

"England has brought America to Iceland and now fills the cup of her wickedness by obligating herself to fight to the end beside bolshevism against Germany."

"Both would-be suicides have fettered themselves one to the other so that one won't jump out of the moving train without the other," one said.

Asked if Germany would make peace with the Stalin régimé if it asked for terms [that is, contrary to the provision against a separate peace in the British-Russian agreement], the spokesman replied that Germany had a mandate from all Europe to liquidate bolshevism and, therefore, could not compromise with bolshevists.

Our Allies—London.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 14.—London's newspapers today continued to discuss the underlying significance of the new British-soviet pact, which pledged the two countries to give each other assistance in the war against Germany.

"Soviet Russia's part of the bargain is clear," Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard said. "By this act she pledges herself, if need be, to fight for every yard of the 8,000,000 square miles of the soviet union."

[This apparently means that Britain demands Russia live up to a provision of the accord, namely, not to make a separate peace with Germany.]

The Evening News said the blunt fact of the treaty "remains that Russia and Britain are allies." It declared: "Whether we are called cobelligerents, partners, or plain allies, the Russians in the east join hands with us in the west against the common enemy, and we must fight together without any mental reservations or wobbling prejudices."

The Star, captioning an editorial "Our Ally," said: "Our rulers, with a refreshing clear sightedness, have swept old prejudices aside. America, which feared communism more than any other democracy, helped show the way [toward an accord]."

WAVES OF HITLER PANZER LEGIONS CUT DOWN—REDS

MOSCOW, July 15 [Tuesday] (AP).—Russian forces battling Adolf Hitler's legions by land and sea inflicted heavy losses on Nazi units on the eastern battle front, and sank two German destroyers and 13 transports out of a big Baltic convoy, the soviet information bureau announced today.

The war bulletin said wave upon wave of German troops were cut down yesterday in the fourth day of a mighty German assault in the northwest, west and southwest—gateways to Leningrad, Moscow, and Kiev. The bulletin painted this picture of the battle;

One hundred tanks and countless automobiles were destroyed alone in the fighting in the vicinity of Vitebsk, some 300 miles from Moscow.

Capture German Weapons.

On the southwestern front, in the vicinity of Novograd Volynski, 120 miles west of Kiev, the defenders of the Ukraine captured a number of cannon, machine guns, automobiles, and other munitions from Hitler's panzer [armored] units.

In this clash the Russians defeated a German unit of some 3,000 men.

For the first time in recent days the official account failed to mention by name any of the towns about which the main fighting has been raging.

The pounce on the Nazi convoy in the Baltic occurred Sunday after the troop and munitions laden vesels were spotted by planes of the Red air force.

13 Transports Damaged.

In addition to the ships and a barge load of tanks sunk 13 transports were reported damaged by the "combined fury" of the attacking Red fleet, air force, and coastal battery units. The communique added that not a single soviet plane or ship was lost in this encounter.

Official accounts from the Russian command continued to emphasize the activity of the Red air fleet. The destruction of 94 German war planes during Sunday, against the loss of only 12 soviet craft, was announced.

Moreover, German motorized troops were under running aerial attack during the night, and Jassy, the oil center of Ploesti, and Roman—all in German-allied Rumania—were bombed.

To illustrate the Russian version that air attack is making the German armored wings increasingly vulnerable, the official news agency Tass declared that in a single dawn attack nine soviet bombers smashed 12 Nazi tanks.

New Zealanders Replace 33% Loss in Crete, Greece

WELLINGTON, N. Z., July 14.—The New Zealand expeditionary force, which lost one-third of its men in the Greece and Crete campaigns, again is at full strength, according to an announcement here today. It was said the force obtained replacements from "ample reserves, many of which had received considerable desert training." It also was reported that heavy equipment lost in Greece has been largely replaced.

PETAIN ADMITS SYRIAN DEFEAT; AGGRESSION HIT

Armistice Signed; Five Week War Ends.

VICHY, France, July 14 (AP).—Chief of State Marshal Petain formally announced France's defeat in Syria today in two notes, one to the civilians and the other to the soldiers in that country.

In both, he expressed gratitude for conduct of the campaign and promised that France will remain closely attached to her mandates.

To the soldiers the marshal said, "After a month of bitter but unequal combat we have been forced to lay down our arms."

To the civilians he wrote, "As a result of unjustifiable aggression and as a victim of an unequal fight, France is going to suffer an eclipse in the Levant as sad for her as for you."

The official French information office said that in negotiating peace terms France had been able to "transform an insolent political ultimatum to which it was unable to subscribe without dishonor into an honorable military convention."

Armistice Signed at Acre.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 14 (AP).—British and French officials today formally signed the armistice ending the five-week-old middle east war in which Frenchmen fought Frenchmen and former ally battled former ally, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, British commander in the middle east, announced here.

The document was signed in Acre, Palestine, at 2 p. m. [7 a. m. Chicago daylight time], two days after actual cessation of hostilities.

Negotiations leading to the final signature were carried on at Acre by Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, commander of British forces in Palestine and Trans-Jordan, and Gen. Henri Dentz, the French commander in Syria. The armistice had been initiated there Saturday.

Terms of the armistice were not disclosed immediately, but jubilant Britons declared it vastly strengthened their war hand in the middle east against any axis design on its rich oil fields and the Suez canal. They said, too, that it greatly bolstered the position of wavering Turkey, Syria's next-door neighbor.

14,000 French to Enter Turkey.

ALEXANDRETTA, Turkey, July 14 (AP).—Fourteen thousand Vichy French soldiers will cross the border from Syria into Turkey within 48 hours, thus surrendering one of France's richest World war prizes, informed sources said tonight. They will enter this country at Antioch, these informants announced.

[British armistice terms, not yet made public, were said to have given officers and men of the Vichy forces in the Levant the option of returning to France or joining "Free French" De Gaullists.]

U. S. FREE TO TAKE ATLANTIC ISLES, WELLES ASSERTS

Tells Portugal They Must Stay in Friendly Hands.

Washington, D. C. July 14 (AP).—The United States insisted anew today that Portugal's strategic Atlantic islands must remain in "friendly hands" and that American policies are directed toward that end.

Discussing the question of the Azores and Cape Verde islands at his press conference, Sumner Welles, acting Secretary of State, emphasized that the United States has no desire to see any change of Portuguese sovereignty or jurisdiction over these Atlantic outposts.

Welles indicated, however, that assurances given to Portugal regarding American intentions were qualified by the "'friendly hands" policy and in no way binds the United States to keep hands off the islands in all circumstances.

Quotes President's Warning.

Welles referred to President Roosevelt's message to congress last week on the occupation of Iceland. He recalled the President's assertion that it is vital to American security that Atlantic outposts "remain in friendly hands" and that the United States cannot permit their occupation by Germany to be used "as air or naval bases for eventual attack against the western hemisphere."

Welles made his comment in connection with a statement by the Portuguese minister, Joao de Dibianchi, in New York Saturday, that Portugal had received assurances that the United States will not move into the Azores or Cape Verde islands.

Dibianchi said Portugal has "full confidence in the United States government" but that precautions were being taken against an attempt from any quarter to seize the islands.

Portuguese Since Discovery.

Welles mentioned the recent exchange of diplomatic notes in which the United States assured Portugal that it had no aggressive intentions toward the Atlantic islands, but that American policy is based "upon the inalienable right of self-defense."

The Azores and Cape Verde islands have been Portuguese possessions since their discovery in the 15th century.

The Azores are in the North Atlantic, 2,000 miles east of New York, 1,100 miles southeast of St. John's, Newfoundland, and 900 miles west of Lisbon.

AXIS BOMBERS MAKE 2D RAID ON SUEZ CANAL

CAIRO, Egypt, July 14 (AP).—Axis planes carried out another raid on the Suez canal zone overnight, the Egyptian government disclosed today, but it said only a few bombs were dropped and damage was slight. One person was killed.

Two ships were destroyed and another was set afire yesterday in a British air raid on a convoy outside Tripoli, Libya, the RAF middle east communique reported.

Fail to Break Tobruk Seige.

ROME, July 14 (AP).—Two British attempts to break the three month siege of Tobruk have been shattered by the axis besiegers of the Libyan coastal town, official Italian reports said today.

Stefani, the official news agency, said that late last Friday afternoon British infantry patrols felt out the Italian-German lines and followed this with an attempt to break the siege ring "at any cost, with the use of larger and more powerful forces."

The British started a mass attack Friday night "with intense artillery, machine gun forces, and a considerable number of tanks in the zone of the Tobruk-El Adem highway," the agency went on, adding that after the sharp clash the British had to fall back, leaving dead, wounded, prisoners, arms, and tanks on the field of battle.

British Naval Sloop Sunk; Fate of 188 Aboard Veiled

Twins Enlist

Onlookers thought they were seeing double when George Murray Jr. and William A. Murray, 261 Beach road, Glencoe, were sworn into the Army Air corps in the army recruiting office at 460 South State street yesterday.

Identical twins, the Murray boys were co-captains last season of the Washington and Lee university track team. They are 22 years old. They will be given a pilot's training course at Texas Aviation school, Fort Worth, Tex.

Also sworn in yesterday was Winston Spencer Churchill, 12001 Eggleston avenue, a namesake of the British prime minister. Churchill will take a pilot's course at Corsicana, Tex.

IT'S NAZIS' TURN TO SUFFER AN AIR BLITZ: CHURCHILL

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—In two speeches breathing confidence and defiance, Winston Churchill jubilantly declaimed today to cheering thousands of London's civilian defenders that the tables are turned and the time has come for Germany to suffer the terror from the skies she has dealt on Britain.

"In the last few weeks alone," he said, "we have thrown upon Germany about half the tonnage of bombs thrown by the Germans upon our cities during the whole course of the war. But this is only the beginning. And we hope by next July to multiply our deliveries manifold.

"It is for this reason . . . that I must ask you to be prepared for severest counter-action by the enemy."

Churchill added "there can be no truce or parley with Hitler or the grisly gang who did Hitler's worst."

GOERING OUSTER RUMOR DOUBTED IN SWITZERLAND

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

BERNE, Switzerland, July 14.—The report that Reich Marshal Hermann Goering has been ousted from his various positions in the German government and armed forces could not be confirmed here today. To neutral observers familiar with the German situation it seems highly unlikely that the report is true.

Newspaper men recently returned from Germany reported no evidence of a rift between Reichsfuehrer Hitler and his announced successor. These informants, moreover, consider that it would be misdirected speculation to count on the flight of Rudolf Hess being followed at this time by further serious differences of opinion among the hierarchy of Germany's leaders.

The responsibilities borne by Marshal Goering, it was said, are so manifold and all-important that his ousting would be a prelude to a drastic reorganization of the German governmental and army setup.

RAF BOMBS 5 NAZI SHIPS AND SHOOTS DOWN 9 PLANES

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—The RAF went hunting today for German shipping and German planes, found both and, to tabulate the British reports, scored hits on five ships totaling 22,500 tons and shot down nine aircraft.

A tenth German plane, the second bomber of the day, was credited to anti-aircraft defenses along the Scottish east coast. The other bomber was destroyed by fighters off the coast of Wales.

The RAF made morning raids on the German held French ports of Cherbourg and Le Havre, rail yards at Hazebrouck, near St. Omer, and in the afternoon big Blenheims of the bomber command attacked a small convoy in the North sea.

The attack on Cherbourg was costly, for the British acknowledged loss of two bombers and four fighters. However, seven German fighters were claimed there and at Le Havre.

[The Germans said nine British planes were shot down near Le Havre. The Nazi air force was credited with firing two freighters and scoring direct hits on two other ships in a convoy. Ports on the southern and southeastern coast of Britain were attacked.]

SHAFER TELLS COL. WEDGWOOD HE'S UNGRATEFUL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 14.—Biting criticism of Col. Josiah C. Wedgwood, a member of the British parliament and prominent leader of the British Labor party, now engaged in a war propaganda drive in the United States, was voiced in the house today by Representative Paul W. Shafer (R., Mich.).

Col. Josiah C. Wedgwood.

In a recent Boston speech, Shafer noted, Wedgwood declared that "the trouble with you Americans is you are afraid to assume responsibility. Your President has assumed a large share of responsibility, it's true, but why haven't you got a sensible congress? After all this is your war and you are in it up to your necks."

"Mr. Speaker," Shafer declared, "perhaps Col. Wedgwood is both right and wrong. It may be that this congress did not exhibit any great amount of common sense when it voted to underwrite Great Britain's war, especially in view of our experience in underwriting the first World war for Great Britain.

A Threat of Bankruptcy.

"And most certainly we have assumed a responsibility that threatens to bankrupt this nation both in blood and treasure in passing the lease-lend bill and appropriating billions of dollars for Great Britain's new war.

"I should like to address from the floor of this house a few remarks to this distinguished member of another parliamentary body.

"Yes, Col. Wedgwood, this congress exhibits a lack of good common sense when it permits you and other British politicians to dictate much of the legislation which it has passed in recent months. But don't you think that you are both discourteous and a bit ungrateful in asserting to the American people that they do not have a sensible congress?

Crude for Cultured Man.

"Really, now, don't you think that your comments in your Boston speech are a little crude for a cultured Englishman?

"About the only sensible thing this congress has done in the last eight years was to attempt to keep out of your foolish war, but you and other British politicians whom we have permitted to go marauding over our country have been so successful in selling your wares—war and crockery—that many members of congress who have heretofore been opposed to war are now ready to follow the pack.

"I fear it won't be long now before our youth will be replacing your boys, not only in Iceland but on the battlefields of Europe and Africa."

JAP PORT CLOSED TO ALIENS; HINT SOUTHWARD PUSH

Reservists Called as Kobe Is Shut for Ten Days.

SHANGHAI, July 14 (AP).—Closing of the Japanese port of Kobe to foreigners for 10 days from tomorrow was reported today and word ran thru the far east that a new Japanese move was pending, probably against French Indo-China.

Word filtering out of Japan said also that a number of reservists had been called to active duty in the Japanese army. Kobe is a likely point of embarkation from Japan for any troop movement to the south.

[London sources predicted a Japanese attack on Indo-China and Thailand (Siam) as preparation for a drive against the oil and rubber producing islands of the Netherlands East Indies. They expected Japan to try to catch Britain and the United States involved in the Atlantic and establish sea and air bases at Saigon and Bangkok from which to threaten British Singapore.]

Deliberate Reports?

Japanese military and naval quarters in Shanghai appeared to be deliberately letting reports spread that Japan intended to attack Russia in Siberia—either on the day Moscow falls or on Aug. 15.

Foreign military men, however, were convinced that this was a combination war of nerves on Russia and a smoke screen. They said Indo-China would be the object of the next Japanese move.

A dispatch from Saigon said tension was apparent there, with all quarters expecting a sudden Japanese thrust.

Altho foreign military quarters discounted rumors of isolated clashes between Russian and Japanese forces along the Manchukuo frontier, they said Japan might risk tackling the Red army in Siberia if European Russia collapses. Soviet forces in the east are estimated at about 39 divisions [more than 500,000 men]. A number of Red submarines are based at Vladivostok.

Heavy activity has been reported along the railway from Mukden, southern Manchukuo, to the soviet frontier.

Restrict Phone Messages.

TOKIO, July 14 (AP).—Japan tightened control of her telephone and telegraph services today with orders that the languages used in messages abroad must be restricted by areas to Japanese, German, English, Chinese or Manchu and further limited within the empire.

The communications ministry announced these main points, effective immediately:

Only Japanese, German or English is to be used in telegrams sent abroad, messages in code must have translations attached.

In telegraphing and telephoning to the continental countries of Europe only German or Japanese is permissable.

Persons telephoning other countries, with the exception of China and Manchukuo, must use English. In telephoning to China and Manchukuo, the use of only Japanese, Chinese or Manchu is authorized. Within the empire, only the Japanese language may be used on the telephone.

19 TAXI DRIVERS HELD IN DEATH OF ARTILLERYMAN

Alexandria, La., July 14 [Special].—Nineteen Alexandria taxicab drivers are in the Rapides parish jail pending the outcome of an investigation into the Sunday morning slaying of Private Carl E. Hoppe of Oshkosh, Wis., a member of battery T, 121st Field Artillery, 32d division, stationed at Camp Beauregard.

District Attorney Al V. Hundley, who spent today investigating the killing, said he had been informed Hoppe was an innocent victim of a fight between the drivers and a group of soldiers. Hundley said charges probably would be filed against some of the drivers tomorrow.

According to Sheriff S. L. Calhoun, who also is coroner, Hoppe died of cerebral hemorrhage, caused by a terrific blow on the back of his head, probably with a blackjack.

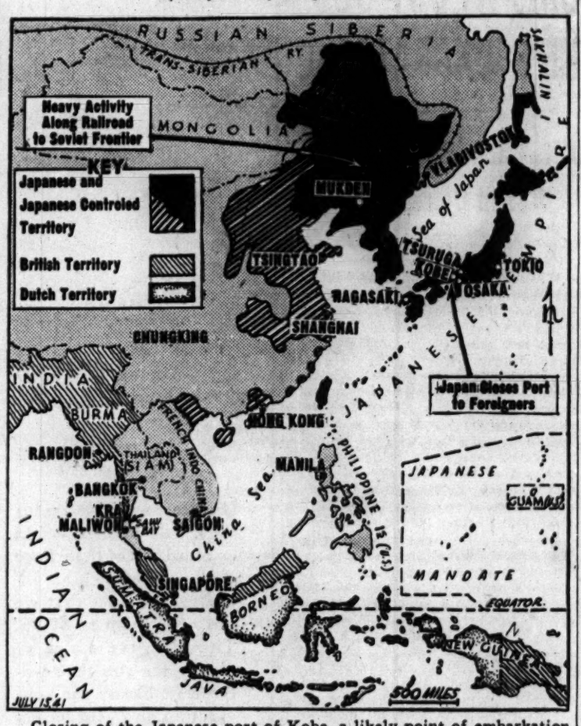
The front of his head also had been struck repeatedly, Calhoun said, and marks on his arms indicated he had been held while the beating was administered.

Mrs. Evelyn Kendall, a waitress in the Spanish tavern, who witnessed the incident which resulted in the fight, at 2 a. m., told police and the sheriff Hoppe was an innocent victim in the clash.

Mrs. Kendall said a soldier named Whittie arrived in a taxicab at the tavern and argued with the driver over his hat, which the driver took when he left. A short time later, she said, three cabs returned, fighting became general, and Hoppe was killed.

Jap Moves Hint New Developments

(Story in adjoining column.)



Closing of the Japanese port of Kobe, a likely point of embarkation from Japan for any troop movement southward, caused reports from the far east that a new Japanese move is pending. An attack on French Indo-China or on Siberia was considered possible.

Fort Bliss, Texas, July 14.—Three types of light commercial airplanes—small, slow flying craft capable of landing in almost any road or open stretch—will be tested for possible adoption by the army air corps during the 15 day cavalry maneuvers which will get under way at dawn tomorrow in the desert 30 miles northeast of Fort Bliss. Seventeen thousand soldiers from Fort Bliss will take part in the war games.

One of the air corps' pressing needs is a plane which can be landed on a figurative dime so it can be kept ready near ground troop command posts, instantly available for spotting troops and communications work.

Ships Are Two Seaters.

For such command and liaison duties the air corps is experimenting with a high winged, all metal airplane, the O-49, manufactured by Vultee Aircraft, Inc., in its Nashville, Tenn., plant.

The planes which will be tested for this use in the current war games—two Aeroncas, two Taylorcraft, and six Piper cubs—arrived at the Biggs field air base here last week. They were flown in by civilian pilots who also will be at the controls during the maneuvers. The ships are two seaters.

Advantage Over Vultee.

Some high officers, both army and air corps, believe these small planes, seen by the dozen at airports thruout the country, are the answer to the air corps' need for a slow and short landing ship. It was said they have several advantages over the Vultee.

They are reported to have about the same flying characteristics as the Vultee, altho they cost about one-eighth as much.

A. E. STEVENSON NAMED AID TO SECRETARY KNOX

Adlai E. Stevenson of 1020 Lake Shore drive, former head of the Chicago chapter of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, will leave for Washington, D. C., this week to become an assistant to Secretary of the Navy Knox. Stevenson, confirming the appointment yesterday, said he will be Knox's legal adviser. He is taking a leave of absence from the law firm of Sidley, McPherson, Austin, and Burgess. Stevenson is a grandson of the late Adlai E. Stevenson, Vice President of the United States during Grover Cleveland's second administration.

2D ARMORED DIV. STILL SHORT OF ITS EQUIPMENT

Report Men Profited by Tennessee Maneuvers.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Benning, Ga., July 14.—When Gen. George S. Patton Jr.'s 2d Armored division takes the field in the coming fall maneuvers, the men will have profited greatly, he believes, from their recent test in the Tennessee exercises. But the division still will be short of its authorized equipment.

The supply of 28 ton medium tanks is its most serious shortage. Scheduled to operate with 108, the division has less than one-third that number, and they are not of the most advanced design.

Those medium tanks on hand are the M2A1, a 25 ton machine. It lacks the heavier armor and the 75 mm. gun with which the latest, the M-3, will be equipped when it begins coming off the Chrysler production lines in quantity. Before the fall maneuvers, the division expects to acquire 30 more of the M2A1 tanks.

30 Short of 273 Allotment.

Its light tanks are rolling in now, the division being only about 30 short of its 273 allotment. However, there are no M-3 "half-tracks," the armored vehicle which rolls on wheels and caterpillar treads. The authorized strength of the M-3 "half tracks," to be used as personnel carriers, is 145. Only a small portion of the 497 M-2 "half-tracks," which will function as reconnaissance and artillery tow cars, is on hand, but by July 24 the division expects to get 18 a day.

To fill in for the shortage of "half-tracks" the division uses the regulation armored scout car. The division also is short nearly 250 of its 796 trucks. Altho its schedule does not call for any of the tiny "blitz-buggies," it has 183 for experimental use as replacements for motorcycles and tricycles.

In the field of ordnance, the division, of course, has none of its 36 105 mm. guns, which are not yet in quantity production. As a substitute it uses the old 75 mm. gun, and has in addition its required allotment of 8 75s.

Equipment Is Listed.

On other ordnance the division lines up in this manner: about 2-3rds of its 30 37 mm. anti-tank guns; about 30 short of its 273 37 mm. guns which are fired from the light tanks; nearly full strength [1,353] of the .30 calibre machine guns, but only half of the 803 guns of the same calibre which will be mounted on all supply trucks; more than the required 2,017 Thompson sub-machine guns; about ¾ of its 835 .50 caliber machine guns; all 1,980 Garand semi-automatic rifles; almost all of the 9,800 pistols and revolvers; all its 61 mm. mortars but only 1-3 of its 20 81 mm. mortars.

The division came back from Tennessee with one death, that of a private killed in a traffic accident. For the entire military personnel of 45,000 at Fort Benning, including the 4th motorized division, the 24th infantry, the 20th engineers, and the two parachute battalions, the death toll in the year ending July 1 amounted to 39. Eleven of these resulted from traffic accidents.

15 Norwegian Governors Quit as Quisling Protest

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 14 (AP).—Reports from Oslo said today that 15 of Norway's 18 provincial governors had submitted their resignations to German Commissioner Joseph Terboven. They were said to have declared they could not tolerate control of civil service by Maj. Vidkun Quisling, Norwegian Nazi leader. The reports from Oslo said two governors had been arrested earlier.

M'NUTT SAYS DIE IS CAST—HITLER MUST BE BEATEN

Declares None Shall Balk U.S. Program.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., July 14.—America's course is set to destroy Hitlerism regardless of personal views, none can longer resist the decision, Federal Security Administrator, Paul V. McNutt declared tonight in an address at the Milwaukee midsummer festival on the lake front.

Mayor Carl Zeidler, who introduced him, said McNutt came as spokesman of President Roosevelt. "The President of the United States has sent us this spokesman for the federal government," the mayor said.

Opposition to McNutt as a speaker had been voiced by Lansing Hoyt, state chairman of the America First committee; the Mothers Mobilizing Against War, and other groups opposed to intervention.

The war is America's because Nazi aspirations and the logic of events point to America as the future object of a more ruthless stage of the battle for world domination, McNutt said.

With the preliminary that the government of the United States does not want war, McNutt said that if the Nazi government should succeed in crushing England, taking Africa, the Near East and Asiatic Russia, the security of the Western hemisphere would be in immediate and deadly peril.

"We stand as the last citadel of the civilization and the ideals heretofore regarded as the ends of life itself," McNutt said. "Nazism and democracy cannot exist side by side."

He declared America is not engaged in making the world safe for communism nor safe for the British empire, but is resisting aggression to make the world safe for Americans. In explanation of the Russian relationship he used the comparison of the man whose house is burning accepting aid from any bystander without inquiring as to his religion.

ARGENTINE EGGS TO BE IMPORTED BY U. S. DEALER

Result of Price Increase on Aid to Britain.

Because lease-lend purchases of eggs for Britain have raised prices in this country to the highest levels in years, dealers will import large quantities from Argentina, they disclosed yesterday. Up until 1938 Argentina was our best export egg market.

Charles S. Borden of the Chicago office of the Great Western Distributors, New York produce house, announced that his company would purchase 60,000 dozen Argentine eggs a week starting July 21.

Borden said that his company had contracted for 360,000 dozen—30 rail carloads—and is considering importing eggs from Argentina on a much larger scale if the shipments are consistently good in quality.

Undercut Domestic Prices.

He said the present high prices for eggs had caused Argentine dealers to offer to sell this country large quantities at prices well below those paid domestic producers.

The Argentine eggs are being offered to dealers and retailers by Great Western at 28½ cents a dozen in New York. Eggs of a comparable grade from midwestern farms sold at 28 cents a dozen in New York yesterday.

Borden said that the eggs had been purchased from Argentine dealers who have guaranteed weekly deliveries of the eggs by refrigerated boats. The import duty will amount to about 10 cents a dozen.

Exceeds Imports in 1940.

The initial egg purchase by Great Western exceeds total imports of eggs from all countries into the United States last year. In 1940 imports totaled 227,411 dozens having a total value of $42,482. The department of agriculture reports most of the eggs came from Canada, the far east, and some European countries prior to the German invasion.

"In the last year or two Argentina has been selling a few surplus eggs to Great Britain," Borden said. "Britain can't get credit in Argentina. Besides, the United States is supplying eggs to Britain. Hence, since the lease-lend program has pushed prices up so high, Argentina plans to sell her surplus eggs to America."

Under the lease-lend program the department of agriculture has purchased 26,892,240 dozen eggs—approximately $6,000,000 worth—to give countries opposing the axis, principally Great Britain. In addition, it has bought several million dollars' worth of frozen and dried eggs. Dealers said the effect of the buying was reflected in the rise of the Chicago price of eggs from 17 cents a dozen at this time last year to 27 cents a dozen at wholesale yesterday.

Production Sets Record.

Egg production in the United States on July 1 was at an all-time high. Production in 1940 was 3,240 million dozens, also a record. At the first of this month this country had reserve supplies of 19,354,000 dozens in cold storage. The government owned 981,000 dozens of this total.

Importation of eggs from Argentina is another example of the effect the lease-lend program is having on domestic markets, dealers asserted. Since the United States has been buying pork to give Britain, Canada has started exporting increasing quantities of live hogs to the United States to take advantage of high prices. Up until adoption of the lease-lend bill, the department was spending millions of dollars annually removing surplus eggs and pork products from the markets to maintain prices.

British Rubber for Sale in U. S.; Embassy Replies to Criticism

Firm to Protest

A small rubber manufacturing company, facing shutdown thru government curtailment of civilian rubber consumption, has received a letter from a British firm offering to supply any type of rubber product, an official disclosed yesterday. The official is William H. Boyd, treasurer of the Vail Rubber Works, Inc., St. Joseph, Mich., which manufactures highly specialized rollers for paper mills, tanneries, and meat packers.

His company, Boyd said, is being strangled by a government order issued in June that crude rubber consumption must be cut 20 per cent in the next six months. He said he will protest to the Office of Production Management as the result of the letter from Anglo-American Equipments, Ltd., Birmingham, England.

All Kinds of Rubber Goods.

It is dated and postmarked June 19, the day before the government reduction order was disclosed. The letter says the firm is "in a position to supply you with all kinds of rubber goods either finished or unfinished which are manufactured in this country."

"As you know, there is a great deal of export trade at the present time," the communication continued, "and we shall be very pleased to receive a definite inquiry from you to which we will give our immediate and best attention."

Boyd said he is going to ask federal authorities why the British, apparently plentifully supplied with rubber, should profit by forced American scarcity.

Asks Rubber in Return.

"We're doing everything we can to help the British, but what are we receiving in return?" he said. "Why don't they give us some of that rubber in return for all we're giving them?"

Boyd said he could not explain how the British firm obtained the name of his company. As far as he knows, he said, there is nothing to prevent his doing business abroad if he chooses since Anglo-American Equipments offered finished and unfinished materials and the reduction order applies to crude rubber.

Boyd said his company probably would be forced to close because of the specialized nature of its business.

It manufactures only on custom order and, consequently, has used relatively small amounts of rubber in the last year. Supplies generally have been obtained in quantities sufficient only to turn out orders on hand.

The firm's principal customers are devoting an estimated 70 per cent of their productive capacities to rearmament contracts, Boyd said, and would suffer loss of time and money using other types of rollers.

The Vail works has 16 employés.

Claim Exports Cut

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—Great Britain, denying today she was taking advantage of American lease-lend aid to promote her own export trade, asserted she had cut her exports to the bone.

The British embassy issued a statement in reply to criticism in congress and elsewhere. Representative James F. O'Connor [D., Mont.] had asserted American exporters had complained the British were selling American steel and other lease-lend goods to Latin America. He called for an investigation of such "double dealing."

Reports Drop in Exports.

The embassy said it would not be in the interest of Americans for Great Britain to abandon its export trade entirely. By exporting, the statement explained, Britain earns foreign exchange to help pay her way and thus her dependence upon lease-lend aid is reduced. It added, however, that the lease-lend program makes Britain less dependent upon exports and these are fast being reduced as standing orders are filled.

On the question whether lease-lend material supplied to Great Britain might be reexported, the embassy said that American authorities must be satisfied as to the ultimate destination and use of all these goods.

Goods Called Similar.

"It should not be assumed," the embassy said, "that the mere fact we are exporting goods of one sort or another which may be more or less similar in character to goods which we are obtaining from America under the lease-lend act or by cash payment is an indication of any violation of the spirit of the lease-lend act or is in any sense a violation of the letter or spirit of our obligations to the United States."

British shipments to all South American markets have been drastically restricted, the embassy said, except to the Argentine, where large scale British purchases of meat have to be paid for. Argentine trade is being reduced to about half what it formerly was, it was stated.

Britain to Get U. S. Corn.

Great Britain will take about 2,250,000 bushels of government owned corn under the lease-lend program, agriculture department officials said.

It was said the Commodity Credit corporation, owner of the corn stock, would transfer this amount to the Surplus Marketing administration by July 27 for British use.

It was described as a "cash sale" to the SMA, which purchases surplus commodities for Harry L. Hopkins, lend-lease administrator. Details of the transaction with Britain were withheld. The Commodity Credit corporation reported it owned 201 million bushels of corn and held 95,000,000 bushels under loan.

TALMADGE KICKS OUT 2 EDUCATORS ON RACIAL ISSUE

Pair Accused of Favoring Equality of Colors.

Atlanta, Ga., July 14 [Special].—Two prominent educators were dismissed from Georgia's university system today on charges brought by Gov. Eugene Talmadge, who alleged that they had advocated racial equality in the schools.

A Talmadge "hand picked" majority of the university system board of regents voted 10 to 5 to dismiss Dr. Walter D. Cocking, dean of the University of Georgia school of education, and Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, president of the Georgia Teachers' college, after a tumultuous public hearing in the house of representatives chamber.

The hearing was marked by heated verbal exchanges, boos, and applause from packed galleries and the personal appearance of Gov. Talmadge to press his charges. Numerous state patrolmen stood on guard in the chamber.

Upheld at Previous Hearing.

It was the second time Dean Cocking had faced the regents in recent weeks and the first hearing in Dr. Pittman's case. At the original hearing for Dean Cocking, the regents overrode the governor and voted to rehire the educator. Talmadge subsequently shuffled the board membership, replacing three of the dissenting regents with three men of his own choice.

The regents voted to oust the two educators today despite appeals in their behalf by several prominent witnesses, including Dr. Harmon W. Caldwell, president of the University of Georgia, who said he was convinced the charges were untrue.

Talmadge's case against Dean Cocking was based on excerpts from the book, "Brown America," written by Edwin R. Embree of Chicago, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund; testimony by Mrs. Sylla W. Hamilton, a former University of Georgia teacher, and a charge by Regent James S. Peters that Cocking was disbursing Rosenwald money in Georgia "to insinuate such things as this [racial equality] thru our back doors."

Reads Excerpts From Book.

"So long as the Rosenwald fund aided our colored folks, they were welcome," Regent Peters said, waving a copy of "Brown America," at the audience, "but when they put a book like this in our libraries, or attempt to push doctrines like this thru our back doors, I, for one, am going to meet them at the back door and tell them they can't get in Georgia."

He then read an excerpt from the book saying: "The South is coming to realize the cost of prejudice is great in maintenance of two schools, two libraries, two section waiting rooms, separate passenger cars, and white and colored nurses and county welfare agents."

"Thruout this book," Peters declared, "the thought runs, 'erase the feeling of superiority of the white man, not lift the black up.' They want them [the Negroes] to use the same schools, ride in the same trains. They want to pull the white man down and draw the races together. It means they want intermarriage, that's what it means."

Talmadge Puts in a Word.

Dean Cocking, a native of Iowa, formerly superintendent of schools in Texas, Missouri, and Tennessee, and a member of President Roosevelt's advisory council on education, denied the charges.

"July 14 was a great day of national celebration on the yearly calendar of the Republic of France," he said, "for it marked the birth of democracy in that nation. Today, in the year 1941, the French people have been forbidden to celebrate their birth of democracy, for Fuehrer Hitler has said that democracy is dead. Today is July 14 in Georgia, also."

The dean received a long round of applause. He stood directly beside Gov. Talmadge as he spoke. Some one in the audience shouted "Yankee teacher," but this was ignored by the dean.

Dr. Pittman, a native of Mississippi, also appeared at the hearing to deny Talmadge's charges. He had been in the state's university system seven years, while Dean Cocking was engaged four years ago.

U. S. WAR CHOICE MADE, BULLITT TELLS CANADIANS

MONTREAL, Que., July 14 (AP).—William C. Bullitt, former United States ambassador to France, speaking at the University of Montreal today, declared the people of the United States had freely chosen their course in the war and "are ready to face any consequences."

"You have seen enormous deliveries of arms, munitions, planes, merchant ships and warships to our friends who are holding the front lines against the common enemy," he said, "and recently you have seen our marines sent to Iceland and you know that orders have been given to our fleet and to our air force to keep clear the waters of the North Atlantic. You have witnessed the approval which our democratic country has given to these acts of President Roosevelt.

"If Hitler wishes to call these acts, or the acts which will follow, 'war,' let him call them 'war.' The flag of our country has never known defeat and we are certain that it will never be lowered before the Nazis."

PUNCTURE KNOX CENSORSHIP ON ALIENS SAILING

Washington, D. C., July 14 [Special].—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, whose efforts to impose a one-man censorship on the American press have frequently backfired, took a surprise jolt on the chin today from the state department and the Civil Aeronautics board when he attempted to screen the departure tomorrow of the navy transport West Point, carrying to Lisbon, Portugal, 500 Germans and Italians, consular agents and their families, and employés, ordered expelled from this country.

Despite the fact that the sailing time of the former United States liner America had been widely publicized by newspapers and the radio and its safe journey across the Atlantic assured by the British government, Knox had firmly declined to sanction the presence of reporters or cameramen aboard the ship. His officer also had announced a ban on pictures from the air.

A spokesman from Secretary of State Hull's office said there would be no objection to reporters' presence on the pier when the West Point sails. The voyage is under supervision of the state department.

The civil aeronautics board said there was no special regulation forbidding aerial photographs of the ship.

Flying to New York.

San Francisco, Cal., July 15 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Capt. Fritz Wiedemann and Dr. Hans Borcher, high ranking Nazi consuls, their wives, members of their staffs, and a woman employe left early today by airplane for New York to board the naval transport West Point for Lisbon, Portugal, scheduled to sail today. About 16 persons and baggage occupied three planes, for which, it was said, United Airlines charged $14,484. The party had planned to sail for Japan Sunday, but missed the Japanese liner Yawata Maru.

PEEK RIPS PLEA FOR WAR ENTRY TO SAVE TRADE

Charges Selfishness in Reply to Willkie.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14 [Special].—Members of town hall, public affairs discussion group, today heard a plea for nonparticipation in the European war from a representative of middle west noninterventionists. The speaker was George N. Peek, who attacked Wendell Willkie's statement that participation in the European war is necessary to save American foreign trade.

Peek, a farm implement manufacturer of Moline, Ill., was a member of the war industries board in 1917-'19, administrator of the agricultural adjustment act in 1933 and special foreign trade adviser to President Roosevelt in 1934-'35.

Charges Selfish Aims.

"The arguments of the war interventionists stem from selfish interest," Peek charged. "I refer to the international bankers, exporters, and importers, etc., as distinguished from the business concerns which do some foreign business incidental to their domestic business but whose business is primarily domestic.

"We are more nearly self-contained than any other nation. More than 95 per cent of our trade is domestic. Of the remaining 5 per cent, the Americas account for 2 per cent, leaving only 3 per cent for the rest of the world."

Quotes Ford's Remark.

Since the World war nations all over the world have attempted to attain self-sufficiency, Peek asserted. He seconded a remark made by Henry Ford during the depression that "whatever we do we shall need to do at home; the place to revive the standard of living in the United States is within the United States."

"We have the greatest consuming market in the world," Peek continued. "This is our high card. Our purchases from foreign countries support a large part of the economy of many of them. This economy does not shift overnight with the flag of the overlord. It must continue to rely on our market."

June Bomb Deaths Lowest Since July, '40, in Britain

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—The ministry of home security announced today that only 399 persons—175 men, 160 women, and 64 children—were killed in air raids on Britain in June, the lowest of any month since July, 1940. Seven men are missing and 461 persons injured in raids are detained in hospitals. The July, 1940, totals were 258 killed and 321 hospitalized. The nation's heaviest home front casualties were in September, 1940, when 6,954 were killed and 10,615 hospitalized.

NAZI HAS 2 PAIRS OF SHOES, TRIES TO BUY 3D; FINED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 14.—A fine of 1,000 reichsmarks [nominally $400] has been imposed on a Berlin engineer by the city bureau of economics for making application for a certificate to buy a new pair of street shoes without reporting to the authorities that he already owned two pairs of shoes.

An official announcement of the disciplinary action, signed by the mayor, appeared in Berlin papers today. It asserted "the culprit" had endeavored to obtain "possession of a certificate of purchase by making a false and incomplete statement of facts."

It is almost impossible to obtain a certificate of purchase to buy leather footwear because of the shortage of cowhides, vast quantities of which are being used by the German armed forces. Two pairs of shoes are considered quite sufficient for a German citizen, and only by proving that one pair is completely worn out can he even become a candidate for a certificate.

Attempts of an American correspondent armed with the coveted certificate to purchase a pair of summer sandals met with no success along Berlin's principal thorofares. The only footwear offered were canvas topped "ersatz" [substitute] models with half inch wooden soles.

ILLINOIS HOUSE GROUP OPPOSES DRAFT CHANGES

27 United Against Longer Term and AEF.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 14.—The 27 votes commanded by Illinois representatives in the house will be cast solidly in opposition to proposals that conscripted men be kept in service longer than one year, a poll indicated today.

Similarly, every Republican and Democrat from the Prairie state voiced objections to the requests of Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, for authority to send draftees, National Guardsmen, and reserve officers outside the western hemisphere. [The administration late today abandoned plans to push legislation for this second objective.]

Lucas Is Noncommittal.

The two Illinois senators were also polled. Senator Wayland Brooks, Republican, announced his firm opposition to both proposals. Senator Scott Lucas, Democrat, preferred to remain noncommittal. He was the only Illinois member in either house who was reluctant to make his stand public altho he is said to have agreed privately with his colleagues.

Twenty-four Illinois congressmen were polled by reporters. Two were out of town and one other could not be reached. Friends of these missing three members agreed, however, that they have already by public or private expression indicated their distaste for the extension of the one year draft period and the authorization for the second AEF.

If the measure for prolonging the draft period should come to a house vote and the international situation does not change materially, the Illinois delegation would vote as a bloc against the bill. It would be the first time since the Roosevelt administration came into power in 1933 that Illinois Democrats and Republicans would find themselves unanimously agreed on a major measure.

Opposed as Step to War.

This wiping out of party lines indicated the belief of middle west congressmen that the two proposals are a step towards war which is unnecessary in the light of present conditions. Such an administration stalwart, for example, as Representative Adolph J. Sabath, echoed the assertion of Speaker Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], that lengthening of the draft service period would be a breach of contract with the men in uniform. Sabath, a search of the records indicated, has never before opposed a proposal bearing the Roosevelt stamp of approval.

Those who expressed forthright opposition to the Marshall proposals were: Democrats: Edward A. Kelly, Sabath, Anton F. Maciejewski, Leonard W. Schuetz, James M. Barnes, Edwin M. Schaefer, Harry P. Beam, Raymond S. McKeough, and Lawrence F. Arnold. Republicans: Charles S. Dewey, Jessie Sumner, George A. Paddock, Noah M. Mason, Leo E. Allen, Anton J. Johnson, Robert B. Chiperfield, Everett M. Dirksen, Leslie C. Arends, Evan Howell, James V. Heidinger, C. W. Bishop, Chauncey W. Reed, and the two congressmen at large, Stephen A. Day and William G. Stratton.

Absent from the city were Representatives William H. Wheat and Arthur W. Mitchell. Representative Leo Kocialowski could not be located.

CHICAGO FRENCH JOIN OBSERVANCE OF BASTILLE DAY

Chicagoans of French descent observed Bastille day yesterday. About 500 members of Franco-American groups met in Pilsen park, 3048 West 26th street, for a Festival of Liberty, with proceeds going to the "Free French" forces of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Dr. Henri David, former professor of French at the University of Chicago, was in charge of arrangements. Veterans of the French army, "Les Camarades de Combat," met for dinner in the Congress hotel. About 225 attended. The veterans had Raymond Imbault-Huart, French consul, as guest of honor.

Paralysis Spreads

FIGHT INFANTILE PARALYSIS NEAR CAMP OF TROOPS

Tennessee County Has Several Cases.

Nashville, Tenn., July 14 [Special].—State health officials today moved to check the spread of infantile paralysis in Franklin county, on the Tennessee-Alabama border, where ten new cases of the disease have been reported in the last four days. Only one case, thus far, has been fatal.

According to Dr. A. E. Hardison, state epidemiologist, the disease has been spreading northward from Pensacola, Fla., for several months. Early in July the spread had reached northern Alabama, where 68 cases were reported from the counties just south of the Tennessee border.

Children Are Victims.

The ten cases in Franklin county which has a population of 23,000 were all among children less than 5 years old. Dr. H. C. Williams, state health officer, said the spread would be checked if possible and added that there was little the state health department could do aside from enforcing ordinary precautions.

Franklin county is immediately south of Coffee county in which Camp Forrest is located. The 33d division, Illinois National Guard, is in training in Camp Forrest. Aside from the 20,000 troops in Camp Forrest, Coffee county is sparsely populated, having only 19,000 permanent population.

Fatal Case Near Camp.

The one infantile paralysis fatality reported from Franklin county occurred about four miles south of Camp Forrest. There are no cases of infantile paralysis in the camp.

"The 33d division has nothing to fear," Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commander, said tonight. "I went over the situation today with Col. Hew McMurdo, the post surgeon, and was advised that no precautions were necessary."

Gen. Lawton also noted that all of the Franklin county cases were among small children and added that there was nothing army medical officers or any one else could do to check the spread of the disease.

ARMY PURCHASES CAUSE A BOOM AT DRUM PLANT

This new army is going to make a lot of noise—more noise than the 1917 force made, William F. Ludwig said yesterday, on the basis of the order his company received.

Ludwig is head of the WFL Drum company, 1728 North Damen avenue. Company workmen are busy on an order of 1,200 military parade drums and 180 bass drums for the army. During the last war, the army ordered drums in lots of 400, he said.

The present order will cost the army about $20,000.

LENGTHEN TERM FOR DRAFTEES, F. D. R. DEMANDS

Drops Request for AEF Authorization.

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, also was present at the White House conference. Congressional leaders said he strongly urged legislation authorizing retention of draftees and other army personnel in service indefinitely on the ground that release of the troops after a year of service would break up existing trained units at a time when world conditions demand that they be kept intact.

Considered Breach of Faith.

Congressional leaders reported the widespread conviction in congress that retention of the draftees beyond one year would constitute a breach of faith. They reported that there is somewhat less opposition to keeping National Guardsmen, reserve officers and retired personnel on active duty beyond 12 months because they enlisted voluntarily, subject to any action by congress.

However, the President specifically opposed the so-called Rayburn-George compromise, which calls for extending the service of National Guardsmen, reserve officers and retired personnel and offering inducements for the voluntary enlistment of draftees.

Majority Leader Barkley said the proposal to authorize use of draftees and National Guard troops beyond the western hemisphere was not discussed at the White House conference.

No Action Likely Soon.

Senator Hill, when asked about the "expeditionary force" bill, replied: "I see no prospect that anything will be done about that in the near future."

Non-interventionists in congress are satisfied that the conscription act and the National Guard mobilization law, which forbid the use of such troops beyond the western hemisphere except in the territories and possessions of the United States, will prevent the dispatch of an expeditionary force to Europe, Africa or Asia.

They are by no means satisfied, however, that the restrictions of existing law will prevent the President from stretching his definition of the western hemisphere to include Iceland, which already has been occupied by sailors and marines, and perhaps other Atlantic outposts such as the Azores and Cape Verde islands.

FLY 10 AIRLINERS TO AFRICA FROM U. S. FOR BRITISH

Miami, Fla., July 14 (AP).—Ten airliners requisitioned from domestic lines by President Roosevelt have been flown from Miami to British Gambia in Africa, the Miami Herald will say tomorrow. They were routed by way of Natal, Brazil.

Ten other planes are being serviced here while pilots await orders to deliver them to the British in Africa. Transfer of the planes, it was said, is being handled by the Atlantic Airways, Ltd., which has opened offices here.

"Made under the lend-lease act, the plane transfers resulted from an urgent British request for 50 transports to augment its depleted fleets of such air carriers, especially at empire points in Australia, New Zealand, and Egypt," the paper says.

SENATOR LUCAS DECIDES HE WILL NOT WEAR A GAG

Refuses to Be Bound by Secret Sessions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 14.—Veteran members of the senate chuckled today when Senator Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] took the floor and made a public confession.

Senator Lucas.

Senator Lucas is a member of the senate naval affairs committee, which last Friday heard Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, testify in secret session. Secretary Knox, supported by Admiral Stark, admitted that an American destroyer had dropped depth charges over what its commander believed to be a German submarine, but denied all other reports of shooting or combat between American and German war craft in the Atlantic.

Members of the naval affairs committee pledged themselves to the strictest secrecy concerning the testimony. When a reporter for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE saw Senator Lucas he refused to discuss the testimony.

The Story Is Printed.

The reporter assured the senator that THE TRIBUNE, as well as other newspapers, would have the complete story. The Tribune reporter got the story elsewhere.

In the senate today, Senator Lucas explained that he had refused to discuss the testimony with newspaper reporters. But "Lo and behold," he said, "the newspapers published practically everything that transpired in that committee meeting."

"Mr. President, so far as I am concerned, I have been in the senate only a short while, but I learn more as the days go by," Senator Lucas continued. "In the future the senior senator from Illinois will adopt the same position that the late Senator [James] Couzens of Michigan adopted. He refused to be bound by any executive session.

Adopts New Policy.

"I refuse to deny my friends in the middle west, representing the great metropolitan press of that section, information which I believe is worth while, when I learn a little while afterwards that every newspaper in the country is carrying it. From now on, Mr. President, in any meeting of any committee in which I am present, I will not be bound by any executive session, because it is futile and useless to do so."

The naval affairs committee held another executive session this afternoon to consider the report it should make on the Knox-Stark testimony. When the meeting was over, Chairman David I. Walsh [D., Mass.] said the newspapers had rendered a great public service in publishing a full account of last Friday's secret testimony. The press reports were so complete and so accurate that the committee decided not to be in any hurry about filing its report, Chairman Walsh said.

300 Stores Face Closing Over Tobacco Licenses

Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli said yesterday in License court that 300 retail stores, mostly restaurants and drug stores, will be closed by police for failure to buy tobacco licenses which were due July 1. As a result of a recent police campaign, 1,000 delinquent license cases were called in court yesterday and approximately 700 defendants appeared with their licenses or promised to buy them immediately. Warrants were issued for the 300 who did not appear.

Head of Stalin's Military Mission Reports on British

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—Return of the head of the soviet military mission in London and one of his aids to Moscow to report to Joseph Stalin was announced tonight. Lieut. Gen. Golikov, leader of the mission which arrived here July 8, and Col. Dragun already are in Moscow, the announcement said. They will come back to London soon, it was stated.

terventionist strength ran 30 per cent. This was a greater prowar sentiment than in most of the other subdivisions of the city.

The neighbors of Senator Wayland Brooks in the 49th ward upheld the noninterventionist position he has taken in Washington, voting 24.8 per cent for war and 75.2 per cent for peace. In Gov. Dwight H. Green's old ward—the 46th— the percentages were 19.7 for war and 80.3 against war. Mayor Kelly's ward is the 42d, where interventionist strength was recorded at 27.3 per cent and sentiment for peace at 72.7 per cent.

Congressmen's Home Wards.

The home wards of Chicago's congressmen cast the following percentages against war: Arthur W. Mitchell, 2d, 70.1 per cent; Raymond S. McKeough, 8th, 88.4 per cent; Edward A. Kelly, 18th, 89.9 per cent; Harry P. Beam, 12th, 79.1 per cent; A. J. Sabath, 21st, 74.4 per cent; Leonard W. Schuetz, 35th, 84.1 per cent; Leo Kocialkowski, 32d, 63.7 per cent, and Charles S. Dewey, 43d, 83.7 per cent.

Congressman A. F. Maciejewski lives in Cicero, where the anti-war sentiment was recorded as 78.5 per cent, and Congressman George A. Paddock lives in Evanston, whose voters turned in 83.7 per cent against intervention. Both men have Chicago territory in their districts. All of the above, with the exception of Dewey and Paddock, are Democrats.

Downstate, Aurora returned the largest number of ballots mailed, sending back 28.0 per cent, while Springfield, the capital, made the smallest showing, with a return of only 15.5 per cent.

Aurora 90.1% Anti-War.

Aurora was also the top anti-war city, recording 90.1 per cent against intervention. Galesburg was next, with 87.4 per cent, and Rockford third, with 85.5 per cent.

The only city to vote for war was Cairo, 400 miles from Chicago and the southernmost point in the state, separated from Missouri by the Mississippi river and from Kentucky by the Ohio. Cairo is more of a southern town than any other Illinois municipality and is farther south, geographically, than even Richmond, Va. The final pro-war percentage in Cairo was 54—about what it has been in the daily totals.

East St. Louis cast the closest vote of any city, finishing at 50.9 per cent against war after jumping across the line within the last few days.

Industrial Cities Recorded.

East St. Louis and Rockford are industrial cities. The former virtually straddled the fence throut the poll, but Rockford, with a large population of Swedish descent, plumped hard against war from the start. Peoria, seat of the state's distilling industry and a principal tractor manufacturing center, registered its sentiment between East St. Louis and Rockford, turning in 71.6 per cent against war.

Galesburg, Bloomington, Danville, and Springfield dot the corn belt in central Illinois. The first three recorded anti-war strength in the 80s, but Springfield registered only 72 per cent against intervention.

Hitler Confers Decoration on Panzer General in East

Final War Poll Results in City, Suburbs, and Downstate

Final results are given below in The Chicago Tribune's war poll, conducted on the question: "Shall the United States Enter the War to Help Britain Defeat Hitler?" Every 10th voter on the polling lists in Chicago, Cook county, and nine downstate cities was sent a ballot.

NEW YORK STATE VOTES AGAINST WAR BY 7 TO 3

Final Ballots Counted by Daily News.

New York, July 14 [Special].—America shall not enter the second World war unless it goes in contrary to a clear and decisive mandate delivered by the voters of New York in the New York Daily News poll which ended today. The people of this state are opposed to a shooting alliance with England against the Nazis by an overwhelming majority of more than 7 to 3.

The postcard referendum on one of the most critical issues ever to face this republic wound up with a smashing victory for isolation from the overseas conflict. Ballots went to every 10th registered voter. A total of 174,309 citizens voted "yes" or "no" on the question: "Shall the United States enter the war to help Britain defeat Hitler?" Here are the final results:

Yes [for war]: 51,507, or 29.5 per cent.

No [against war]: 122,802, or 70.5 per cent.

Every one of 119 political units in the state—62 assembly districts in the five boroughs and 57 upstate and Long Island counties—were represented in the closing tallies. The upstate percentage against was 71.8. Following are the final state-wide results:

	Yes. Total.	Pct.	No. Total.	Pct.
Upstate totals	16,068	28.2	40,907	71.8
City totals	35,439	30.2	81,895	69.8
State-wide totals	51,507	29.5	122,802	70.5

	Pct.		Pct.
Manhattan	63.3	Queens	81.8
Bronx	69.5	Staten Island	82.9

BRITAIN JUDGES PLEAS OF 45,000 WAR OBJECTORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 14.—Ministry of labor statistics disclosed tonight that 60,000 men in Britain have registered as conscientious objectors since the outbreak of the war. The 20 tribunals set up to consider their cases have dealt with about 45,000, of whom 28 per cent were removed from the conscientious objectors' register, 30 per cent were enrolled in noncombatant duties, 36 per cent are doing civil or agricultural work, and only 6 per cent unconditionally exempted from the fighting services or war work of any kind.

GEN. LEAR IN CITY; MUM ON 'YOO-HOO' YELLS AT GIRLS

Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear, commander of the 2d army, came to Chicago last night and was perfectly willing to talk about anything except his order disciplining 350 soldiers of the 110th Quartermaster regiment, 35th division, for whistling and yelling at shortskied girls on a Memphis golf course.

Asked at the Stevens hotel about columnists' reports that he was piqued because the shouting caused him to miss a four inch putt the general grinned. "I never missed a four incn putt in my life," he said. He added that his official report of the affair, which has drawn threats of a congressional investigation, was in the hands of the war department.

Gen. Lear, his aide, Capt. John B. Snowden, and Maj. John B. Sherman, a grandson of the Civil war general, are en route to Fort Sheridan for a mobilization training test of anti-aircraft troops there. Gen. Lear said the men of the 2d army are "splendid," and added that while he regretted the shortage of weapons it was natural at this time. The Germans, he said, were short of weapons during that army's early training. He will return to Memphis in a couple of days.

NO WAR LEADERS HAIL OUTCOME OF TRIBUNE POLL

Urge It Be Mentioned in Letters to Congress.

Congressman Karl E. Mundt [R., S. D.] yesterday joined four leaders of the America First committee in urging the people of the United States to call attention of their congressmen to the outcome of The Tribune war poll. The final returns showed an 80 per cent opposition to war among 77,229 residents of Illinois.

The America First leaders who held the poll outcome a strong weapon in the fight to keep President Roosevelt from sending American troops abroad were Gen. Robert E. Wood, acting national chairman; Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, chairman of the Chicago chapter; Janet Ayer Fairbank, vice chairman of the national committee, and R. Douglas Stuart Jr., national director.

Mundt, passing thru Chicago on his way to Washington, D. C., said he believed results of the polls taken by THE TRIBUNE and the New York Daily News "would have a tremendous effect in congress." The New York poll showed a 7 to 3 majorit, against war in that state.

Interventionists "Divided."

"There is less sentiment for intervention than there was 60 days ago," said Mundt. "And I think those against war are making definite headway. Eighty per cent of the people want to stay out of a shooting war, and the remaining 20 per cent are badly divided."

Gen. Wood, in commenting upon the result of the poll, said "that which has been obvious to us, but which the war party refused to admit, has been proved conclusively to be a fact. It has long been obvious that the overwhelming majority of patriotic Americans are in favor of building an impregnable defense for the United States and that it is only a small, but well financed minority which would drag us into war."

Both East and West Opposed.

Mrs. Fairbank held that the two polls proved conclusively that both the east and the west are against war.

Stuart said that one of the most effective arguments in writing congressmen and senators is to mention the outcome of The Tribune poll.

Gen. Hammond said the polls of The Tribune and New York Daily News did a great service in "establishing the fact if we are to have unity the minority had better join with the majority against war."

Sings on W-G-N

Virginia Verrill as she sang over W-G-N last night.

"The Affairs of Tom, Dick, and Harry" wound in and out of route 66 between Camp Robinson, Ark., and Memphis, Tenn., on W-G-N and the Mutual network last evening. Tom, Dick, and Harry, in the rôles of three draftees, gave their version of an army game titled "Don't Whistle at Girls on Golf Courses."

Virginia Verrill, pretty radio songstress and favorite of such network shows as College Humor and Uncle Walter's Doghouse, sang several songs on the W-G-N show and doubled in the draftee sketch as the general's daughter.

Bob Trendler, besides conducting the W-G-N Dance orchestra, took the rôle of a golf playing general. Paul Lafmer wrote the script and Ed Allen served as a stooge to the boys. William A. Bacher is producing the series.

GREEN URGES STATE TO HAVE 'SPIRIT OF UNITY'

Gov. Green last night urged the citizens of Illinois to join in a "spirit of unity to make us work as one magnificent nation to stop the greatest onslaught against liberty the world has ever known." He spoke before 500 persons at a "defense" rally in New Trier High school, Winnetka. The rally was sponsored by the League of Women Voters in north shore towns, and by other civic organizations.

"Great emphasis should be placed on morale and the sacrifices the people must make if we are to have proper defense," Gov. Green said. "'Help Win the Battle of Production' should be a slogan to inspire every person. Thru unity of work and sacrifice we can put the united power of America to work to safeguard our freedom."

Mrs. Walter T. Fisher of Winnetka presided. Frank Bane, director of the division of local and state government coöperattion in the Office of Emergency Management, also spoke.

FIRST ATTACK ON CIGARET TAX LAW IS FILED

The first attack on the constitutionality of the state cigaret tax which became effective July 1 was embodied in a suit filed yesterday in the Circuit court by S. Bloom, Inc., tobacco wholesalers. The suit asked that the tax be declared unconstitutional and that the state be enjoined from making further collections of the tax of 2 cents a package passed on to consumers. The suit, filed by Attorney Raymond Wallenstein, charged that a 5 per cent tax discount allowed distributors under the law is discriminatory, the definition of "distributor" contained in the tax act making a uniform application of the law impossible. Wallenstein asserted that the new act is more objectionable than a previous one ruled unconstitutional by Attorney General George F. Barrett.

SPEAKING OF HORRORS.

The most astonishing thing about the self-styled anti-vivisectionists is their pertinacity in a cause that is as thoroly discredited as it is bad. They have not imposed their particular brand of insanity on a civilized community in years, yet they keep coming up for more.

Their most recent incursion has been at Peoria. The members of the city council, most of whom, by the law of averages, must have some member of their families who is alive today only because of medical progress thru animal experimentation, have been subjected to the usual fictions regarding the horrors to be found in medical laboratories.

A recent dispatch noted that Dr. Anton J. Carlson had landed, and no doubt he has the situation in hand by now. The Peoria affair may safely be left to the doughty doctor and the good sense of the town's own people. It is a pity, however, that men like Dr. Carlson must, from time to time, drop their work against death and human misery to refute once again the time-frayed arguments of ignorance and perverted sentimentality.

Vivisection is an intentionally misleading word. The majority of experimental animals are not subjected to surgery. Those that are are almost invariably placed under a local or general anesthetic, and are painlessly destroyed thereafter—the same fate experimental dogs would meet if they were left in the pounds from which medical laboratories obtain them.

Every medical or other scientific laboratory has the strictest rules, rigidly enforced, to prevent abuse of or cruelty to experimental animals. As scientists have frequently pointed out, the ordinary operations of husbandry, performed without anesthesia, subject animals to more pain in any single day than they have suffered in a century of laboratory experimentation.

The horrors that the anti-vivisectionists portray in experimental laboratories simply do not exist. But since they insist on following this theme of cruelty and agony, here are a few truthful instances—and they could be multiplied, literally, by millions—to which these people might give some attention.

Perhaps they would like to watch a golden haired child of 5 starve to death within a few months, in spite of the most tender care by parents and physicians. That was the almost inevitable fate of child diabetics until the discovery of insulin two decades ago. Insulin was discovered thru experiments on dogs. The hundreds of thousands of diabetics whom it enables to lead normal lives are able to take it with safety only because doses are regularly standardized by experiments on other animals.

Or perhaps they would rather see the trapped agony in the eyes of the father of a family who had just been told that he had Addison's disease, an incurable malady that led to death in a short time. Addison's disease is no longer necessarily fatal. It is controled by cortin, a drug found by experiments on dogs.

Or these self-styled apostles of gentleness might take their stand beside the parents who watch a child stricken with infantile paralysis, not knowing whether the disease will leave the child crippled in mind or body. The convalescent serum that has greatly reduced the fatality and crippling effects of this disease was developed by animal experimentation, which is being continued in the hope of finding a complete cure.

Perhaps they would like to watch the progress of a shambling hulk with a mind arrested in childhood by meningitis. This is one of the many diseases cured by the "miracle drugs," sulphanilamide and its chemical allies. The world would not have them if it had not been for animal experimentation.

Most people have seen a copy of Sir Luke Fildes' famous painting, "The Doctor." It shows Queen Victoria's own physician sitting helplessly by in a humble cottage as a little girl chokes her life away with diphtheria. Such scenes were a commonplace in the childhood of the present generation of adults. They are rare today, because of the antitoxin and the toxoid immunizing agents prepared in the bodies of horses and tested on other experimental animals.

The horrors of cancer need no elaboration. The search for the agents that cause it depends largely on the use of experimental animals. If the anti-vivisectionists had their way, that curse would remain on mankind forever.

The list can be extended almost indefinitely. The prevention of smallpox, yellow fever, typhus, and lockjaw, the treatment of pneumonia, syphilis, scarlet fever, anemia, bubonic plague, gall bladder ailments and gastric ulcer, new technics in surgery, the whole range of vitamins and hormones, the marvelous anesthetic, ethylene—all these and many other medical discoveries owe their debt to animal experimentation.

If the anti-vivisectionists are not moved by human suffering, perhaps they would rather watch a shivering, half paralyzed dog that has been stricken by distemper. The vaccines and serums that are 99 per cent effective in preventing or curing distemper were obtained by experiments on dogs. Pasteur experimented on dogs to develop the vaccine that saves both them and men from otherwise certain death from rabies. Experiments on dogs developed tetrachlorethylene as a cure for the hookworm that formerly killed so many pets. It has since been found useful in treating hookworm in humans.

Where does the cruelty lie—in the scientists who humanely use animals to end human suffering, or with the people who by stopping animal experimentation would deny humanity an indispensable weapon against the scourges that still beset it?

THEY GOT FUN.

Hellzapoppin' with our way of life, says Leon Henderson, or soon will be. And let no one misunderstand Mr. Henderson. He's having fun. There will be wailing and gnashing of teeth. There will be groaning and grunting. There will be shrill cries of protest, but you'll take it and like it. The honeymoon is over, says Mr. Henderson. The play is ended. Them days are gone forever. L. H. and everybody else in the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply chortle at the prospect. There isn't going to be anything for the consumer any more. The American standard of living is tumbling down.

Mr. Nehemkis referred recently to the fact that 10 considerable enterprises in their entirety are about to pass out. They cannot obtain the materials to continue production. The small business man, he said, is on the verge of extinction. The not so quiet satisfaction revealed in these estimates of the future America by the New Dealers who have at last got their way of handling it, is not encouraging.

It is to be suspected that admonitions which come to us regarding the deprivations to be experienced beginning tomorrow or the next day are far from unwelcome in the new order of things. You won't get any pots and pans. You won't get new refrigeration, and possibly not needed parts for the old machine. Your radio will last you till it wears out, and then there will be none. Automobiles will be off the market and there will be no gasoline for the old ones. Silk stockings are out and nylon will go into parachutes. Cosmetics will not be available. The hairdresser will be out of business. Wood for furniture is going for trim for the navy. The consuming public, according to prediction by the New Dealers, more gleeful than unhappy, is going back to the days of its great-great-grandfather.

We are all apparently headed for the underprivileged life, with the commissar making as many calls as the postman.

WE SAMPLE THE FUEHRERPRINZIP.

A citizen of Michigan, temporarily in Texas, writes that he raised a temperature of 120, when, on the Fourth of July, he read in the Houston Chronicle an order from the chief of police of that city to stop all traffic, the afternoon of the Fourth of July, at the time Mr. Roosevelt was to make his speech.

The newsreels for the Fourth, playing up to the idea that the nation was hushed while its chief ruler spoke, show scenes in ball parks and other places of assemblage where an enforced pause was made for the duration of Mr. Roosevelt's pronouncement.

We seem to have suddenly acquired a real dose of the fuehrerprinzip. The solemnity of the semicoercion was relieved only by the irrelevancy of the expected utterance.

The fuehrerprinzip probably gets its original start in the subserviency of zealous lickspittles who anticipate what the ruler would like to have and present him with this form of incense, to which he becomes accustomed and later demands. Persons seeking to acquire merit or gain recognition impose upon other people, and a standard of conduct gains currency and later becomes imperative. This form of obeisance never displeases the person in authority and gradually the bowed head is required whenever the great presence wishes to enjoy it.

Our Michigan friend was alarmed by the police order he read in Houston. We are going that way and will go at a faster pace if people begin to think that it is in the natural order of things for a chief of state to monopolize their attention and command their obedience any time he sees fit to do so.

MECHANIZED LIFESAVERS.

The 80,000 spectators at the Thrill show in Soldiers' Field Sunday saw in the Chicago fire department, which shared the spotlight with the city and park police departments, an organization that has carried mechanization to the same high degree for the protection of life and property that the Nazi army has for their destruction.

Yet in spite of their marvelous mechanical aids, the firemen lead a hazardous life, as the memorial roll that appeared in the picture section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE testified. Since the last Thrill show, nine Chicago firemen have lost their lives in the line of duty.

The fatalities for this particular period were above the average in the department, due to two disasters, one of which, an explosion in a chemical plant, caused damage of only about $100, yet took the lives of four firefighters. Since 1936 the department has lost 17 men in action.

Capable detective work and efficient prosecution have made it extremely unhealthy to shoot a policeman in Chicago. Only one policeman has been murdered in the last 12 months. The forces of nature against which the firemen contend are less easy to control or intimidate than depraved humanity. In spite of modern equipment and magnificent training, the department protects Chicago only at the constant risk of its members' lives.

Editorial of the Day

THE REDISCOVERY OF FEET.

[New York Times.]

One of the good things the army is doing for those who are fortunate enough to be young and healthy enough to be in it is to remind them what feet and legs are for. One reads of "hardening hikes" in which troops march seven or eight miles the first day, 10 the second and 15 the third. This is enough to horrify some of the stay at homes, including those toothy youngsters with upraised thumbs who would rather stand for an hour on a corner waiting for a lift than walk two miles.

Yet most of us, with transportation almost always at our disposal probably underestimate our walking powers as well as the pure joys of walking. We can hardly equal the achievements of the Chinese guerrillas, who make nothing of 40 to 50 miles a day on foot, of such professionals as the late Edward Payson Weston, who once walked 100 miles in a little under 22½ hours, or of such distinguished amateurs as the late Dr. John H. Finley, who modestly acknowledged a record of 70 miles in 24 hours.

Such strolls call for long training, skill [for there is skill in walking well], and fortitude. Almost any one with sound legs and normal feet can walk up to 10 or 15 miles a day and enjoy the experience. There are still many dirt roads for the American walker and thousands of miles of mountain trails for the adventurous. If the army "hardening," plus a not too serious gasoline shortage, encourages this ancient and healthy sport we can write that result down on the credit side of our "unlimited emergency" ledger.

LINCOLN ON RANDOLPH STREET.

The museum of the Grand Army of the Republic in the Chicago Public library contains, in addition to its many relics of the Civil war, a notable collection of Lincoln memorabilia. It is, however, not often mentioned; the collections of the Chicago Historical society and the University of Chicago have overshadowed this shrine. The withering of the ranks of the G. A. R. has also affected public interest in this museum; sightseers seldom go there, and the river of Chicago life pours along Randolph street, to or from the Illinois Central suburban station, without thinking of the Emancipator. [The guides on tourist buses are likely to announce, however, that Jake Lingle was shot near by.]

The Lincoln exhibit there was formed around a collection presented by Charles H. McConnell, who had specialized in unusual specimens of metallic art and portraiture. Two bronze busts of heroic size are of notable value. A portrait by G. P. A. Healy rivals the two other Healy Lincolns in Chicago, in the Historical Society's museum and the Newberry library.

Rare engravings, lithographs, and first editions of Lincolniana in pamphlets and broadsides are numerous. An early print of the Wigwam in Chicago, where Lincoln was nominated for the Presidency, and an unusual photograph of Lincoln's son Tad are items of decided interest.

Lincoln Lore, weekly bulletin of the Lincoln National Life Foundation, calls attention to the need of preserving the collections in G. A. R. halls everywhere, and speaks of Chicago's as one of the most valuable in the country.

PEACE IN THE FIELDS.

Strong, weathered barns and quiet, ordered fields
Speak to my heart with special poignancy;
And past the city's smoke their harvest yields
Its earth-sweet fragrances that breathe for me
A peace that steel and stone can never show.
For men have tilled those fields—not there the strife
For gold and blood, not there the maddening blow
Of sound on weary souls. Life unto life,
Men gave themselves to earth . . . not unto men!
And tho earth's garnered treasure there was won
By toil that ended not till the hour when
Each father turned the long task to his son,
And tho they spent youth's dreams, their feet may stand,

The American Way of Life?

Air-cooled restaurants and central heating; washing machines and salaried education for athletes; million dollar movies and freedom to shift social responsibility onto the government and then squawk about the taxes; automobiles bought on credit and refinanced to pay for the furniture; hygienic marriage laws and collusive divorces; predigested periodicals and prizes for soap wrappers; Thanksgiving, and baseball, and Joe Louis, and Charlie McCarthy; ice cream cones and ASCAP music; labor unions to protect the rights of the workman, who cannot work if the strike boss says no; taverns, and silk on our legs, and free matches with our cigarets; the closed ballot and Negro voices; strip tease and the resurrection of the Lord; shoes on our feet, and food in our bellies, and a song in our hearts, and the right of every man to consider himself an authority on all matters in which he is uninformed, and the right to shoot off his mouth about them——

That's the American Way, and we love it.

WE SHALL REMEMBER THEM.

Yes, we shall remember them,
The blithe, courageous lads
Who marched away
In another year,
On another day,
To save the world!

Yes, we shall remember them
This dark, tempestuous year,
As others tread
The age old road
Of war. The dread
Dream comes again.

Yes, we shall remember them,
These strong young sons of ours,
When they return. . . .
Some will not come,
But our hearts will burn
As we remember them.

Fish Bait on Main Street.

The main street of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., presented an odd scene on the evening of July 4. Men, women and children with bags and boxes were collecting fish bait from streets, sidewalks and shop windows. The bait was a peculiar, elongated fly with large, transparent wings, and there were entirely too many of them for comfort.

Every shop window was covered with flies and blotted out by people trying to catch them. One young fellow seemed to be reaping a harvest from the light pole. In a filling station two men were picking the flies from the concrete runway while another member of the crew was taking them off his partners' backs. Enterprising boys were filling shoe boxes and then offering the flies, considered better than night crawlers, for sale.

A wreath in memory of Dr. Burton Haseltine [see above], who took the last ride to Graceland yesterday. His quaint colloquies in rhyme, occasionally published in this column, had something of the flavor of Will Rogers' homely satire. He was, moreover, a friend to many of the Line o' Type poets.

Since our return from beyond the Sierra Madre mountains, we have decided that Chicago's summer weather is fine enough to be called "climate."

BESET BY BEE VENOM.

THE venom of certain insects may be as harmful to some persons as the poison manufactured by vicious bacteria. Fortunately, we are not all susceptible. On rare occasions, however, a victim may be prostrated—with symptoms which resemble profound shock. Most bites are not dangerous, altho an episode may be followed by pain, swelling, nausea, or fainting. As a rule, acute discomfort disappears within a few hours, even tho the puffiness may persist for several days.

Bees and wasps—our most common offenders—possess two poison glands each. One secretes chiefly formic acid, and the other an alkaline fluid. It is the combination of these substances which is necessary to produce a severe injury. Neither alone can do much damage. In the case of bees, the sting remains within the tissues, altho it is withdrawn by wasps and hornets. It has been estimated that it would take 500 bee stings, all occurring within a few hours, to inject enough noxious material to cause death.

As every beekeeper knows, an individual may acquire a high degree of immunity. In consequence, very little trouble is experienced. The body seems to be able to neutralize the toxin quickly, and there is little effect other than momentary pain and minor swelling. When such a worker, however, changes his occupation and avoids all contact with these honey-producers for a year or two, he may be just as susceptible as any one else.

Assuming that one of these insects has come to rest somewhere on the skin and has left his lancet well embedded, the first rule is to remove the barb carefully so as not to force additional venom into the wound. The blade of a table knife is a useful instrument. Then follows the application of ordinary household ammonia or baking soda to which enough water has been added to make a paste. Should the patient complain of faintness or vomiting, or exhibit undue pallor, a physician should be called promptly as it may be necessary to combat a rapid drop in blood pressure.

Recently Noble and Halley reported an extreme case. The victim was a nurse. Aware of what had happened, she attempted to leave the car but collapsed on the running board. Within a few minutes she became unconscious, with the skin cold and bluish. She was taken to a hospital speedily, where her temperature was found to be below normal. Her systolic pressure registered only 64 [normal, 130]. The site of the inoculation—the left hand—was but slightly swollen.

Three hours later the patient wakened in a drowsy sort of way and talked irrationally. Her pressure level, however, rose gradually and by morning no untoward symptoms remained. Apparently this woman was unusually sensitive to bee venom. She explained, after recovery, that she had gone thru a similar siege some 15 years earlier.

Hornets, or yellow jackets, behave in much the same manner. Nests found in the neighborhood should be eradicated. After nightfall a large cloth or paper bag, which is provided with a drawstring, may be adjusted cautiously, in order to inclose the "house" completely. The twine is tightened and, subsequently, the bag may be soaked in kerosene and destroyed. Underground habitations may be treated by pouring an ounce or two of carbon bisulfide into the hole and then closing quickly with a plug of earth.

Irritation from these pests may be soothed by the same simple remedies mentioned for bee stings.

ROLL OFF THE BALLAST.

Mrs. A. W. writes: I am in the middle forties and am worried about spreading hips. Will rubbing the body with a rolling pin help to remove this excess fat?

REPLY.

Fat deposits cannot be disposed of either by a rolling pin or rolling on the floor. Restricting the number of rolls may help—in other words, a reducing régime. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a slimming diet.

PERIOD OF PREGNANCY.

Mrs. H. writes: Can a baby be born as late as the 10th month?

REPLY.

The period of pregnancy is approximately 280 days from the date of conception—10 lunar months. If young hopeful's arrival is belated the chances are the dates have been miscalculated. Nature knows best.

DOUBTS IT'S A BETTER WORLD.

Chicago, July 11.—Has the world been made a better place to live in? Here's my day's experience:

My newspaper dealer told me of a cigar store where bets could be placed. I thought it would be fun to try and earn a quarter, so I went in to place 50 cents on a favorite I had picked and to play place. The man over the board surprised me by saying: "We don't take place bets on favorites; you'll have to play to win. We're here to gamble!"

"O," I said, "very well, but I presume you can take bet after bet on the nonfavorites and help people to lose and when there might be a chance of a win, you refuse." And I walked out.

I went on down the street. I heard a man yell: "I'll report you to the police." Another replied: "Go ahead, report me," and he jumped on the curb and gave the man a severe blow.

I had traded at a certain market thru the years. Just recently the son had inherited the business. The father had always extended me great courtesy and it was all the same to him whether my order was small or great. I thought the son would do the same. He was waiting on a couple and I stood behind to wait my turn. A strange clerk approached, but I smilingly shook my head. The son looked up and said: "I haven't time to wait on you; all these are ahead of you," and he pointed to a lot of orders on paper.

I walked out without my meat.

On the curbing and parkway of a large tenement house were many children playing in the dirt of the pavement. Small boys were shooting toy pistols and it was difficult to avoid them. All were so slightly clothed, and one little fellow with most dirty hands brushed them all over my skirt, and I thought, "This is what the school teachers have to face—children untrained who live on the street!"

To make a short cut home I turned off into an alley. Here in an areaway was a group of men already intoxicated but still passing the bottle around.

I finally reached home and was thankful for its sanctity but, as I say, my query was:

"Has the world been made a better place to live in?

FROM "A DRAFT WIDOW."

Maywood, Ill., July 8.—Could something be done for us wives who lost our husbands thru the selective service? The new rule about not taking married men or men past 28 is not fair to those called into the service from the beginning. The latter are certainly not being given any break—except in the heart.

When my husband's number was called and he was given his examination and classification, we didn't hesitate for one minute about his going—we were proud to give one year of our lives for the good of our country. We didn't think for one minute of seeking a deferment.

I know I am only one of thousands of wives who have this same idea. What can we do about seeking the release of our husbands? They are helpless to do anything about it themselves.

A DRAFT WIDOW.

MISSIONARIES ON THE ZAM ZAM.

Chicago, July 12.—The terrifying experience of the American missionaries who were victims of the Zam Zam sea raid is to be regretted by all Americans. However, it is to be hoped, that when these missionaries relate their unpleasant stories to the American public they will not whip up a war spirit over the matter.

The missionaries were anxious to return to carry on their Christian work, and had the United States stayed neutral, and had we not been shouting war against Germany, without any attack, these missionaries would, no doubt, be in their foreign service unhindered. They knew that their voyage might be fraught with perils but they were brave souls and willing to take risks.

The raiders could have done worse. Let these missionaries remember the awful fate of John and Betty Stamm, who were slaughtered for no reason at all except their Christian service, by Chinese communists, agents of the cruelest dictatorship in all the world. We did not go to war over these tragedies, but are now seeking to ally ourselves, as a nation, with Russia, and promising her every aid, to save the cause of godless communism and help spread the terrors of bolshevism.

Let these missionaries be cautious not to help it along, nor lend their services to war propagandists.

CHRISTIAN AMERICAN.

A NATIVE OF SAGA LAND.

Chicago, July 10.—Congratulation on Guy Murchie's splendid letter from Iceland.

As a native of the saga land, however, I am sure the new arrangement in Iceland will meet with the approval of every fair-minded American.

Since time out of mind, geographers have assumed the Ferro meridian as the dividing line between the eastern and western hemispheres. That—as may be seen on almost any map of the globe—places half of Iceland on the western and half on the eastern hemisphere. Geologically, the island belongs more to lands at its west rather than east or south.

Historically, the settlement of the island marks the beginning of European migration west across the Atlantic. By right of discovery America really "belongs" to Iceland. At the millennial celebration in Iceland [1874] Bayard Taylor in his "Greeting from America to Iceland" said:

"We claim thee kindred, call thee mother;

TWO VICIOUS NATIONS.

Chicago, July 12.—What in the world is the matter with THE TRIBUNE'S editors? Why cannot you look at the situation in Europe realistically? Two vicious nations which between them have deprived the other nations of Europe of their freedom are now fighting for supremacy. So the logical thing for the United States and England to do is to "sic" them on each other and furnish the weaker one with whatever it needs to prolong the battle till both armies are exhausted.

Each nation is equally guilty of unheard of barbarities. You cannot say that Stalin is worse than Hitler but you soft petal the Nazi misdeeds. Why?

Yours for all out aid to Britain.

[MRS.] KATE L. TAYLOR

GIVE US THE TOOLS.

Chicago, July 12.—After a visit to Montreal, Toronto, and Quebec, I concluded that the Canadians are a united people, who realize that the freedom of the empire is threatened. They are willing that their young men should fight in the inspiring cause of democracy. Yes, Canada is really determined to insure the democratic way of life, and to that end all have united to achieve their objective.

The streets of the large cities and small towns are crowded with soldiers, sailors, airmen, and Red Cross nurses. Everywhere the Royal Canadian air force predominates. Complete unity prevails.

But contrary to my understanding prior to visiting Canada, I found an exceeding small percentage of people in favor of the United States entering the war. The majority furnish logical arguments [one with a slight ulterior motive] to the effect that the United States could do more effective work on behalf of England by keeping out. The vizualization of the United States as a colossal arsenal and granary with unlimited export facilities—exclusively for use by the British empire—is Canada's conception of "all out" help.

"Give us the tools" is the battlecry, "and we will finish the job." And the literal meaning of the term "tools" embraces transport motor vehicles, airplanes, naval, anti-tank and field guns, ships, shells, bombs, rifles, and ammunition generally.

ANTE-NUPTIAL AGREEMENT.

Berwyn, Ill., July 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A mother of five children is contemplating marriage. She owns her own home and has some money saved up.

1. What procedure should she follow in order that her children get the entire amount of her savings and the building when she passes away? Her husband-to-be also has a building which he deeded to his only daughter after his wife's death.

2. Is the above procedure all that is necessary?

3. He has agreed to allow his wife to be to make similar arrangements with her property and savings.

4. Would a will be sufficient?

5. Would you kindly send me complete information, if possible, as to procedures, courts, and other facts which would be involved in this case. M. R.

1. One course would be to employ a lawyer to draw an ante-nuptial agreement.

2. Yes, if the deed has been recorded.

3. If she conveys her assets outright to her children with his consent and the deeds are recorded, then this would be final.

4. The Illinois statute provides that a marriage revokes a prior will. There are exceptions, but we advise you not to experiment in this field.

5. We advise you to employ an attorney.

1. Which one of these fish tends its young much as a land animal does? Trout Pickerel Salmon Catfish.
2. Which one of these products is not normally obtained from trees? Turpentine Iodine Quinine Rubber.
3. Rossini is most famous for his contributions to Music Science Religion Politics.
4. Which one of these is seldom a cooked vegetable? Rutabaga Squash Radish Yam.
5. Which one of these is often made of flax? Pajamas Tablecloths Sheets Mittens.
6. If you wished to boil an egg until it was hard, and if the gas or electric heating rates were the same in the following cities, where would it cost the most to boil the egg? In which city would it cost the least? You must be able to justify your answers by some logical reasons in order to get full 5 points credit for this problem.

SPEAKING OF HORRORS.

The most astonishing thing about the self-styled anti-vivisectionists is their pertinacity in a cause that is as thoroly discredited as it is bad. They have not imposed their particular brand of insanity on a civilized community in years, yet they keep coming up for more.

Their most recent incursion has been at Peoria. The members of the city council, most of whom, by the law of averages, must have some member of their families who is alive today only because of medical progress thru animal experimentation, have been subjected to the usual fictions regarding the horrors to be found in medical laboratories.

A recent dispatch noted that Dr. Anton J. Carlson had landed, and no doubt he has the situation in hand by now. The Peoria affair may safely be left to the doughty doctor and the good sense of the town's own people. It is a pity, however, that men like Dr. Carlson must, from time to time, drop their work against death and human misery to refute once again the time-frayed arguments of ignorance and perverted sentimentality.

Vivisection is an intentionally misleading word. The majority of experimental animals are not subjected to surgery. Those that are are almost invariably placed under a local or general anesthetic, and are painlessly destroyed thereafter—the same fate experimental dogs would meet if they were left in the pounds from which medical laboratories obtain them.

Every medical or other scientific laboratory has the strictest rules, rigidly enforced, to prevent abuse of or cruelty to experimental animals. As scientists have frequently pointed out, the ordinary operations of husbandry, performed without anesthesia, subject animals to more pain in any single day than they have suffered in a century of laboratory experimentation.

The horrors that the anti-vivisectionists portray in experimental laboratories simply do not exist. But since they insist on following this theme of cruelty and agony, here are a few truthful instances—and they could be multiplied, literally, by millions—to which these people might give some attention.

Perhaps they would like to watch a golden haired child of 5 starve to death within a few months, in spite of the most tender care by parents and physicians. That was the almost inevitable fate of child diabetics until the discovery of insulin two decades ago. Insulin was discovered thru experiments on dogs. The hundreds of thousands of diabetics whom it enables to lead normal lives are able to take it with safety only because doses are regularly standardized by experiments on other animals.

Or perhaps they would rather see the trapped agony in the eyes of the father of a family who had just been told that he had Addison's disease, an incurable malady that led to death in a short time. Addison's disease is no longer necessarily fatal. It is controled by cortin, a drug found by experiments on dogs.

Or these self-styled apostles of gentleness might take their stand beside the parents who watch a child stricken with infantile paralysis, not knowing whether the disease will leave the child crippled in mind or body. The convalescent serum that has greatly reduced the fatality and crippling effects of this disease was developed by animal experimentation, which is being continued in the hope of finding a complete cure.

Perhaps they would like to watch the progress of a shambling hulk with a mind arrested in childhood by meningitis. This is one of the many diseases cured by the "miracle drugs," sulphanilamide and its chemical allies. The world would not have them if it had not been for animal experimentation.

Most people have seen a copy of Sir Luke Fildes' famous painting, "The Doctor." It shows Queen Victoria's own physician sitting helplessly by in a humble cottage as a little girl chokes her life away with diphtheria. Such scenes were a commonplace in the childhood of the present generation of adults. They are rare today, because of the antitoxin and the toxoid immunizing agents prepared in the bodies of horses and tested on other experimental animals.

The horrors of cancer need no elaboration. The search for the agents that cause it depends largely on the use of experimental animals. If the anti-vivisectionists had their way, that curse would remain on mankind forever.

The list can be extended almost indefinitely. The prevention of smallpox, yellow fever, typhus, and lockjaw, the treatment of pneumonia, syphilis, scarlet fever, anemia, bubonic plague, gall bladder ailments and gastric ulcer, new technics in surgery, the whole range of vitamins and hormones, the marvelous anesthetic, ethylene—all these and many other medical discoveries owe their debt to animal experimentation.

If the anti-vivisectionists are not moved by human suffering, perhaps they would rather watch a shivering, half paralyzed dog that has been stricken by distemper. The vaccines and serums that are 99 per cent effective in preventing or curing distemper were obtained by experiments on dogs. Pasteur experimented on dogs to develop the vaccine that saves both them and men from otherwise certain death from rabies. Experiments on dogs developed tetrachlorethylene as a cure for the hookworm that formerly killed so many pets. It has since been found useful in treating hookworm in humans.

Where does the cruelty lie—in the scientists who humanely use animals to end human suffering, or with the people who by stopping animal experimentation would deny humanity an indispensable weapon against the scourges that still beset it?

THEY GOT FUN.

Hellzapoppin' with our way of life, says Leon Henderson, or soon will be. And let no one misunderstand Mr. Henderson. He's having fun. There will be wailing and gnashing of teeth. There will be groaning and grunting. There will be shrill cries of protest, but you'll take it and like it. The honeymoon is over, says Mr. Henderson. The play is ended. Them days are gone forever. L. H. and everybody else in the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply chortle at the prospect. There isn't going to be anything for the consumer any more. The American standard of living is tumbling down.

Mr. Nehemkis referred recently to the fact that 10 considerable enterprises in their entirety are about to pass out. They cannot obtain the materials to continue production. The small business man, he said, is on the verge of extinction. The not so quiet satisfaction revealed in these estimates of the future America by the New Dealers who have at last got their way of handling it, is not encouraging.

It is to be suspected that admonitions which come to us regarding the deprivations to be experienced beginning tomorrow or the next day are far from unwelcome in the new order of things. You won't get any pots and pans. You won't get new refrigeration, and possibly not needed parts for the old machine. Your radio will last you till it wears out, and then there will be none. Automobiles will be off the market and there will be no gasoline for the old ones. Silk stockings are out and nylon will go into parachutes. Cosmetics will not be available. The hairdresser will be out of business. Wood for furniture is going for trim for the navy. The consuming public, according to prediction by the New Dealers, more gleeful than unhappy, is going back to the days of its great-great-grandfather.

We are all apparently headed for the underprivileged life, with the commissar making as many calls as the postman.

WE SAMPLE THE FUEHRERPRINZIP.

A citizen of Michigan, temporarily in Texas, writes that he raised a temperature of 120, when, on the Fourth of July, he read in the Houston Chronicle an order from the chief of police of that city to stop all traffic, the afternoon of the Fourth of July, at the time Mr. Roosevelt was to make his speech.

The newsreels for the Fourth, playing up to the idea that the nation was hushed while its chief ruler spoke, show scenes in ball parks and other places of assemblage where an enforced pause was made for the duration of Mr. Roosevelt's pronouncement.

We seem to have suddenly acquired a real dose of the fuehrerprinzip. The solemnity of the semicoercion was relieved only by the irrelevancy of the expected utterance.

The fuehrerprinzip probably gets its original start in the subserviency of zealous lickspittles who anticipate what the ruler would like to have and present him with this form of incense, to which he becomes accustomed and later demands. Persons seeking to acquire merit or gain recognition impose upon other people, and a standard of conduct gains currency and later becomes imperative. This form of obeisance never displeases the person in authority and gradually the bowed head is required whenever the great presence wishes to enjoy it.

Our Michigan friend was alarmed by the police order he read in Houston. We are going that way and will go at a faster pace if people begin to think that it is in the natural order of things for a chief of state to monopolize their attention and command their obedience any time he sees fit to do so.

MECHANIZED LIFESAVERS.

The 80,000 spectators at the Thrill show in Soldiers' Field Sunday saw in the Chicago fire department, which shared the spotlight with the city and park police departments, an organization that has carried mechanization to the same high degree for the protection of life and property that the Nazi army has for their destruction.

Yet in spite of their marvelous mechanical aids, the firemen lead a hazardous life, as the memorial roll that appeared in the picture section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE testified. Since the last Thrill show, nine Chicago firemen have lost their lives in the line of duty.

The fatalities for this particular period were above the average in the department, due to two disasters, one of which, an explosion in a chemical plant, caused damage of only about $100, yet took the lives of four firefighters. Since 1936 the department has lost 17 men in action.

Capable detective work and efficient prosecution have made it extremely unhealthy to shoot a policeman in Chicago. Only one policeman has been murdered in the last 12 months. The forces of nature against which the firemen contend are less easy to control or intimidate than depraved humanity. In spite of modern equipment and magnificent training, the department protects Chicago only at the constant risk of its members' lives.

Editorial of the Day

[New York Times.]

One of the good things the army is doing for those who are fortunate enough to be young and healthy enough to be in it is to remind them what feet and legs are for. One reads of "hardening hikes" in which troops march seven or eight miles the first day, 10 the second and 15 the third. This is enough to horrify some of the stay at homes, including those toothy youngsters with upraised thumbs who would rather stand for an hour on a corner waiting for a lift than walk two miles.

Yet most of us, with transportation almost always at our disposal probably underestimate our walking powers as well as the pure joys of walking. We can hardly equal the achievements of the Chinese guerrillas, who make nothing of 40 to 50 miles a day on foot, of such professionals as the late Edward Payson Weston, who once walked 100 miles in a little under 22½ hours, or of such distinguished amateurs as the late Dr. John H. Finley, who modestly acknowledged a record of 70 miles in 24 hours.

Such strolls call for long training, skill [for there is skill in walking well], and fortitude. Almost any one with sound legs and normal feet can walk up to 10 or 15 miles a day and enjoy the experience. There are still many dirt roads for the American walker and thousands of miles of mountain trails for the adventurous. If the army "hardening," plus a not too serious gasoline shortage, encourages this ancient and healthy sport we can write that result down on the credit side of our "unlimited emergency" ledger.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

LINCOLN ON RANDOLPH STREET.

The museum of the Grand Army of the Republic in the Chicago Public library contains, in addition to its many relics of the Civil war, a notable collection of Lincoln memorabilia. It is, however, not often mentioned; the collections of the Chicago Historical society and the University of Chicago have overshadowed this shrine. The withering of the ranks of the G. A. R. has also affected public interest in this museum; sightseers seldom go there, and the river of Chicago life pours along Randolph street, to or from the Illinois Central suburban station, without thinking of the Emancipator. [The guides on tourist buses are likely to announce, however, that Jake Lingle was shot near by.]

The Lincoln exhibit there was formed around a collection presented by Charles H. McConnell, who had specialized in unusual specimens of metallic art and portraiture. Two bronze busts of heroic size are of notable value. A portrait by G. P. A. Healy rivals the two other Healy Lincolns in Chicago, in the Historical Society's museum and the Newberry library.

Rare engravings, lithographs, and first editions of Lincolniana in pamphlets and broadsides are numerous. An early print of the Wigwam in Chicago, where Lincoln was nominated for the Presidency, and an unusual photograph of Lincoln's son Tad are items of decided interest.

Lincoln Lore, weekly bulletin of the Lincoln National Life Foundation, calls attention to the need of preserving the collections in G. A. R. halls everywhere, and speaks of Chicago's as one of the most valuable in the country.

PEACE IN THE FIELDS.

Strong, weathered barns and quiet, ordered fields
Speak to my heart with special poignancy;
And past the city's smoke their harvest yields
Its earth-sweet fragrances that breathe for me
A peace that steel and stone can never show.
For men have tilled those fields—not there the strife
For gold and blood, not there the maddening blow
Of sound on weary souls. Life unto life,
Men gave themselves to earth . . . not unto men!
And tho earth's garnered treasure there was won
By toil that ended not till the hour when
Each father turned the long task to his son,
And tho they spent youth's dreams, their feet may stand,

Air-cooled restaurants and central heating; washing machines and salaried education for athletes; million dollar movies and freedom to shift social responsibility onto the government and then squawk about the taxes; automobiles bought on credit and refinanced to pay for the furniture; hygienic marriage laws and collusive divorces; predigested periodicals and prizes for soap wrappers; Thanksgiving, and baseball, and Joe Louis, and Charlie McCarthy; ice cream cones and ASCAP music; labor unions to protect the rights of the workman, who cannot work if the strike boss says no; taverns, and silk on our legs, and free matches with our cigarets; the closed ballot and Negro voices; strip tease and the resurrection of the Lord; shoes on our feet, and food in our bellies, and a song in our hearts, and the right of every man to consider himself an authority on all matters in which he is uninformed, and the right to shoot off his mouth about them——

In another year,
On another day,
To save the world!

Yes, we shall remember them
This dark, tempestuous year,
As others tread
The age old road
Of war. The dread
Dream comes again.

Yes, we shall remember them,
These strong young sons of ours,
When they return. . . .
Some will not come,
But our hearts will burn
As we remember them.

Fish Bait on Main Street.

The main street of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., presented an odd scene on the evening of July 4. Men, women and children with bags and boxes were collecting fish bait from streets, sidewalks and shop windows. The bait was a peculiar, elongated fly with large, transparent wings, and there were entirely too many of them for comfort.

Every shop window was covered with flies and blotted out by people trying to catch them. One young fellow seemed to be reaping a harvest from the light pole. In a filling station two men were picking the flies from the concrete runway while another member of the crew was taking them off his partners' backs. Enterprising boys were filling shoe boxes and then offering the flies, considered better than night crawlers, for sale.

BESET BY BEE VENOM.

THE venom of certain insects may be as harmful to some persons as the poison manufactured by vicious bacteria. Fortunately, we are not all susceptible. On rare occasions, however, a victim may be prostrated—with symptoms which resemble profound shock. Most bites are not dangerous, altho an episode may be followed by pain, swelling, nausea, or fainting. As a rule, acute discomfort disappears within a few hours, even tho the puffiness may persist for several days.

Bees and wasps—our most common offenders—possess two poison glands each. One secretes chiefly formic acid, and the other an alkaline fluid. It is the combination of these substances which is necessary to produce a severe injury. Neither alone can do much damage. In the case of bees, the sting remains within the tissues, altho it is withdrawn by wasps and hornets. It has been estimated that it would take 500 bee stings, all occurring within a few hours, to inject enough noxious material to cause death.

As every beekeeper knows, an individual may acquire a high degree of immunity. In consequence, very little trouble is experienced. The body seems to be able to neutralize the toxin quickly, and there is little effect other than momentary pain and minor swelling. When such a worker, however, changes his occupation and avoids all contact with these honey-producers for a year or two, he may be just as susceptible as any one else.

Assuming that one of these insects has come to rest somewhere on the skin and has left his lancet well embedded, the first rule is to remove the barb carefully so as not to force additional venom into the wound. The blade of a table knife is a useful instrument. Then follows the application of ordinary household ammonia or baking soda to which enough water has been added to make a paste. Should the patient complain of faintness or vomiting, or exhibit undue pallor, a physician should be called promptly as it may be necessary to combat a rapid drop in blood pressure.

Recently Noble and Halley reported an extreme case. The victim was a nurse. Aware of what had happened, she attempted to leave the car but collapsed on the running board. Within a few minutes she became unconscious, with the skin cold and bluish. She was taken to a hospital speedily, where her temperature was found to be below normal. Her systolic pressure registered only 64 [normal, 130]. The site of the inoculation—the left hand—was but slightly swollen.

Three hours later the patient wakened in a drowsy sort of way and talked irrationally. Her pressure level, however, rose gradually and by morning no untoward symptoms remained. Apparently this woman was unusually sensitive to bee venom. She explained, after recovery, that she had gone thru a similar siege some 15 years earlier.

Hornets, or yellow jackets, behave in much the same manner. Nests found in the neighborhood should be eradicated. After nightfall a large cloth or paper bag, which is provided with a drawstring, may be adjusted cautiously, in order to inclose the "house" completely. The twine is tightened and, subsequently, the bag may be soaked in kerosene and destroyed. Underground habitations may be treated by pouring an ounce or two of carbon bisulfide into the hole and then closing quickly with a plug of earth.

Irritation from these pests may be soothed by the same simple remedies mentioned for bee stings.

ROLL OFF THE BALLAST.

Mrs. A. W. writes: I am in the middle forties and am worried about spreading hips. Will rubbing the body with a rolling pin help to remove this excess fat?

REPLY.

Fat deposits cannot be disposed of either by a rolling pin or rolling on the floor. Restricting the number of rolls may help—in other words, a reducing régime. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a slimming diet.

PERIOD OF PREGNANCY.

Mrs. H. writes: Can a baby be born as late as the 10th month?

REPLY.

The period of pregnancy is approximately 280 days from the date of conception—10 lunar months. If young hopeful's arrival is belated the chances are the dates have been miscalculated. Nature knows best.

DOUBTS IT'S A BETTER WORLD.

Chicago, July 11.—Has the world been made a better place to live in? Here's my day's experience:

My newspaper dealer told me of a cigar store where bets could be placed. I thought it would be fun to try and earn a quarter, so I went in to place 50 cents on a favorite I had picked and to play place. The man over the board surprised me by saying: "We don't take place bets on favorites; you'll have to play to win. We're here to gamble!"

"O," I said, "very well, but I presume you can take bet after bet on the non-favorites and help people to lose and when there might be a chance of a win, you refuse." And I walked out.

I went on down the street. I heard a man yell: "I'll report you to the police." Another replied: "Go ahead, report me," and he jumped on the curb and gave the man a severe blow.

I had traded at a certain market thru the years. Just recently the son had inherited the business. The father had always extended me great courtesy and it was all the same to him whether my order was small or great. I thought the son would do the same. He was waiting on a couple and I stood behind to wait my turn. A strange clerk approached, but I smilingly shook my head. The son looked up and said: "I haven't time to wait on you; all these are ahead of you," and he pointed to a lot of orders on paper.

I walked out without my meat.

On the curbing and parkway of a large tenement house were many children playing in the dirt of the pavement. Small boys were shooting toy pistols and it was difficult to avoid them. All were so slightly clothed, and one little fellow with most dirty hands brushed them all over my skirt, and I thought, "This is what the school teachers have to face—children untrained who live on the street!"

To make a short cut home I turned off into an alley. Here in an areaway was a group of men already intoxicated but still passing the bottle around.

I finally reached home and was thankful for its sanctity but, as I say, my query was:

"Has the world been made a better place to live in?" MABEL B.

FROM "A DRAFT WIDOW."

Maywood, Ill., July 8.—Could something be done for us wives who lost our husbands thru the selective service? The new rule about not taking married men or men past 28 is not fair to those called into the service from the beginning. The latter are certainly not being given any break—except in the heart.

When my husband's number was called and he was given his examination and classification, we didn't hesitate for one minute about his going—we were proud to give one year of our lives for the good of our country. We didn't think for one minute of seeking a deferment.

I know I am only one of thousands of wives who have this same idea. What can we do about seeking the release of our husbands? They are helpless to do anything about it themselves.

A DRAFT WIDOW.

MISSIONARIES ON THE ZAM ZAM.

Chicago, July 12.—The terrifying experience of the American missionaries who were victims of the Zam Zam sea raid is to be regretted by all Americans. However, it is to be hoped, that when these missionaries relate their unpleasant stories to the American public they will not whip up a war spirit over the matter.

The missionaries were anxious to return to carry on their Christian work, and had the United States stayed neutral, and had we not been shouting war against Germany, without any attack, these missionaries would, no doubt, be in their foreign service unhindered. They knew that their voyage might be fraught with perils but they were brave souls and willing to take risks.

The raiders could have done worse. Let these missionaries remember the awful fate of John and Betty Stamm, who were slaughtered for no reason at all except their Christian service, by Chinese communists, agents of the cruelest dictatorship in all the world. We did not go to war over these tragedies, but are now seeking to ally ourselves, as a nation, with Russia, and promising her every aid, to save the cause of godless communism and help spread the terrors of bolshevism.

Let these missionaries be cautious not to help it along, nor lend their services to war propagandists.

CHRISTIAN AMERICAN.

A NATIVE OF SAGA LAND.

Chicago, July 10.—Congratulation on Guy Murchie's splendid letter from Iceland.

As a native of the saga land, however, I am sure the new arrangement in Iceland will meet with the approval of every fair-minded American.

Since time out of mind, geographers have assumed the Ferro meridian as the dividing line between the eastern and western hemispheres. That—as may be seen on almost any map of the globe—places half of Iceland on the western and half on the eastern hemisphere. Geologically, the island belongs more to lands at its west rather than east or south.

Historically, the settlement of the island marks the beginning of European migration west across the Atlantic. By right of discovery America really "belongs" to Iceland. At the millennial celebration in Iceland [1874] Bayard Taylor in his "Greeting from America to Iceland" said:

"We claim thee kindred, call thee mother;

P. M. CLEMENS.

TWO VICIOUS NATIONS.

Chicago, July 12.—What in the world is the matter with THE TRIBUNE'S editors? Why cannot you look at the situation in Europe realistically? Two vicious nations which between them have deprived the other nations of Europe of their freedom are now fighting for supremacy. So the logical thing for the United States and England to do is to "sic" them on each other and furnish the weaker one with whatever it needs to prolong the battle till both armies are exhausted.

Each nation is equally guilty of unheard of barbarities. You cannot say that Stalin is worse than Hitler but you soft petal the Nazi misdeeds. Why?

Yours for all out aid to Britain.

[MRS.] KATE L. TAYLOR.

GIVE US THE TOOLS.

Chicago, July 12.—After a visit to Montreal, Toronto, and Quebec, I concluded that the Canadians are a united people, who realize that the freedom of the empire is threatened. They are willing that their young men should fight in the inspiring cause of democracy. Yes, Canada is really determined to insure the democratic way of life, and to that end all have united to achieve their objective.

The streets of the large cities and small towns are crowded with soldiers, sailors, airmen, and Red Cross nurses. Everywhere the Royal Canadian air force predominates. Complete unity prevails.

But contrary to my understanding prior to visiting Canada, I found an exceeding small percentage of people in favor of the United States entering the war. The majority furnish logical arguments [one with a slight ulterior motive] to the effect that the United States could do more effective work on behalf of England by keeping out. The vizualization of the United States as a colossal arsenal and granary with unlimited export facilities—exclusively for use by the British empire—is Canada's conception of "all out" help.

"Give us the tools" is the battlecry, "and we will finish the job." And the literal meaning of the term "tools" embraces transport motor vehicles, airplanes, naval, anti-tank and field guns, ships, shells, bombs, rifles, and ammunition generally. TOM HOSKIN.

ANTE-NUPTIAL AGREEMENT.

Berwyn, Ill., July 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A mother of five children is contemplating marriage. She owns her own home and has some money saved up.

1. What procedure should she follow in order that her children get the entire amount of her savings and the building when she passes away? Her husband-to-be also has a building which he deeded to his only daughter after his wife's death.

2. Is the above procedure all that is necessary?

3. He has agreed to allow his wife to be to make similar arrangements with her property and savings.

4. Would a will be sufficient?

5. Would you kindly send me complete information, if possible, as to procedures, courts, and other facts which would be involved in this case. M. R.

1. One course would be to employ a lawyer to draw an ante-nuptial agreement.

2. Yes, if the deed has been recorded.

3. If she conveys her assets outright to her children with his consent and the deeds are recorded, then this would be final.

4. The Illinois statute provides that a marriage revokes a prior will. There are exceptions, but we advise you not to experiment in this field.

5. We advise you to employ an attorney.

EX-CONVICT BOSS OF UNION HEARD BY GRAND JURY

800 Members Ask Action Toward Cleanup.

Two developments occurred yesterday in the battle which insurgent members of local 1248 of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association are fighting to escape alleged domination by Max Caldwell, suspended business agent. The developments were:

1. Caldwell and his brother, Mike Pollack, suspended recording secretary of the local, were reported to have testified before the grand jury, which is investigating charges made by the rebel group in a civil suit, that the union treasury has been systematically raided for five years.

2. Dissatisfied with the progress of a union cleanup which representatives of the international are conducting, 800 members of local 1248 met in the Midland hotel and voted to dissociate themselves from the international. They also voted to ask William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, for a charter as an AFL federal union.

Suit Asks for Accounting.

The grand jury investigation followed filing of the civil suit, which asks an accounting of $910,000 in union funds.

Caldwell and Pollack were handed grand jury subpenas yesterday as they left the court of Chief Justice James F. Fardy of the Criminal court, where habeas corpus proceedings were continued until Aug. 14. They had dodged service of the subpenas for more than a week.

Caldwell is reported to have admitted that his real name is Max Pollack and that in 1925 he was convicted of violating the prohibition law in Indiana. Altho records show that he was sentenced to serve six months in the state prison farm in Putnamville, Caldwell said he had served his time in the state penitentiary at Michigan City. He could not, however, recall the names of any guards who might have taken him there, or of the warden of the prison. The warden is Alfred Dowd. He told reporters he had no record of such a prisoner.

$125 a Week Salary.

Caldwell said that he was not a member of Local 1248, altho its business manager. As an organizer for the international in charge of recruiting members in Cook and six other counties, he said, he is on the international's pay roll at $75 a week, but never collects this salary. He said that he receives a salary of $125 a week and expenses in addition from local 1248.

Caldwell stated in response to queries of Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford as to the whereabouts of the union books that he had not seen them since the end of May.

Pollack is reported to have testified that the union's income is $11,000 to $12,000 a month in the form of $2 dues from 5,300 members, and that expenditures average $9,700 a month. The expenditures, he said, included a 45 cent per capita tax paid international headquarters, which amounts to $2,500 or $3,000 a month.

Robert Kreuger, 4522 North Central Park avenue, president of local 1248, whom Crawford had been unable to locate, came to the State's Attorney's office and volunteered a statement that he was virtually a figurehead and that Caldwell was in charge of running the union.

In the Midland hotel meeting last night Francis Heisler, attorney for the rank and file rebels, charged that a committee which has been running the union since Caldwell's suspension has shown no desire to uncover the facts concerning the Caldwell régime. He also asserted the union is "falling to pieces" because the committee has failed to push organizational work.

The committee, headed by Harry O'Reilly, regional AFL organizer, has "just been sitting around waiting for Caldwell to bring in the books and records," Heisler charged. Following these charges and similar reports made by rank and file committees, the 800 members voted unanimously to secede from the international and seek an AFL charter. Failing this, they will operate as an independent union, the resolution stated.

FRESH AIR BETS ARE RIGHT UP BOOKIE'S ALLEY

They may not have picked any more winners, but at least those bettors who patronized a handbook in the rear of 9 North Throop street yesterday got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. The book was in an alley; the betting commissioner, a gent named Joe, sat on a bar stool, and the entry sheets and other necessary information were tacked on a barn.

Joe told reporters the bets were mostly 25 and 50 cent ones. The book was in a sort of cul de sac between alleys paralleling Madison and Washington streets, and took care of small bets overflowing from a periodical store at 1302 Madison street. Money was taken to the store, at Joe's direction, by a Negro runner and a West Madison street casual and slips were brought back to those laying the wagers.

Joe said the idea was the outgrowth of an order by Commissioner Allman that persons be not allowed to congregate in stores.

"We figured," Joe said, "we'd have the book out here."

INSISTS HE HAS RIGHT TO BEAT WIFE; FINED $82

Martin Horak, 49 years old, a farmer living three miles west of Mundelein on state route 63, was fined $50 and $32.50 costs yesterday on a plea of guilty to a charge of beating his wife, Albie. The fine, which he paid, was imposed by Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt in Waukegan.

Horak was arrested last week. His wife, mother of eight boys and girls, told Assistant State's Attorney George W. Field of Lake county that he had beaten her 25 times in their 21 years of married life. According to Field, Horak admitted beating her frequently, but defended his right to do so on the ground it was permissible "in the old country." He is a Czech.

Yesterday the Horaks visited Field. Mrs. Horak wanted to drop the prosecution. Horak, according to the prosecutor, still proclaimed his right to beat his wife. Field refused to drop the prosecution, but agreed not to carry the case before the grand jury if Horak would plead guilty before the justice of the peace.

SUSPENDED AID OF HODES FINED FOR ASSAULT

Stephen Warnick, 47 years old, 1345 18th street, a suspended investigator for the corporation counsel's office, was found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon by a Municipal court jury yesterday. Judge Oscar S. Caplan gave Warnick until July 23 to pay a $100 fine.

The complainants, Frank C. Freid, 50, of 1720 South Racine avenue; his brother, John, 60, and Edward Kalcik, 35, of 1132 18th street, testified Warnick attacked them with a blackjack April 12 at 18th street and Racine avenue. Frank Freid said he evicted Warnick last September from a building he managed as receiver. Warnick had a store in the building. Warnick asserted he drew the blackjack to defend himself.

Warnick was suspended by Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes last week pending an investigation of charges that he used his official position to promote sales of advertising in his newspaper, the Jugo-Slavenski Glasnik. Warnick has denied the charges.

Harvester Plant Runoff Election Is Set for July 30

A runoff election to determine the bargaining agent at the McCormick plant of the International Harvester company will be held from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. July 30. This was announced yesterday by Charles A. Graham, regional director for the national labor relations board. The election was necessitated because neither the Congress of Industrial organizations nor the American Federation of Labor union obtained a majority in a plant election last month.

Thefts of silver fox furs valued at $275 and a suit worth $80 from the home of Eddie Richmond, an insurance agent, at 932 Ainslie street, was reported to Summerdale police yesterday.

INFLUX OF ALIEN DOCTORS ALARMS U. S. PHYSICIANS

N. Y. Made Bottleneck in Overfilled Profession.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 14.—American physicians, especially here in New York, are manifesting growing concern over the transfusion of foreign refugee doctors into the profession in this country. Already several thousand medical emigres have been admitted to practice.

As the port of entry and a cosmopolitan city, New York has become the bottleneck for refugee doctors. They stick here, where they find friendly asylum but also where the medical profession is probably more overcrowded than anywhere else in the country.

Native American doctors, who are contemplating entering the country's armed forces in the medical service, are apprehensive that their practices may be absorbed by foreigners during their absence. Complaints of fee cutting and other unethical acts by the recent European arrivals have been filed with county medical societies.

Yearly Increase Shown.

Last year 2,092 persons holding certificates from foreign universities [except Canadian] were examined by licensing boards in the various states, according to the Journal of the American Medical association. Of this number, 1,429 applied for licenses in New York state.

Year by year the number of candidates from foreign institutions for licensure in the United States has increased. This trend is graphically illustrated in a table of figures on such applicants, from the AMA journal, as follows:

Year.	Number examined.	Number passed.
1931	158	91
1932	182	96
1933	200	129
1934	285	170
1935	437	303
1936	588	382
1937	920	637
1938	1,164	716
1939	1,691	839
1940	2,092	948
Totals	7,884	4,403

A small percentage of those examined each year represents "repeaters" who have failed in previous examinations. Native Americans who go abroad to study and then return to practice in this country also account for a small percentage.

Many from Germany.

By far the largest number of candidates come from Germany or countries under Nazi rule. Among the 2,092 applicants for 1940 were 1,378 from Germany, and of that number 613 bore credentials from the University of Vienna.

Harry D. Biele, secretary of the National Committee for Resettlement of Foreign Physicians, an offshoot of the National Refugee Service declared that the refugee doctor stays in New York and on the eastern seaboard because many states have raised barriers to his practice.

Most liberal in admitting refugee physicians to examination and practice are New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Maryland, where first citizenship papers are virtually the only requirement.

Other States More Strict.

Sixteen states, taking the position they are unable to evaluate foreign credentials because of the war abroad, do not admit holders of such certificates to examination. Nineteen states require full citizenship, which takes five years t oachieve. Prerequisites in other states include basic science credits, internship in American hospitals, and work in United States approved medical schools.

In Illinois, where Gov. Dwight Green recently vetoed legislation requiring full citizenship for admission to practice, no more applications from foreign candidates have been received since last Feb. 21. Illinois requires internship as a prerequisite. Of the 141 graduates from foreign universities who took examinations in Illinois last year, 119 passed.

COLLISION KILLS DOCTOR'S SON, 13; 3 PERSONS HURT

Peter Steinfeld, 13 years old, a caddie at the Rob Roy Country club, was killed yesterday when the automobile in which his mother was driving him to the club collided with another car at Wolf road and Central avenue, one mile south of Des Plaines. Joseph Francis Barton, 42, of 422 Melrose street, a musician, driver of the second car, and his wife Annie, about 28, were injured seriously.

Young Steinfeld's mother, Mrs. Lotte Steinfeld, 40, who lives at Rand road and the Des Plaines river, in Des Plaines, was less seriously hurt. The dead boy was the son of Dr. Julius I. Steinfeld, a physician at the Forest sanitarium, Des Plaines. The injured were taken to the Northwestern hospital, Des Plaines.

Frank J. Hinkamp, president of the Ambrosia Brewing company, 3700 South Halsted street, suffered several rib fractures and other injuries last night when his automobile crashed into a telegraph pole in Rand road at Central avenue, one mile northwest of Des Plaines. He is 77 years old and lives at the Windermere East hotel, 1642 East 56th street. He was taken to the Alexian Brothers hospital. Morton Grove county highway police said that he told them he fell asleep at the wheel.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 504 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 358 were killed in Chicago, where 12,904 persons were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

PEORIA DOCTORS BACK SCIENTIFIC USE OF ANIMALS

Point to Many Advances in Disease Control.

Peoria, Ill., July 14 [Special].—Ninety leaders of the Peoria medical profession today threw their influence against a proposed amendment to a city ordinance to prevent the city board of health from turning over unwanted dogs to the Northwestern university medical school for use in animal experimentation.

The delegation called upon Mayor E. N. Woodruff, who is serving his 11th term, and said that his indicated support of anti-vivisectionists who are behind the latest effort to hamper medical progress constituted unwarranted meddling with Peoria's nonpolitical board of health.

Progress Made Possible.

Dr. George W. Mitchell, psychiatrist, one of the spokesmen, told the mayor, "The most tragic thing any doctor experiences is to see a patient, particularly a child, die from an incurable disease because experimentation has not progressed sufficiently to provide the specific remedy."

Dr. Mitchell said that animal experimentation had made possible great advances in medical science, but, he said, there were still many great problems to be mastered in reducing human suffering and death, and to restrict the use of animals in research would be to bring vital experimentation to a standstill.

The delegation reminded Mayor Woodruff that six years ago his opposition to the establishment of a board of health independent of political manipulation had led to his defeat when he stood for reëlection the following year.

Mrs. McLaughlin Active.

At present the city dog pound is operated by the board of health, and an ordinance provides that unclaimed dogs shall be put to death painlessly. Some of these animals have been sent to Northwestern. The amendment, designed to prevent removal of the dogs from Peoria, was submitted by Ald. Joseph Mittleman and is supported by Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin and other anti-vivisectionists.

At a council meeting last week, observers considered that Mayor Woodruff indicated sympathy for Mrs. McLaughlin and her cohorts, rather than with Dr. Anton J. Carlson, nationally noted Chicago physiologist, who recently blocked proposed legislation supported by the McLaughlin group which would have seriously interfered with animal experimentation.

Dr. E. E. Nystrom, a leader of the medical delegation, urged Mayor Woodruff to support the board of health in maintaining its right to dispose of experimental animals. The mayor was asked to declare his position unequivocally tomorrow night when the proposed amendment is to be debated on the floor of the council.

Accused of Theft

MARGARET THOMPSON.

Willis Hanlin, 29 years old, of Rock Island, Ill., a jewelry salesman, last night identified Miss Margaret Thompson, 24, of 104 Walton place, as the young woman who disappeared from his room in a loop hotel Friday while Hanlin slept.

Hanlin said $500 also disappeared. He told Central police Friday that he and the young woman went to the hotel shortly after they met and that he fell asleep immediately after drinking a glass of beer. Police believed a drug was placed in the beer.

Miss Thompson was arrested at Oak and State streets and a complaint charging larceny was made by Hanlin. She was placed in the Central police lockup. Police said her real name is Martin and that she is also known as Vicki.

4,000 PAPER CUPS STOLEN.
Two cylinders of carbon dioxide, 20 gallons of soft drink syrup, 4,000 paper cups, and 40 feet of copper tubing were stolen yesterday from the automobile of Louis Gillen of 4412 South Wood street, a beverage company service man.

Dorothy Ruth MacArthur to Wed July 26

BY JUDITH CASS.

IN THESE days engagement and approaching wedding announcements often are made together for the army and navy have much to do with the plans of most young people at this time. Today Mr. and Mrs. Telfer MacArthur are making known the engagement of their younger daughter, Dorothy Ruth [Dixie] to Winfield Newton Burdick Jr. and at the same time announcing that the wedding is planned for July 26.

Miss MacArthur and young Mr. Burdick, who has lived in Chicago since his graduation from Yale in 1939, will have a quiet home ceremony at Thornacres, the MacArthurs' lovely home in Libertyville. Only the families and intimate friends of the young couple are being invited. Mr. Burdick's parents of South Orange, N. J., are coming west for the ceremony.

Mrs. Gustavus Babson Jr. to Be Sister's Only Attendant.

The bride will have her sister, Mrs. Gustavus Babson Jr. as her only attendant at the marriage, which will be solemnized at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Burdick, who is an ensign in the United States naval reserves, and his bride will depart immediately after the ceremony for the Pacific coast, as he has been ordered to active duty in San Francisco on Aug. 1.

Miss MacArthur attended the Girls' Latin school and Smith college. She made her debut in the winter in 1937. She is a member of the Chicago Junior league, the Alliance Française, and the woman's board of the Travelers' Aid society. Mr. Burdick prepared for college at Phillips academy in Andover, Mass., and before going to Yale attended the University of Paris. At Yale he was a member of the Fence club, the Aurelian honor society, and Wolf's Head.

Peggy Sargent's Troth Announced This Morning.

Another Chicago Junior leaguer and Smith college alumna whose engagement is announced this morning is Miss Margaret Jean [Peggy] Sargent. Her engagement to Gene Kerwin Beare is being made known by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Frederick Sargent of Winnetka. The news was told to the families at a small dinner party last night at the Sargent home.

Miss Sargent was graduated from the Bishop school in La Jolla, Cal., and from Smith college in 1937. She made her debut in 1935. Mr. Beare is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gene Beare of St. Louis. Until he came to Chicago about a year ago, he lived with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Arbor Kerwin, in St. Louis. He was graduated from Washington university in 1937, and from the Harvard School of Business Administration two years later. The wedding is planned for early September.

Miss Sargent is going north to the Wausaukee club in Wisconsin next week to spend a week with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Wieboldt [Barbara Ann Sargent]. Miss MacArthur and Mr. Burdick spent the Fourth of July week-end at Wausaukee, where her parents have a summer cottage.

Lorraine Clair's Engagement Announced by Parents.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Clair of Lake Shore drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Lorraine, to William John Burns, son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Burns of Detroit. The engagement was announced at a small family dinner in the Clairs' summer home in Delavan Lake, Wis. Miss Clair was graduated from St. Mary's college of Notre Dame. Mr. Burns attended Notre Dame.

The engagement of Miss Sara Lockhart to Robert Edwin Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Allen of Evanston, was announced at a tea on Saturday in the home of Mrs. John Parker of Dallas, Tex. Miss Lockhart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robin M. Lockhart of Dallas. She attended Southern Methodist university. Mr. Allen studied at Principia and at the

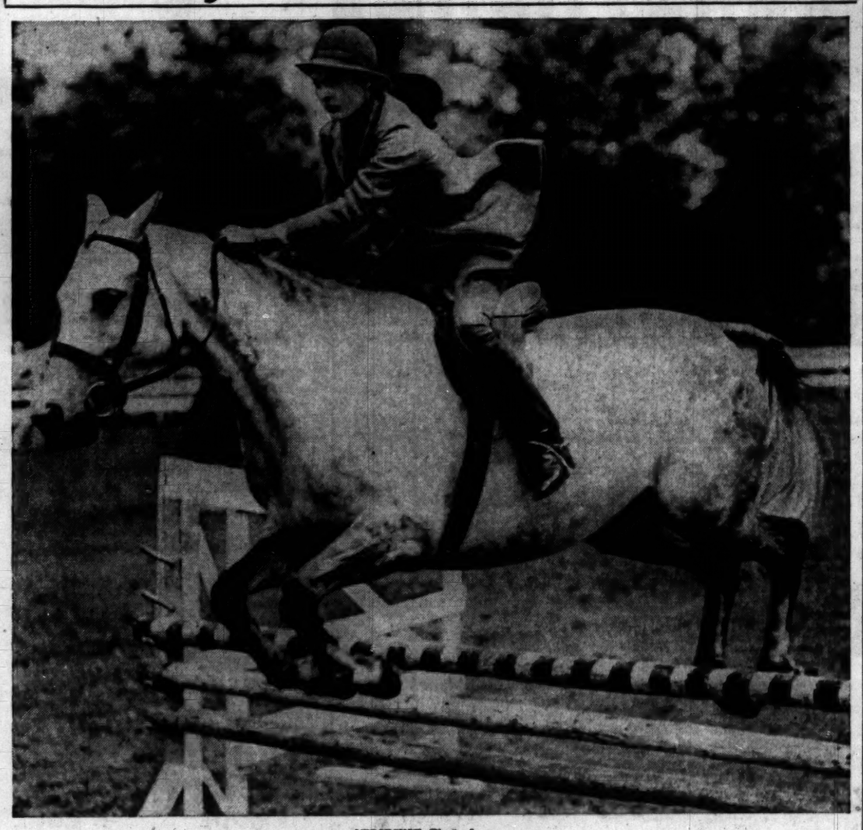
Promoting Private Horse Show in Wheaton



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Kimball Salisbury, one of the best known horsewomen in this part of the country, is on the committee that is working with Mrs. Louis F. Swift to promote a private horse show on Sunday, July 27. It will be held at the Swifts' estate in Wheaton and will be an all day affair.

Mrs. L. F. Swift to Stage Horse Show on Estate

Those enthusiastic riders, who bewailed the lack of Chicago horse shows this summer when the annual Lake Forest show was canceled, will be glad to hear that a new event has been scheduled for Sunday, July 27. The show, a private venture, is the inspiration of Mrs. Louis F. Swift, who, with Mr. Swift, is turning over their 140 acre estate in Wheaton for the all-day event.

Starting at 9:30 o'clock and continuing all day, there'll be classes for hunters, children, and open jumping. General admission tickets and parking spaces will be sold at the gate.

During the next two weeks Mrs. Swift and her helpers will be busy erecting jumps and mapping out courses on the Swift estate. Her committee includes Mrs. Edward H. Bennett, Mrs. Charles H. Coffin, Mrs. John G. Curtis, Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. William B. McIlvaine Jr., Mrs. William R. Odell Jr., Mrs. Montgomery Orr, Mrs. Orton Prime of Oconomowoc, Wis., Mrs. Kimball Salisbury, Mrs. Frederick W. Woodruff of Joliet, Miss Anne Jay Bryant, Miss Nancy and Miss Sally Miller, Miss Ginevra Mitchell, David Adler, Col. Wilson P. Evans, Denison B. Hull, Theodore A. Mohlman, and Robert Peggs of South Bend, Ind.

There'll be no problem of what to do with the children during the show, for Mrs. Swift is planning to erect a miniature amusement park on the grounds. The former Libby Chase has sponsored a number of children's shows in Lake Forest, but her present show is thought to be the first privately sponsored one ever held in Chicago for adults.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

These are times when every woman, and most especially those who must work for a living, feel the need of a beauty aid that will help restore facial freshness at the end of a day. The combination of hot weather and unusual problems takes its toll of good looks and glamor.

It's when you need a pick-up for your face that a good mask preparation is invaluable. There's magic in masks nowadays. They rase the gray shadow of fatigue rom your skin and, for a few hours at least, help you look fresh and radiant.

Our own preference is for masks that are gentle but efficient, and that's one reason why we've made a pink cream mask a special summer favorite. It's rather a spongy sort of cream, with a cool fragrance and a cool pastel tint, and the very feel of it against your skin when you smooth it on is restful and refreshing. It's to be applied to a perfectly cleansed skin, of course.

After it's been on a short time it begins to firm and you have a pleasant sense of quickened circulation. When you wash it off in warm water —which you're to do after 10 or 15 minutes—your skin has a pretty pink-and-pearl kind of a glow that sticks with you for hours. It's a wonderful little treatment when you're tired but daren't look it.

Your makeup will go on better because the skin surface has been smoothed and that faint glow that peeps thru is the nicest quality any woman's complexion can have. That's girlish radiance, that is. It's a grand day for us working women when such a quality can come out of a jar!

Conductors.

Telfer MacArthur, sitting in a box at Ravinia last Saturday night beside this week's guest conductor, Nicolai Malko, while Sir Thomas Beecham conducted, was interested to observe one conductor's reaction to another's performance. Malko, he noticed, got out his watch as Sir Thomas raised his baton, and checked the minutes of each number. At the conclusion of the Sibelius Seventh Symphony, Malko murmured: "One minute ahead of time."

Familiar Names.

The supper quiz at Pact Farm, camp for underprivileged boys near Chesterton, Ind., had to do with farming. Said little Jacob Berman when asked to name the various milch cows: "Jerseys, Guernseys and Goldsteins."

Cuffnotes.

Private musical performance cherished by hearers, the flute playing of René le Roy, celebrated French flutist, at the George Voevodsky home late Saturday night after his Ravinia appearance, with Sergei Tarnovsky accompanying him at the piano. When he repeated DeBussy's Syrinx which he had played as an encore at Ravinia, the lights were turned out and hearers listened in darkness to the incomparable sounds drifting in from the stairway where Le Roy had gone to play the piece written by DeBussy for unaccompanied flute. . . . Lady Cunard, whose London salons of some years ago were the gathering place of the genius and wit in London, told Claire Dux Swift that when she used to appear in opera in London she was the greatest and most admired opera singer who sang there.

Power of Suggestion.

A stranger telephoned, chuckling. He had been having a cabinet bath at the Dearborn club, and M. Jacques Fumagally, proprietor of Jacques' French restaurant, also was having a cabinet bath. He knew his identity because he heard him order 10 pounds of Melba toast for his restaurant. Anyway while M. Fumagally was in his cabinet bath he had an inspiration for a new kind of lobster dish.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

AHA! A little "A" picture peeking out from behind a "B" classification!

Or, at least, so thought your humble servant as she watched "She Knew All the Answers" unreel.

Here's a comedy that has an edge on a lot more pretentious and widely heralded films that I could name. It's fast. It's droll. It's unexpected. It's most excellently acted save in a couple of spots where Joan Bennett overdoes a bit. . . . Pantomime by Eve Arden and Franchot Tone is simply delightful.

Re the story:

A wealthy playboy [John Hubbard] is all set to wed a gorgeous chorus girl [Joan Bennett], when he lets drop the news that he, Randy, will be disinherited if his marriage should prove distasteful to his guardian. [Mr. Tone]. WHICH SAME IS.

Gloria loves Randy for himself alone. BUT—She doesn't want to be the cause of consigning to a life of hard labor a lad who's never labored in his life. . . . SO—SHE says:

"Tell you what, me lad—I'LL get a job in Mr. Willow's so classy Wall street offices and MAKE the watchdog like me and admit I'm just the girl for you. . . ."

By fair and foul means Gloria lands a switchboard position in the brokerage concern of Willows & Wharton . . . and I'll let the story go on from here. . . .

Eve Arden plays Gloria's roommate. THERE'S an actress! And SO easy to look at!

The piece moves along at a lively clip from start to finish. Dialog's pat and peppy. Laughs bubble up in the oddest places. Direction was aces and staging and photography are like that too.

I'd say the players had as much fun making the film as you have watching it. Which is fun aplenty.

Museum Shows Cities, Denizens of Ocean Deeps

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

This is a fish story that has taken 20 years to tell. It concerns a strange colony of fish from all parts of the world and "the big ones that did not get away."

The story has its climax in the cool recesses of Hall O in the Field Museum, where the eerie and beautiful forms of approximately 500 species of fish glisten behind glass cases or seemingly swim in the queer cities of the ocean depths. Today the hall will be opened to the general public after 20 years' preparation.

Here in a massive case is housed that great defenseless giant, the beautifully patterned whale shark. The largest of all fishes extant, the whale shark is called the checkerboard fish by the Spaniards in description of its regular stripes and polka dots. Despite its size [the museum's specimen is 25 feet long and of unknown weight as there was no apparatus capable of weighing it], the whale fish feeds only on minute forms of animal life that inhabit the water.

Here, too, is the tiny sharp-nose puffer, less than three inches long, a beautiful blot of purple, blue and coral. Then there is the parrot fish with the face of a saucy bird and a body with blue, yellow, and pink colors as soft as feathers; the green moray from tropical America that looks like a giant string bean; the tiny goggle-eye that peers from black-rimmed eyes, and the hammerhead shark whose sharp eyes resemble lights on the wings of a plane.

One end of the hall is given over to a series of undersea habitat groups in which the museum visitor may see the animal and plant life in the depths of the sea as the fishes themselves see their surroundings. These submarine seascapes have been planned and executed with artistry and accuracy. They are the result of long years of research and expeditions in which museum explorers went to the bottom of the sea by means of submarine tubes and diving bells to study the strange life which throngs there.

As if from a dark cave fringing the reef of Rose Island in the Bahamas, a visitor may peer out at a sea scene of glowing coral and green where myriad fish seem to pursue their meek and vicious ways undisturbed by human eyes. Another scene shows the oyster beds of the Gulf of Mexico along the Texas coast, where the large jacks and red drum fish hunt for crabs. The third scene is a deep tidepool on the rocky coast of Maine.

The fish in the latter scene were caught by Alfred C. Weed, curator of fishes for the museum who has carried on the scientific research and prepared the labels for the exhibit, and Leon L. Pray, staff taxidermist who prepared all the specimens in the collection. It depicts how various fish change their colors to match their habitat for protection, such as the sculpins, squatty basslike fish with fins like prongs, who imitate the vivid incrustation of rocks and mussels.

Perhaps one of the most interesting specimens in the hall is the wahoo donated by Leon Mandel. "The best fish story I ever heard was about the wahoo," Mr. Weed, volunteered yesterday. "It seems that when the Templeton Crocker expedition of the American Museum was in the Pacific ocean at the Galapagos Islands they received a request for a doctor from a nearby tuna fleet. When the doctor arrived he was told that a wahoo had jumped 15 feet from the water and grabbed one of the fishermen by the throat. The doctor sewed up the deep lacerations in the man's throat and barely saved his life. I believe it. The wahoo is friskier than its name."

Looking at Hollywood
by John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., July 14.—Actors go on location, but screen writers rarely do. Stars camp out in desert heat or mountain loneliness in brave self-sacrifice in order to give themselves backgrounds of reality, but writers usually grind out their 10 pages a day in an office with a secretary. Their only traveling is done in the dizzy reaches of their minds; their only exercise comes when they pose as mad geniuses for a layout of life. If they get cornered and are in need of solid information, they merely call an office boy and send him with a memo to research. "Dear research," they will say, "is a belaying pin something you put sails together with?"

Well, the Warners seem to be changing all this. They are sending writers out on assignments. They are dispatching Scott Darling and Erna Lazarus to Halifax to turn out a story about convoy espionage. And they are sending Richard Macaulay all the way to Albuquerque and back in a Santa Fe freight caboose, to get himself a drama called "night freight." This is two steps in the right direction. Time may come when all the studios will say to all their writers, "Get off your franceses, boys and girls, and go out in the world and dig something up first hand." Boy, what an invasion we'll be in for!

Ronald Colman, who already owns a dude ranch, has opened a steak house in Santa Barbara. . . . John Cromwell will direct "Benjamin Blake" for 20th Century Fox. A camera crew is being sent by Clipper to the South Seas to get backgrounds for this Ty Power-Ida Lupino starrer. . . . Idle thought: I wonder if anybody ever eloped from Las Vegas and got married in Hollywood. . . . Fleeter, a houn' dawg who worked in "Sergeant York," is also the dawg in "Swamp Water." He's been in Florida working on location in the Kefenokee swamp. Figuring that a return trip by train in midsummer heat might make Fleeter ill, 20th Century-Fox is bringing him back by chartered plane. The actors, tho, are coming back by train.

The more I hear of slingin' Sammy Baugh, the football star who is making the "King of the Texas Rangers" serial for Republic, the better I like him. A fan mag gal interviewed Sammy the other day and asked him how he liked the movies, and she darn near fainted when he said he thought they were a lot of obscenity. He's heard actors complain of the awful grind, the hard work. "Why," he said, "it's like kids playing cowboys and Indians. I don't see how you can get worn out making faces at a camera. Easiest money I ever made."

Out on the "How Green Was My Valley" location, which is one of Hollywood's most costly setups, an assistant to John Ford was checking up on the script and noted that something seemed to have been forgotten. The script called for one practical winze, so the assistant phoned the studio prop department and asked for one to be sent out. Props dispatched a truck with several winches of assorted sizes, but they wouldn't do—because a winze is just mining jargon for a hole in the ground and it had already been made.

"The Valley" winze is part of a coal mine Mr. Zanuck commanded built. It was a queer business building that mine. It had to be the real thing—but if it were made too deep it would really be a mine [even though the coal had to be loaded into it] and it would have to be inspected by state officials. The depth was fixed at 20 feet. It's a wet mine, too, and Ford has been working hip deep in water.

Ford is also working up to his ears in Welsh singers, many of whom really are miners. The miners wanted a few rats in their coal mine for the sake of accuracy, but Ford nixed it. The singers have been singing all their lives, because they're Welsh, but this is the first time most of them have made any money with their voices. Each of them carries in his pocket, mixed up with his pipe, tobacco, and keys, a pitch-pipe or a tuning fork. At the drop of a hat they'll gather and tear off a Handel oratorio or an old madrigal.

The first day Ford thought this music was wonderful. The third day he ordered, "any of you who sings when he doesn't have to gets fired." This threw the boys for a moment, until Ford explained he wanted them to save their voices for the movie scenes. Then they explained, "if we don't sing we'll be smoking too much and that will really hurt our voices." So Ford is up to his ears in music yet, and loves it.

The director knows them all now, and has had to memorize their first names because two-thirds of them are Williamses.

AND MY SUDS! YOU'LL SWAN, TOO!

'CAUSE THIS WHIZ OF A NEW FLOATING SOAP SUDS TWICE AS FAST—IN HARDEST WATER!

YOU'LL Swan, all right, when you see how fast this new floating soap whisks into suds in local hard water!

1. Suds twice as fast as old-type floating soaps—even in water "hard as nails!"

2. Gives richer, creamier, more lasting lather, too.

3. Whiter! Pure and mild as imported "100% olive oil" castiles. Ask your doctor about Swan. He has details in his medical journals.

4. Much firmer! Lasts and lasts! Feel Swan! It's solider—has far less moisture than old-style floating soaps. Won't warp, either.

5. Breaks smoother—and easily, too! Nice as pie you get 2 lovely cakes; one for kitchen, one for bathroom.

6. Smells fresher, cleaner! Never strong or stale.

7. Feels smoother! Finer-textured!

8. More real soap for your money! Swan is made with far less moisture than old-style floating soaps. No need to put away a supply to dry and harden. We do it.

Use Swan for face or undies, for baby or dishes. If you don't find it better than any floating soap you've ever used, mail us the wrapper and we'll send you double your money back. Swan, Lever Brothers Company, Cambridge, Mass.

Beauty Adviser to Actresses Tells Her Loveliness Theory

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

Now that scores of ambitious girls will be traveling to the hinterlands for a try at summer stock, it is interesting to note that much of their training will revolve around attaining "the body beautiful." For summer time is BEAUTY TIME and while the modern Miss America will spend her week-ends and vacation time basking in the sunshine, or putting unused muscles into play with exercise and sports, the young thespian of tomorrow must put concentrated effort into achieving this goal.

Edith Bond Stearns, who directs the destiny of one of the most interesting of the summer groups, the Peterborough Players at Peterborough, N. H., has evolved the theory that the human body, much like the action of a motor car, must first be put into "neutral" if it is later to reach high gear. Naturally, Mrs. Stearns' number one company at Peterborough is made up of experienced Equity players who already have been thru the paces of voice and body development. On the other hand, the apprentice group, comprised of eager youngsters from all parts of the United States, are given these courses in body development thrice weekly for poise and grace as well as fluidity in walking, acting, or while simply in repose.

"To put the body into neutral," declares Mrs. Stearns, "one must first overcome every conceivable defect in posture. We at Peterborough study the carriage and stance of every apprentice for possible defects or unsightly mannerisms. Those needing corrective exercises are given them, and the entire group is put into the capable hands of an experienced actress who has had considerable training of her own, ballet work and body development.

"Classes in body control work take place twice weekly at one and a half hour sessions. Dances, often replacing tiresome exercises, are selected for their effect on posture, for freedom of movement, and relaxed coordination. The minuet, for example, which is a formal dance, stresses statelliness in carriage. The fast, fluid folk dances of many lands also are taught for the complete abandon they suggest."

"A Debt Is Paid"

SYNOPSIS.

Kathleen Murray, New York secretary, inherits a substantial life income and a home on Lake Willow, in California, from her grandmother. She resigns her job, sublets her apartment and goes to California to live.

INSTALMENT II.

BUDDING GENIUS.

Susan followed Kathleen out to the veranada.

"There's some lively young folks working at the theater, Miss Kitty. Why not join them? Some are amateurs, so you needn't have to be good. But they're always enjoying themselves. You'd get to know Miss Carol Keyes and get invited to her parties."

Kathleen was not interested, but she did not care even to seem to snub the kind old Susan. She would now give anything to take back some of the things she had said to her grandmother.

"It isn't in my line, Susan. And I wouldn't have the nerve. I mean I don't know any of them."

"That don't matter, Miss Kitty. Jeanie Payson knows Mr. Lang that writes plays for them. He lives in one of the hotel cabins. And there's Jeanie now." Susan leaned over the rail of the veranada and called to the girl walking on the lakeside footpath. "Yoohoo, Jeanie—come up here. Miss Murray wants to talk to you."

Jeanie came across the grass and ran up the wooden veranda steps. She was a very young girl with curly red hair, water clear hazel eyes, and a thickly freckled face. She wore a tan shirt and brown slacks and moved as lithely as an Indian in rubber soled sneakers.

Kathleen liked her at once, but did not wish to talk about the theater. But Susan was too quick for her.

"Jeanie, Miss Murray wants to meet Mr. Lang. Think you can fix it for her?"

"Surely. Now would be a good time. I just saw him at his cabin busy on some work."

"But I couldn't interrupt him," said Kathleen.

"That's all right, Miss Murray. He loves being interrupted. He'd rather talk than write. He says so himself."

"You seem to know his habits very well."

Jeanie laughed. "Sure. He's come here for three summers." She turned to the veranda steps. "Shall we go?"

Kathleen followed her feeling like a tug kidnaped by a battleship, altho there was no suggestion of power in the girl's lank, childish grace. But she certainly did sail thru things without superfluous argument.

Kathleen looked at her as they walked together by the blue water. She was not attractive. She wore no makeup on her dewy skin, but her hands were exquisitely manicured and her hair glossy and beautifully done. They turned off the lake path and began to climb up to the summer cabins among the trees.

"Mr. Lang is professor of drama at Westwood," Jeanie explained. "Or at least he will be in the fall. He just took his degree. He works here to enjoy himself. He writes a lot of the plays."

"Is that what he's doing now?"

"Uh-uh. And he's having a tough time with this one. He told me only this morning he was all tied in knots."

Kathleen hung back. "Then we'd better not interrupt ——"

"But he likes it, I told you. He says you can always tell a real writer by the way he's so delighted to leave his work and waste his time talking."

"He sounds a cynic."

"O, no, Miss Murray. He's the swellest person—I mean he's anything but that."

They went on. Jeanie pointed out the cabin as they came in sight of it. A young man with ruffled hair was sitting on a stool outside the door in front of a portable on an upturned packing case. He wore old gray slacks and a zippered blue sport shirt open at the neck.

Jeanie let out an Indian war whoop and the young man howled back without looking up. Kathleen thought with amusement, well, they certainly are on very familiar terms.

But when Jeanie was introducing her and some strange affinity between herself and the attractive stranger reached out and linked them intangibly at once, she hoped they were not.

Jeanie got no summer vacations. She was a young woman of responsibility, and when she saw the two were at ease together she excused herself nonchalantly and went about her affairs.

Kathleen had been reluctant to go out of her way to meet him, but now she was glad to make a new friend. She felt his informal, warm friendliness.

"Jeanie was telling me you were all tied in knots. What are you writing? Or is it a secret?"

"No secret." They began to stroll up the woodland path together. "This is a swell place to work in, but I miss a reference library. Now I'm stumped because they don't have coroners' inquests in New York state. I mean I've never studied the routine of the medical examiner's office."

Kathleen was interested and eager. "O, I can help you with that. I worked in a New York attorney's office before I inherited my house. I happened to learn about the procedure of the medical examiner when I worked on the details of a rather grim case. Some relatives of a dead man accused his wife of poisoning him while he was ill to get his money."

"O, swell! Tell me about it."

Kathleen's laughter rang thru the woods. "You are bloodthirsty! But I know what you mean ——"

Very soon she was discussing the plot of his new play with him, disagreeing about feminine behavior, explaining her view of it, making suggestions.

Huga Lang had humorous eyes and attractive mannerisms. He talked with a spirited enthusiasm and gestured with his pipe as he talked.

"I agree with what you say about what the girl would do. But the trouble is our leading lady. She wouldn't want to act anything that put her in a bad light."

"But goodness, isn't she an artist?"

"No. She's an oil heiress with a passion for the stage. She's put up the money for the season, so we have to have her, with or without art."

"That's terrible!"

"But not insoluble. I have a greater problem to solve. How can I get any of these seedy has-beens or would-be Hollywood glamor boys to look and act like a sensitive boy of 16?"

Kathleen tingled with the sensation that this meeting was brushed with fate.

"You'll think I'm a know-it-all, but I believe I can help with that also. I know such a boy. He's a genius. And he is 16."

They sat on a fallen trunk where the sun shone in slanting bars of radiance. Lang seemed to like looking at Kathleen. But now his eyes were full of laughter.

"Genius is a strong word. How do you know it is in this boy?"

"Because it sticks out of him. He's the son of a struggling widow who has the apartment across the landing from me where I used to live. He used to make stages and models of Shakespearean characters out of cardboard and dime store paints when he was only 8 years old. Now he can recite whole acts, taking all the parts, and change character so marvelously with voice and expression you would think you were watching the play."

"You would think so if you saw him."

"I don't have to see him. Sixteen. Those adverse conditions. That self-propelled, self-generated devotion to Shakespeare is enough. Tell me, does he rant? Or is he natural in the modern manner?"

"O, modern. He manages somehow to see all the best plays. O, he's a wonderful boy, Mr. Lang. Do let me send for him."

"You're a very impulsive girl, Miss Murray. This thing might only run a week. Depends on the hash Carol makes of it. Suppose we brought him all the way to California, rehearsed him, had him in the limelight for a week, and send him back to New York? Wouldn't that unsettle him?"

"No. He's too mature and philosophical. Besides, you said yourself, movie scouts come to see the productions. He might get a Hollywood contract or a chance at Broadway."

Lang knocked his pipe out on the trunk. He was half won.

"Curiouser things have happened. Pity he doesn't live in Los Angeles. The trip is so expensive."

If you plan to serve roast guinea hen or breast of guinea on toast for a special party, be sure that those guinea hens are young. If you get an old bird, there's nothing to do but simmer it until tender, in which case you may slice the breast meat and serve it on slices of broiled ham or Canadian bacon with broiled mushrooms or mushroom sauce.

Guinea fowl used to be "out of season" at this time of year, but poultrymen have taken to raising them, especially for hotel and restaurant trade. Homemakers may obtain them, too, of course. They're a great delicacy.

The breast is almost all there is to a guinea hen, but for economy's sake it is well to braise the back and legs for another meal. Here's how to prepare the breasts.

BREAST OF GUINEA HEN.

Allow one breast per portion. You'll have to buy the whole bird, altho the dealer will remove the breast for you. [Braise back and legs at a later time. Do not waste them.] Roll breasts in salted and peppered flour, and brown them slowly in butter. When they are as golden brown as you like them, remove them to a casserole. Cover the casserole and bake in a 325 degree oven for half an hour. Place guinea breasts on a hot platter and make a gravy from the drippings, using rich milk or cream. Serve a breast to each person, with some of the cream gravy, and broiled or sautéed mushroom caps.

Roast young guinea hen with wild rice dressing is a wonderfully good dish, too. Some persons prefer the wild rice served separately.

ROAST GUINEA HEN.

A young bird probably will not weigh more than three pounds. Allow at least a pound per portion. Singe and wipe birds, and rub butter into the cavities. Sprinkle inside with salt. Place a quartered onion and a quartered green pepper, seeds removed, in the cavity, or fill with wild rice stuffing. Truss and place, breast side down, in open baking pan. Lay strips of bacon or salt pork over the back. Bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees, for 20 minutes, or long enough to brown. Then reduce heat quickly to 325 degrees [before the guinea has time to dry out], turn birds breast side up, cover with fresh bacon or salt pork strips, and continue roasting until tender, about 20 minutes to the pound. Calculate time by the weight of one bird, not by the total weight of several. A three pound bird or several of that weight will take about an hour in all.

Place guinea hens on a hot platter and keep warm while making gravy from drippings. Use cream, and add the ground or chopped cooked giblets to the gravy.

Sometimes a little current jelly is added to the gravy for guinea fowl.

Wild rice is a good accompaniment for any gamey-flavored meat. It is the seed of a tall water grass. Wild rice grains are long and greenish, and require a different cooking method than is common for ordinary rice.

To Cook Wild Rice.

[Six portions.]

¾ cup wild rice
½ teaspoon salt
3 cups boiling water
1 tablespoon butter

Wash rice thoroly in cold water several times. Add salt to boiling water. Add rice gradually, so slowly that water continues to boil. Shake the saucepan frequently to keep the rice from sticking, but do not stir or you'll not have separate, whole grains. Cook 25 to 45 minutes, or until rice is tender and water has been absorbed. Add butter and serve. Do not serve potatoes in a meal with wild rice, as the two foods serve the same purpose.

If you cook backs and legs of guinea in water, separately from breasts, or if you have an old guinea which must be simmered until tender, the liquid used is fine for cooking wild rice.

University of Illinois. They plan to be married early in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard I. Potter of Glencoe will give a reception on Aug. 2 at the Knollwood Country club for their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Angle Reed, who were married on July 3 at Lake Geneva. Mr. Reed is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Reed of Prairie View, Ill., formerly of Glencoe.

The former Miss Potter will enter Northwestern university in September. Mr. Reed received his degree last month from the University of Wisconsin. They are making their home in Evanston.

Polo Championships Awarded Oakbrook.

After several months of negotiations the national 12 goal and Intercircuit polo championships have been awarded to the Oakbrook Polo club in Hinsdale. Play will start on Aug. 16 and continue to Aug. 31. Paul Butler, captain of the Oakbrook team, and his players are departing Thursday for Fort Snelling, Minn., to compete in the annual aquatennial tournament.

When they return from camp the first of next month Lester Armour Jr. and David C. Wilhelm will join the Oakbrook squad. Mr. Wilhelm led the Yale team to victory in the national intercollegiate championships last May.

A former Oakbrook player who will return to compete with the Texas Huisaches in the Intercircuit matches is Bobby Nichoalds. His team is led by Robert D. Farish, uncle of William S. Farish Jr., who may be here later this summer to join his wife, the former Mary Wood, at the home of her parents, Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood in Highland Park. Preceding the nationals, the Central Circuit championships will be settled with the Oakbrook, and teams from Detroit, Cleveland, and Minneapolis-St. Paul competing.

Numerous Box Parties. at Ravinia Concert Tonight.

The opening concert of Nicolai Malko's guest conductorship at Ravinia park tonight will attract a large audience without a doubt. The George Voevodskys will have the wife of the conductor in their box, together with their nephew, Lawrence R. Dawson, and Prince and Princess Galitzine.

Durand Smith will have the box that is being divided this summer between the Harold McLains and the Ravinia executive committee. Mr. Smith's guests will be his cousin, Mme. Martha Marquiset of Pasadena; the Daggett Harveys, and the Winston Eltings. Mrs. James Otis Hinkley will have the James T. Addingtons, Mrs. Robert G. McGann, and Mrs. H. H. Brady as her guests.

Several of the younger sailors at Lake Geneva have gone to Minneapolis, Minn., for the second annual Cub regatta being held on Lake Calhoun today, tomorrow, and Thursday. July 15, 1941.

Universal day—Make decisions and take action today. Not the time to procrastinate.

Special numbers—Number 23 is another number with a vibration of royalty. The symbol is the "Royal Star of the Lion." It supposedly brings success and brings one help from important people, famous people and those who are in superior positions. Since it reduces to a five, you can see it is a mental number. It also is a number of protection and so is suitable for house numbers, etc. If used, it might bring important contacts and publicity, and certainly promises plenty of activity. Remember the old slang expression "23 skiddoo"?

A Good Letter to Sally Is Pass for Ball Game

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

July 24 is the date, Wrigley field is the place—and all you boys and girls who've been watching the party news know the rest, don't you?

That's the day the Chicago Cubs meet the Boston Braves, and it's also party day. One hundred boys and girls will be cheering in the stands, but we still haven't decided who they'll be. We won't either, until next Thursday, so if you'd like to be with us that day you have until then to do something about it.

I know, of course, that every little Cub fan in the city would like to be there, but I really can't manage that many thousand children for even one afternoon. I'll have to choose 50 boys and 50 girls as my guests. They'll be the youngsters who can convince me that baseball and the Cubs mean more to them than any other sport or entertainment. I want to hear from children who love baseball, and I don't expect to have a bit of trouble finding them.

Any boy or girl is eligible to write in for an invitation, and you may tell me anything you like when you write—all about your favorite players or anything else that will convince me that you'd really and truly have a swell time if I invited you to this party.

Don't forget, tho, that you must remember to include your name, address, and age in that letter and it must be on my desk by next Thursday morning. If you forget those three little items you can't possibly be a winner and you won't see your name in next SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE with the fortunate boys and girls who will be chosen as my guests.

Yearbook Reports 3 Million Members in Chicago Churches

The 16th annual yearbook of the Chicago Church federation, which came from the press yesterday, announces that the 2,000 churches of Chicago now have more than an aggregate of 3 million members with about two and a half millions equally divided between the Catholic church and the Protestant denominations.

The year book, known as the Blue book of Chicago Protestantism, lists one new communion this year. This is the Church of the East, commonly known as the Nestorian church, and is represented by one congregation with headquarters at the Chicago Theological seminary, 5757 University avenue.

Synagogue membership is reported at 300,000 and another 200,000 members of various other communions are indicated.

The largest Protestant group listed is the Negro Baptist with 112,008 members. Three Presbyterian groups are reported as aggregating 53,870 members, and fifth on the list is the combined membership of two Episcopal communions which list 40,286 members between them. These are the Protestant Episcopal church and the Reformed Episcopal church. The congregational church reported 33,551 members.

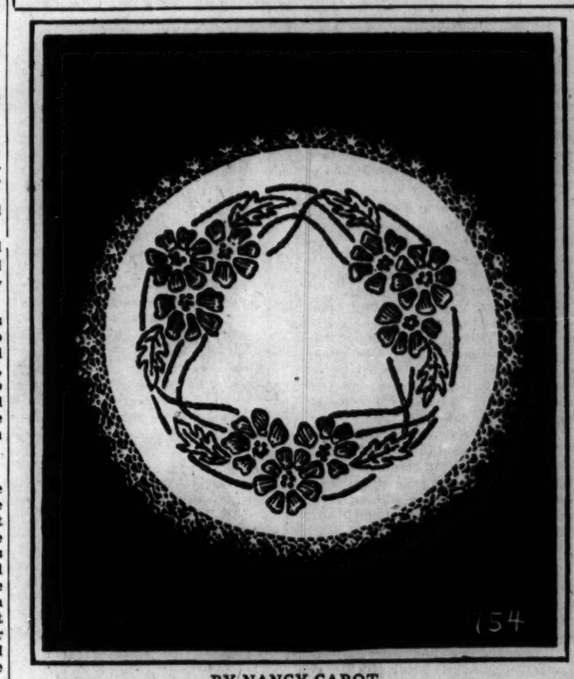
Village Summer Players to Open Season Tonight

Mr. and Mrs. M. Lee Alberts, Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher, Miss Alice Gerstenberg, and Miss Emily Goehst are taking parties to the opening of The Village Summer Theater Players in Hinsdale tonight. The play to be given is "Time for Romance" by Miss Gerstenberg.

Pattern Creates Doilies



BY NANCY CABOT.

Embroidered linen doilies are a "must" in every household, and this ever popular design has been a perennial favorite for years. The decorative crocheted edging may be in white to match the linen, or done in a color to match one of the shades of the flowers. This same design may be used for pillow tops or in the center of a tea cloth.

For the hot iron transfer pattern and crochet instructions for the circular doily, No. 754, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

In auction days about one-half the hands were played in no trump. Minor suits were generally despised and, in fact, many a good major contract was shelved in favor of the ubiquitous no trump. With the advent of contract, and the remarkable strides made in the theory and practice of bidding, it became clear that no trump was a greatly overstressed bid, but now, due to the tremendous popularity of duplicate bridge, no trump has again acquired too much favor.

This hand occurred in a recent duplicate game. I took the pains to examine the traveling score sheet after the finish and, to my amazement, found that in an eight table game not one North-South team had played the hand at the correct club denomination. All had been lured by the siren, no trump, this in spite of the fact that a grand slam in clubs was ice cold. The bidding at several tables had gone:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 spades	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's column.

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 spades	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 no trump*	Pass	5 clubs*	Pass
5 no trump*	Pass	6 clubs	Pass
Pass	Pass

*4-5 no trump convention.

A club bid, rather than an opening spade bid, is preferable on South's hand because of the great honor strength. South's theory should be to make it as easy as possible for North to respond. Obviously, it is much easier to find a response at the one level in answer to a club, than a response that may have to be at the two level in answer to a spade.

When South, having started with one club, later jumps to two spades, North has the material for better than the mere "preference" of three clubs. The rest becomes automatic. Seven, as I have said, is not easy to bid because, from North's point of view, South may hold only the ace and two low hearts.

Tomorrow's Hand.

At other tables, South had leaped directly to three no trump over North's one heart response, and in these cases, too, North had retired from the auction, apparently delighted to aim at a nine trick game. At no trump, the declarers could take only their top 10 tricks. At clubs, a grand slam would have been easy, requiring only reasonable care on declarer's part. Obviously, dummy could have ruffed three spades, and declarer's losing diamond would have gone on dummy's fourth heart.

Divert Child Wisely During Bad Weather

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

We are so inclined to think of summer days as clear, warm, and delightful that we overlook the fact that we do have a rainy spell now and then when the children have to be indoors and occupied. Don't let a rainy day catch you unawares and unprepared, or you're likely to hear the old refrain, "What can we do now, mother?"

A friend of mine was talking of this only the other day.

"I well remember when we children were little and all at home, mother always let us play on rainy days in what we called the 'glory hole.' It was just a large closet running away back under the back stairway, where mother always kept a certain amount of toys, puzzles, trains, blocks, jumping ropes, jacks, balls, dolls, doll houses, and dozens of other things that could only be played with when the weather was bad and we couldn't be outdoors. All the children in the neighbordhood knew about our 'glory hole' and revelled in its contents, just as we did. Everything in it always seemed new and fresh each time we took the toys out, and we never seemed to tire of the comprehensive array of materials."

It takes thought and ingenuity to keep children amused and out of mischief, especially those in the in-between years, 6 to 12, unless you have bookworms in the family who can completely lose themselves in the pages of a book and forget about the inclement weather outside. It's a good idea to alternate activities so that one game will be a quiet one and the next one requiring a lot of activity.

Of course, a great many mothers won't trouble themselves to this extent. They pack the children off to the movies on a rainy day, often with disregard for the kind of picture or pictures that may be showing at the theater. This does away with the bother of having them underfoot and coaxing for amusement, but it isn't [to put it mildly] the best thing in the world for the children.

WEDDINGS

Miss Margarite Clemensen, daughter of Mrs. Christen Clemensen of Exchange avenue, and Robert Juhl Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jens Nelson of Chicago Heights, will be married on July 26 in St. John's Methodist church. A reception will follow at the Windermere East hotel.

The marriage of Miss Katharine Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wells Hall of Evanston, to Dr. Edward Huger Roberts will take place on July 15. A wedding reception will follow in the home of the bride's parents.

The marriage of Mrs. Rosemaie C. Power of San Francisco and Hollister, Cal., to John H. Gregg of Oak Park took place on July 1 in the Methodist church of Reno, Nev. A wedding breakfast was held several days later at the Palace hotel, San Francisco, preceding their sailing for Honolulu. Mr. Gregg will bring his bride, who formerly was dean of women at San Benito County Junior college in Hollister, to Oak Park to reside.

The marriage of Miss Mary Rocho, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Rocho of Freeport, Ill., to Robert Earl Houston of River Forest will take place on Aug. 9 in the First Presbyterian church of Freeport.

DISCIPLINE WEAK AT ST. CHARLES, SAYS EX-GUARD

Lays Parolees' Misdeeds to Laxity at School.

A former guard at the St. Charles School for Boys yesterday charged that persistent refusal of the management to enforce discipline explains the failure to achieve a greater degree of reform among the inmates.

He said he was not surprised to hear that another parolee, Richard Wesolik, was sought for the murder yesterday of Mrs. Margaret Jung, mother of five children, on the Jung farm near Woodstock.

Lloyd L. Gritton, who quit as a guard July 1 to accept private employment, had two years' experience as a guard at Stateville penitentiary before going to St. Charles on March 15. He was one of six prison guards assigned there by Rodney H. Brandon, state director of public welfare, in an effort to improve conditions at St. Charles.

Assails Harmon Policies.

"Lack of discipline is the reason only 27 per cent of St. Charles 'graduates' make good after their release compared with 87 per cent for the Stateville prison," Gritton said.

He asserted that many faults can be traced to the policies of the superintendent, William T. Harmon. Harmon is scheduled to retire as superintendent on Sept. 1, but it is reported that he will be given another position at St. Charles. He is an appointee of the late Gov. Horner.

"When the six prison guards arrived Harmon wouldn't let us handle the inmates," Gritton said. "We were told to sit back and take it easy. My guess is that we were put there to make the public think that something was being done.

Takes Word of Inmates.

"Superintendent Harmon takes the word of the inmates rather than that of the guards when there is trouble. I told him this was breaking down morale at the institution.

"Whenever we had a suggestion about discipline it was vetoed. We were told that St. Charles was not a penal institution. I tried in vain to convince Harmon that the only difference between a lot of the St. Charles youths and those at Stateville was in age—that they were criminals.

"Four boys who stole tobacco were not sent to Pierce cottage, the disciplinary cottage, altho I recommended it. I'll admit that it wouldn't have made much difference because there they get as good or better meals than the others get, and they don't have to go to school. Why, even the Geneva school for delinquent girls has better discipline than St. Charles."

FORMER INDIANA PASTOR AND WIFE ARE FOUND DEAD

Toledo, O., July 14 (AP).—Kenneth McCoy, 48 years old, and his wife, Esther, about 32, were found dead today in a downtown rooming house. Police investigated after Chief Ray E. Allen received a letter which began: "Dear chief: I hope when you receive this letter that you will find my husband and I both dead at 111 12th street, Toledo."

The letter alluded to "family trouble" and identified McCoy as a former minister in Albion and Claypool, Ind.

Mentioned in the letter were McCoy's father, the Rev. Noah McCoy, North Manchester, Ind.; his sister, Mrs. Vern Gingher, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Mrs. McCoy's father, Earl A. Parrett, South Whitley, Ind., according to police. The letter was signed "Esther McCoy."

A six ounce bottle which had contained poison and an empty glass were found on a table near the bodies.

Sentenced to Die in Chair for Slaying Watchman

John Henry Brown, 25 years old, colored, who was found guilty by a jury of the murder of Joseph Gordon, 45, a night watchman, yesterday was sentenced by Judge Julius H. Miner in the criminal court to die in the electric chair on Oct. 20.

and killed four persons two weeks ago. He also was a parolee from the school.

Wesolik was sent to St. Charles from Belleville in St. Clair county on May 28, 1940. Authorities in Belleville said he was repeatedly picked up for truancy and finally was implicated in the burglary of two grocery stores and a number of parked automobiles. He was committed to the school as an incorrigible delinquent after several stays in the St. Clair county detention home for truancy.

Wesolik's mother died 10 years ago and his father deserted his family before that, according to two brothers, Peter and Frank, both employed in Belleville.

"Dick wouldn't do a thing like that," the brother, Peter, 37, said. "He was a model boy at home, but kinda shy and timid. That's why he wouldn't go to school.

"In his last letter he told me he was saving his salary as a farm worker [$20 a month] and was going to buy a chicken farm."

LATEST PAROLEE CRIME STIRS NEW CRY FOR REFORM

Green Pledges Changes at St. Charles.

Gov. Green, when informed last night of the murder of a McHenry county farm wife supposedly by a parolee from the St. Charles Training School for Boys, said he is working hard to reorganize the school so that in the future "such things cannot happen." The victim of the murder was Mrs. Margaret Jung, who lived near Woodstock. Richard Wesolik is sought as the suspected slayer.

"We have been working on a program of reorganization at the St. Charles school," said Gov. Green. "We will devote our effort and ingenuity to eliminate the possibility of such things happening in the future—to eliminate those conditions which make such things possible."

As the governor thus spoke, residents and officials of McHenry county and communities in the Fox river valley voiced a storm of protest against the practice of sending criminally minded youths to the school instead of to penal institutions.

Appeal to Governor.

"At the next council meeting Friday," said Mayor Raymond C. Johnson of Woodstock, "we will appeal to Gov. Green to tighten up the parole system at St. Charles so that life in McHenry county and elsewhere will be safer."

State's Attorney William M. Carroll of McHenry county said the people must realize the danger of taking in a parolee from the school without a thoro investigation. Roy J. Stewart, former sheriff and a present county supervisor, said the murder "is a reflection on the parole system and parole officer at St. Charles."

J. W. Harrison, a supervisor, and Wayne J. Colahan, school superintendent at Woodstock, said virtually all of the county's juvenile crime problems were caused by St. Charles parolees.

In the city of St. Charles, Dr. Edith B. Lowry, club leader, said the school had become a political football "with the result that we have these horrible crimes." Mrs. Fred R. Lufkin, Elgin clubwoman, asserted "a complete house cleaning is in order at the school."

Calls for Remedy.

Mayor Myron M. Lehman of Elgin asserted the Jung murder "is just another of the terrible crimes that can be charged to the state's practice of sending young criminals to St. Charles instead of to prison."

Mayor I. G. Langum of St. Charles said it is useless for police to arrest boy criminals if they are to be sent to the school, "only later to be turned loose to rob and murder." Miss Hattie G. Glos, a club woman of Wayne, in Du Page county, declared the St. Charles situation must be corrected.

Sheriff Marcus W. Damisch of Kane county described the murder as shocking.

JUDGE ROLLS DICE NOT ON THE SQUARE; FINES OWNER $100

Allen Beckford, 45 years old, a WPA timekeeper, may or may not have been shooting craps with pupils of the Nobel elementary school—but there was no question that one of the sets of dice he carried was loaded, police told Judge Thomas Green yesterday in the Fillmore street court.

Judge Green rolled the dice. They came up a 6 and a 5. Again—6 and 1. And three more "naturals."

"Only the cheapest chiseler would carry cubes like these," commented the judge. "These loaded dice carry a lot of weight against you—$100 and costs!"

Beckford, who lives at 1522 North Pulaski road, was arrested Sunday in front of the school at Karlov avenue and Hirsch street after police received complaints that students were participating in a crap game.

H. F. M'CORMICK ARRIVES IN WEST ON HEALTH QUEST

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14 [Special].—Planning a long rest in an effort to improve his health, Harold F. McCormick, harvester manufacturer, today arrived in Los Angeles from Chicago accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Adah Wilson McCormick.

Apparently somewhat weakened by his cross country trip, he was moved on a wheeled conveyance to his automobile.

McCormick's physician, Dr. Joseph A. Capps, a heart specialist, accompanied him on the trip. An oxygen tank was carried on the private car, but it was not used.

"Mr. McCormick," said Dr. Capps, "is going directly to his Beverly Hills home for plenty of rest and California sun."

DRIVES IN WRONG LANE, BUT JUDGE IS SYMPATHETIC

Park district police arrested Forrest Schooley, 39 years old, a barber, for driving south in a northbound lane in Lake Shore drive at Fullerton avenue. Yesterday he faced Judge George L. Quilici in Safety court:

"Judge, I was lost in the wilderness of the park," Schooley related. "I own a boat in Belmont harbor and I used to get there all right. But since they remodeled the park—it's just a hit or miss affair with me."

"I live in those parts myself," said the judge, "and when I find myself at home after the trip, I'm frequently amazed. You're dismissed. Bon voyage and happy navigating on your next trip to the harbor."

Schooley lives at 184 Glenview avenue, Elmhurst.

Steals Frozen Assets of $65 from a Refrigerator Tray

The Will county sheriff's office yesterday started a search for the burglar who found Mrs. Ernest A. Toppel's frozen assets. Mrs. Toppel, who lives at 2120 Caledonia avenue, Joliet, reported her home was burglarized while the family was away over Sunday, and $65 taken. The money was hidden in the ice cube tray of her refrigerator, Mrs. Toppel said.

DEMANDS FRESH PROSECUTION OF GOON IN SHOOTING

Crime Commission Acts as Witness Changes Story.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Additional prosecution of Thomas Devero, recently discharged business agent of local 517 of the Meat Cutters' union, was demanded yesterday by Edward A. Zimmerman, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission. Devero was acquitted last week of a charge of assault to kill when the victim, Julian Sereik, member of the union, changed his story of the shooting.

An indictment charging Sereik with perjury was reported to have been voted by the grand jury yesterday. The crime commission official declared that Devero should be indicted for subornation of perjury or conspiracy to obstruct justice, or both.

"Lapse of Memory."

"The crime commission is particularly interested in this case as an additional and perhaps the latest example of the breakdown in prosecution of gangster-labor cases by reason of the "lapse of memory" of the complaining witness," said a statement by Zimmerman.

He also raised the question of why Devero was permitted to hold a union executive position in view of his criminal record, which included several charges of robbery and larceny.

The facts of the shooting were listed as follows:

Sereik was found on a sidewalk at 40th street and Normal parkway, shot thru the cheek and neck, on the night of May 13, 1941. He told police Devero had shot him. Devero was arrested a few minutes later at 42d and Halsted streets.

Baseball Bat Found.

In Devero's car police found a baseball bat, a type of weapon used by labor goons in three brutal murders in Chicago during the last two years.

Sereik repeated his accusation of Devero before several witnesses—two of whom testified yesterday to furnish the basis of his indictment for perjury. In court last Friday, however, Sereik stated he did not know who shot him and Judge Julius Miner ordered a dismissal of the indictment against Devero.

"This case," Zimmerman charged, "is only a symptom of a serious disease which is entirely too prevalent in this community. Something must be done about it."

ACTS AS ILLINI TRUSTEES AWAIT MEETING TODAY

Football Flareup Reaches Climax.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

In a startling prelude to this morning's meeting of the University of Illinois board of trustees Harold [Red] Grange late yesterday brought suit against Wendell S. [Weenie] Wilson, Illini athletic director, for $50,000, charging libel.

Red Grange.

The action against Wilson was the latest outgrowth of the athletic squabble at the state university centering around Wilson and Bob Zuppke, veteran football coach, which the trustees will try to settle at today's meeting in Chicago.

Grange based his suit, filed in Superior court in Chicago, on a telegram sent to Chicago newspapers Sunday night which was dated at Jackson, Wyo., and signed by Wilson.

Telegram Is Quoted.

The telegram, an answer to Grange's declaration that Wilson had told him in 1938 he [Wilson] would succeed Zuppke as football coach, started as follows: "Red Grange's statement of last week relative to my seeking coaching position is one of the most contemptible lies ever concocted." It further said Grange was a member of a "smear group" which since 1936 has tried to have George [Potsy] Clark, former Illini athlete, installed as athletic director.

Grange, who earlier in the day had said he did not want to be among the group of former Illinois athletes who will make a personal plea to the trustees today for Zuppke's retention, could not be reached last night, but friends said the former Illini half back intends to press the suit to the limit. It was filed by his attorney, George Landon.

Charges Reputation Injured.

Grange's suit charged the telegram contained "malicious, false, slanderous, and defamatory statements regarding his character and integrity; that he has been greatly injured in his reputation in the business, professional, and athletic world, and his character and reputation have been irreparably damaged as a result of the false and scandalous statements of the defendant."

It further states "that the defendant made such statements in writing to be published in a newspaper of large circulation, and such statement was made maliciously and with willful and wanton intent to injure the reputation, good name, and character of the complainant."

Teammates Under Zuppke.

Today's meeting of the trustees is the climax of a troubled condition which the 62 year old Zuppke says dates back to the fall of 1936 when Wilson succeeded the late George Huff as athletic director and then began a campaign of belittling him. In 1938 Wilson persuaded Zuppke to resign after telling him, according to Zuppke, that the alumni had turned against him. The board of trustees turned down Zuppke's resignation at that time and the veteran coach emerged triumphant.

Zuppke, in a statement to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE three weeks ago, charged that Wilson and a clique at Illinois had tried to undermine him and that for five years he has coached "with a knife in my back."

When Zuppke took his recent spirited stand that he would not resign, many alumni clubs, including the Illini Club of Chicago, the largest, rallied to the coach's side.

Ralph [Slooey] Chapman, Illinois football captain in 1914, will head the alumni committee which will talk to the trustees at today's meeting. It will be held in the university's school of medicine, 1853 Polk street.

Rumor Wilson Is Thru.

Because of the weight of alumni support for Zuppke and the belief that the veteran coach's own story of conditions at Illinois was news to university circles in Champaign, it has been rumored for several days that the veteran coach will be retained and Wilson moved out.

The university athletic board will meet with the trustees today and make recommendations to clear up the situation. The board has four faculty members and three alumni, but Wilson is one of the faculty group. In the past the faculty group has had a solid block of four votes in support of Wilson, while the three alumni have remained steadfast to Zuppke. In event of a deadlock in this group, it will be up to the trustees to make a decision. The trustees also have a three-man athletic committee which has been probing the athletic problem. Its members are Chester Davis of Chicago, chairman; Frank Jensen and J. R. Fornof.

DIXIE COACHES REMEMBER LINE STARS IN POLL

BY ARCH WARD.

Football linemen usually are the unsung heroes of the sport, but they're given unlimited consideration when coaches and fans pick All-American teams. Five ballots by southern coaches with special praise for linemen were among the thousands cast yesterday in the nation-wide poll to select the starting College All-Star team to oppose the Chicago Bears, National Football league champions, in Soldiers' field on the night of Aug. 28.

Leading tackles, guards, ends, and centers from the south, middle west, Pacific coast, and the east were honored by the coaches. They included Tommy O'Boyle, Tulane guard; Fred Hartman, Rice tackle; Dave Rankin, Purdue end; Bob Suffridge, Tennessee guard; Nick Drahos, Cornell tackle; Rudy Mucha, Washington center; Erwin Elrod, Mississippi State end, and Paul Severin, North Carolina end.

Midwestern Sectors Busy.

However, the standings this morning present the names of midwestern linemen who took over the leading positions in the second day's tabulations. There's Don Vosberg, Marquette end; Johnny McGee, Regis college end; Nick Foran, St. Benedict's tackle; Bob Kemnitz, Marquette guard; Bill McMahon, Rockhurst guard; Ray Apolskis, Marquette center, and Jack Hall, Warrensburg, Mo., Teachers' College center.

These players moved into the top position on heavy reports from Milwaukee and radio station KCKN in Kansas City. Pete Schulte, Rockhurst quarter back, and Alva Jensen, Rockhurst half back, also were included in the Kansas City returns. The Kansas City Star and station KCKN led a successful campaign last year in placing Don Carney, Rockhurst half back, on the 1940 squad.

You Remember These Coaches.

The southern coaches submitting lineups were Frank Thomas, Alabama; Bernie Moore, Louisiana State; Homer Norton, Texas A. and M.; Lowell Dawson, Tulane, and Matty Bell, Southern Methodist university. They joined coaches of the Western conference and the Pacific coast in casting ballots in the poll which is being conducted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and 260 associated newspapers and radio stations.

The poll, which opened last Saturday, already has shown that fans have no sectional favorites when it comes to selecting All-American lineups. Coaches and fans during the early voting have named players from all sections of the United States. Players who distinguished themselves with outstanding performances in their final 1940 season games in Miami, Pasadena, New Orleans, Dallas, and San Francisco on New Year's day are among the choices to oppose the Bears.

Picks Four from Own Team.

Drahos, Rankin, Severin, Suffridge, Tom Harmon, Michigan half back; George Franck, Minnesota half back, and John Kimbrough were among the players selected by Norton, whose Texas Aggies defeated Fordham, 13 to 12, in the Cotton bowl on Jan. 1. In addition to Kimbrough, Norton named three other members of his squad—Quarter Back Marion Pugh, Tackle Ernest Pannell, and Guard Marshall Robnett.

BY HOMER NORTON.

Ends—Rankin, Purdue, and Severin, North Carolina.

Tackles—Drahos, Cornell, and Pannell, Texas A. and M.

Center—Mucha, Washington.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 14.—The squeeze play, one of baseball's oldest run producing devices, shoved the Cubs into defeat today after a brilliant pitching duel between Vern Olsen, the lefty, and Kirby Higbe, a Chicago alumnus. Leo Durocher, the Dodger leader, boldly elected himself to execute the hazardous maneuver, a ninth inning run skipped across the plate and the pace setting Dodgers thereby achieved a 1 to 0 triumph in the third of the series. It was the Cubs' sixth loss in eight games.

Mr. Olsen, so annoyed when the bunting conclusion was successfully executed that he heaved the ball over the grandstand, was the victim of the batting feebleness of his baseball associates. All the Cubs could collect off Higbe's speedballing and curving was two singles, the hits being the only break in their steady retirement in the first seven innings. After that Higbe, restricted the Cubs' offense to a pair of passes and a hit batsman, the gifts allowing a visiting athlete to reach second base for the first and only time.

Medwick Leads with Single.

Olsen gave up a pass, his first, to open the Dodger eighth. He survived that gratuity, but couldn't survive a single with which Ducky Medwick led off in the ninth. Dolph Camilli sacrificed and Dixie Walker slapped a harmless appearing grounder to Babe Dahlgren. The latter fumbled, and the bases were filled thereafter on an intentional pass to Mickey Owen. Durocher, then defied the fates by yanking his two hit pitcher, batting for the latter. It was all over in a hurry. Durocher bunted to Olsen and Medwick crossed the plate before Olsen could field the ball. First base was unguarded, and Olsen couldn't throw there. It was scored as a hit.

Higbe appeared to take special delight in proving he holds no fear of Bill Nicholson, the Cubs' cleanup man. Six pitches were made during Nicholson's first two times at bat. Bill swung at all six, but didn't even foul one. He missed another swing in his third appearance, for seven strikes in a row, but did foul off the next. Before completing his time at bat Nicholson was able to run the count to 3 and 2, but then fanned again.

Reese's Drive Hits Olsen.

Olsen yielded only two singles in three innings, one of which caused him physical pain. Peewee Reese's drive caromed off his shin bone and Olsen idled around for a few minutes waiting for the sting to disappear. In the fourth he was in a hot spot for a few minutes as the result of singles by Medwick and Dolph Camilli with two out, but escaped on Walker's grounder to Stan Hack. The sixth also found the Dodgers making threats. Bill Herman led off with a

Joe's Way of Saying It's 54!

A hit or more a day makes the record books sway is still the watchword of Joe DiMaggio, Yankees' slugger, who beat out an infield single yesterday to stretch his consecutive game mark to 54. But the White Sox snapped the Yanks' winning streak at fourteen, 7 to 1, in Comiskey park.

Command me what you will, what tho it be
To sail the furrows of the farthest sea,
Or penetrate the northland forest bleak;
There is no stronghold so impregnable
That my devotion for you will not storm,
No slightest requisition of your will
But that my love is ready to perform.
Say but a word to me and I will bring
The treasures of the orient to you,
I'll capture the wild bird upon the wing
Or pluck the burning stars out of the blue;
But not for you or any other creature
Will I sit thru a double cowboy feature!

BY EDWARD BURNS.

exhilarating extra base swatting by his fellow White Sox, yesterday presided at a 7 to 1 whipping of the New York Yankees, thus ending a 14 game winning streak for the New Yorkers. Rigney almost halted Joe DiMaggio's rampage, but Joe ran his hitting string to 54 games with a miserable little scratch single in the sixth inning.

Rigney didn't tolerate an extra base hit in the Yankee total of eight mild smacks. The third inning, in which the Yanks ducked a shutout, was the only one in which the league leaders were able to negotiate more than one safety.

Sox Clinch It Early.

The Sox, as things turned out, made enough runs for victory purposes in the second inning. At the start of the inning Marvin Breuer, subsequently charged with his second loss of the season, walked Luke Appling. Taft Wright then scored Luke with a double to left and went home on Julius Solters' single.

In the third the Yanks made their only run on a single by Buddy Rosar, a passed ball, an infield out, and a single by Johnny Sturm.

However, the Sox renewed their two run lead in the fourth. Appling was safe on Sturm's error. Wright grounded to Sturm, who hit Appling in the back. Apparently not noticing that the ball had rolled into Rizzuto's hands on a carom, Luke carelessly stepped off the base and was tagged out. Solters supplied the second out, but Bob Kennedy knocked the first of two run producing hits, a triple to right, which scored Wright.

Sox Pick on Stanceu.

After the fourth neither side broke out again until the eighth. Breuer had disappeared for a pinch batter in the first of the eighth and a large boy entitled Charles Stanceu took over the pitching burden. Charles started by walking Bill Knickerbocker, who thrice had been called out on strikes in facing Breuer.

WHIRLAWAY TO SHOW CHICAGO HIS SPEED TODAY

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Whirlaway today will make his first competitive appearance on a Chicago track since he went out from this district last season to launch a campaign which carried him to the top among the juveniles of 1940 and the 3 year olds of 1941. He is scheduled to race this afternoon at Arlington Park in a $5,000 special event, which will be his public rehearsal for the $55,000 Classic stakes a week from Saturday.

In his last race before Chicago turf fans, Whirlaway finished third, behind Swain and Valdina Groom, in the Arlington Futurity of 1940. Swain and Valdina Groom dropped steadily downward from that peak and when last seen were running in a claiming race. Meanwhile Whirlaway was going up steadily, taking his position as leading money winning juvenile of 1940 and following up with a sweep of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Belmont, and Dwyer stakes this season.

Bushwhacker May Run.

In today's gallop of a mile and an eighth, Whirlaway will be accompanied by a Calumet farm stablemate, Dandy Fox. To a Tee, Daily Trouble, and Cadmium are expected to complete the field. R. W. McIlvain's Bushwhacker, which will be one of Whirlaway's rivals in the Classic, is among the overnight entries, but he is not considered a likely starter. His schedule, following his impressive winning effort at seven furlongs on Saturday, consists of a mile race next Saturday, after which he will go into the Classic the following week.

Another of Whirlaway's Classic rivals, Mrs. Vera Bragg's Blue Pair, will pass up the issue today, but undoubtedly will be seen under colors at least once before the big race. Blue Pair, which beat Whirlaway in the Derby trial at Churchill Downs, continued to keep up his prestige by winning the Constitution handicap at Suffolk Downs.

Two Fast Horses in East.

Results of other important events in the east have tended to tighten up the caliber of competition Whirlaway is expected to encounter in the Classic. The outcome of the Empire City handicap Saturday boosted the chances of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Swing and Sway and Royce G. Martin's Our Boots. Swing and Sway beat Our Boots by a head in 1:50 for a mile and an eighth, a full second faster than a track record that had stood since 1910.

So far as Classic prospects are concerned the performance looked better for Our Boots than for Swing and Sway, for Martin's colt was toting 124 pounds to his rival's 114. Dalmatian, which set the record in 1910, was carrying 118 pounds. Previously Our Boots had won the Constitution handicap at Suffolk.

Our Boots is considered a definite starter in the Classic. Trainer J. M. Gaver has not yet announced whether he intends sending Mrs. Whitney's horse to Arlington. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, whose Petrify won the Arlington Lassie stakes, is pointing New World for the Classic.

Tunes Up at Arlington Today

ENTRIES POUR IN FOR TRIBUNE'S SWIMMING MEET

Preliminary Events Carded for Sunday.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Team and individual entries yesterday flooded the desks of the clerks tabulating the contestants for the four qualifying meets of the 12th 100 yard free style swimming races which will be held Saturday and Sunday. With delivery of the last mail yesterday afternoon it was apparent that the clerical job can not be finished before Thursday.

A postcard of admission will be mailed to each boy and girl who entered in the ten age divisions for the trials. These preliminary races will be held Saturday afternoon at Cermak pool, 7600 Ogden avenue, Lyons, Ill., and Sherman park, 52d street and Racine avenue. Cards of admission for these trials probably will be mailed tomorrow night.

Preliminaries on Sunday.

Sunday's preliminaries will be held at Whealan pool, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, and California park, 3901 North California avenue. Entrance cards for these sites will be mailed Thursday night. From the four sections will come approximately 120 qualifiers for the ten championship races July 27 in California park pool.

Among the team entries received yesterday were those from St. John's camp, Delafield, Wis.; Oak Park, Ill., Country club; Portage park, Kedvale playground, Bellfuss Natatorium, McKinley YMCA, Champaign, Ill.; Elkhart, Ind., YMCA, Henry playground, Harding playground, Stanford park, South Side Boys' club, 111th street YMCA, and Meyering playground.

South Side Boys' Club Largest.

Largest numerically was that from the South Side Boys' club which insists its younger boys win bronze buttons offered annually by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Charities as proof of ability to swim 100 yards. Al Williams, the club's swimming instructor, entered 31 boys in Class A [11 and 12 years of age], 30 in Class B [13 and 14 years of age], and 11 in Class C [15 and 16 years of age].

Beilfuss Natatorium is another of the larger teams. Werner Gerhard, whose youngsters annually win a number of the gold qualifying medals, entered 29 boys in Class A, B, and C and 41 girls in Classes A and B. Walter Zimmerman will compete for the Natatorium in Class E. The team's members will compete in the trials Sunday in California park. The South Side Boys' club is entered in the races in Sherman park Saturday.

Thirteen boys and seven girls comprise the St. John's camps swimming team. They are entered in the trials at Cermak pool and will be accompanied from Delafield, Wis., by their instructors, Jack Hunn and Ann Herrick.

Johnson and Huske Lead in Open Golf

Two former professional colleagues at the Butterfield Country club, Herb Johnson and Al Huske, posted 68s, three under par, to share top honors among 50 qualifiers in a field of 167 in the $5,000 Chicago Open trials at the Elmhurst Country club yesterday.

Yesterday's test round completed the field of 200 which on Friday will begin a three day quest for championship honors in the fourth annual tournament. One hundred and fifty players automatically qualified on the strength of previous showings in the National Open and National Amateur.

Huske, who was graduated into the professional ranks four years ago as assistant pro at Butterfield, now registers from the Kishwaukee Country club in De Kalb, Ill.

BRAGAN'S SINGLE IN EIGHTH HELPS PHILS BEAT CARDS

Johnson Goes Route in 5 to 4 Victory.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 14 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals fell 3½ games behind the pace setting Brooklyn Dodgers today as the Phillies ended a nine game losing streak by winning, 5 to 4.

A single by Bobby Bragan with the bases full in the eighth inning drove in the tying and winning runs and gave the veteran Si Johnson his second victory of the season, against five defeats. Score:

FELLER ADDS 18TH TO HIS STRING AS RED SOX FALL, 4-1

Cleveland, O., July 14 (AP).—Bob Feller cast a five hit spell over the Boston Red Sox today for a 4 to 1 triumph, his 18th of the season. The Indians quickly gave him a four run lead and, altho he walked six, he was tough with men on base.

TIGERS, 4; A'S, 2.

Detroit, Mich., July 14 (AP).Tommy Bridges, aided by Charley Gehringer, hurled the Detroit Tigers to a 4 to 2 victory today over the Philadelphia Athletics. Bridges limited the A's to five hits in registering his fifth victory this season, struck out seven, and walked four.

Gehringer, who was supposed to have been replaced today by Lambert [Dutch] Meyer, recalled from Buffalo, went to bat five times, drew three passes, and got one hit, a single. He fielded flawlessly and looked more like his old self than at any time in recent weeks. Score:

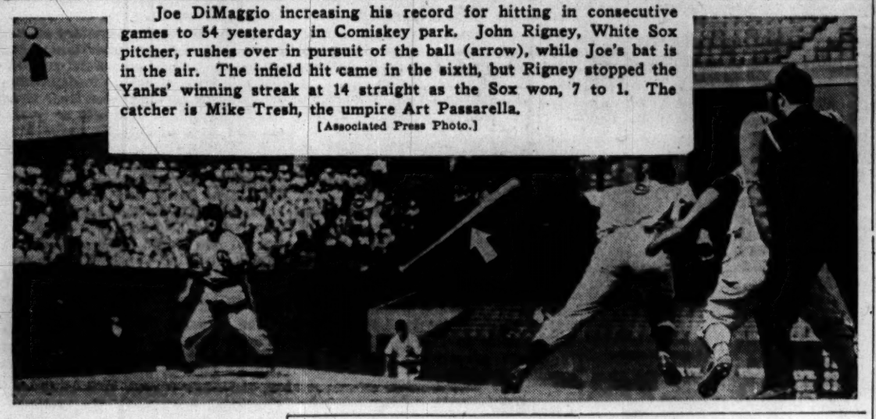
A Fluke Hit, but It Keeps DiMaggio's Record Going



Joe DiMaggio increasing his record for hitting in consecutive games to 54 yesterday in Comiskey park. John Rigney, White Sox pitcher, rushes over in pursuit of the ball (arrow), while Joe's bat is in the air. The infield hit came in the sixth, but Rigney stopped the Yanks' winning streak at 14 straight as the Sox won, 7 to 1. The catcher is Mike Tresh, the umpire Art Passarella.

for his 22d run batted in of the season. When Manager Joe McCarthy saw Luke driving in a run he immediately ordered Stanceu's replacement by Norman Branch.

Branch made Wright fly to Charley Keller and then struck out Solters, Appling stealing third in the meantime. Kennedy singled to right, scoring Appling. Tresh ended the Sox offensive with a whiff.

Infield Hit Keeps Joe Going.

DiMaggio went to the plate four times yesterday. The first time up he was safe when his looping fly popped out of Knickerbocker's glove, the only Sox error. In the fourth inning, Joe walked and later figured in the first of three double plays executed by the Sox during the afternoon. With two out in the sixth, after taking two wide ones, DiMaggio took a lusty cut but topped the ball. The ball acted like one of those perfect bunts toward third. Kennedy came in fast and made a throw to first, but much too late. In the ninth he sent a long fly to Kreevich.

Yesterday's success was the sixth victory of the year for the Sox over the Yanks in 13 meetings. It also lifted the Sox to two games above the .500 mark and enabled them to gain on the third place Red Sox.

The Red Sox, whose third place berth is not too secure, will arrive tomorrow for a three-game series, which will include a night game Thursday.

BROWNS DEFEAT SENATORS, 6 TO 4, ON JUST 4 HITS

St. Louis, Mo., July 14 (AP).—If Kendall Chase hadn't been so wild today, the Washington Senators might have swept the three game series with the Browns instead of losing the final, 6 to 4.

Chase walked seven and uncorked two wild pitches in the 2⅔ innings he worked and in that time St. Louis scored five of its six runs.

single, Pete Reiser forced him and Cookie Lavagetto beat out a high bounder to Hack. Olsen took care of this jam by fanning both Medwick and Camilli.

Dahlgren slapped a sneaking single past Reese with two out in the second and for six innings carried the distinction of being the only Chicagoan to become a baserunner. The next Cub to discover there were bases on the field was Phil Cavarretta who opened the seventh with a sizzling line drive against the right field concrete. Phil neglected to stop at first so upon arrival at second found he had been erased by Walker's bullet like throw to Reese.

Two Survive in Eighth.

The Cubs' offense got so good in the eighth that two survived, Dahlgren on a pass and Clyde McCullough by stopping one of Higbe's pitches with his right forearm. Nothing happened because Augie Galan, pinch hitting for Bob Sturgeon, flied out and Olsen rolled to Reese. The only other Cub experience with base running occurred when Cavarretta walked with one out in the ninth and died stealing just before Johnny Hudson fanned.

FRANKLIN STOPS BIVINS IN NINTH; ARON TRIUMPHS

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Lem Franklin of Cleveland, 1937 International Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, stopped Jimmy Bivins, also of Cleveland, in 35 seconds of the ninth round of a scheduled 10 round bout in the Marigold outdoor arena last night. A crowd of 5,518 paid a gross gate of $11,413 to see the card. Bivins suffered four knockdowns in the first round and one in the second before surrendering in next to the last round.

Bivins went into the fight with a record of 25 victories in 26 battles, the last three of which he scored against heavyweights. Jimmy, who fought at 173½ pounds, under the light heavyweight limit, proved that the record was legitimate by recovering from the five knockdowns in the first two rounds and winning the third round.

Cut Is Opened.

In this round Bivins, who also is a Golden Gloves graduate, opened a cut on Lem's left eye with a right. He held Franklin on even terms in the fourth, and in the fifth he outpointed Lem. Franklin was tired in the sixth, but landed several body punches. Bivins outboxed him in the seventh, giving no hint of his subsequent foldup.

Then in the eighth Jim staggered and made little effort to protect himself. In the last round a right to the ribs caused him to drop his hands. Referee Davey Miller then stepped in and awarded Franklin a technical knockout.

Aron Drops Stark.

Milt Aron, Chicago middleweight, who was held to a draw by Solly Stark in Minneapolis last April, sent his aggressive antagonist to the floor for the count in the fifth round of a rematch which served as the semi-windup. Aron was pushed down for no count in the second round and in the next Stark had the better of a slugging mêlée.

The beginning of the end started for Solly in the fourth, however, when Aron landed a left and right to the ear which dropped him to the canvas momentarily. The finishing blow was a right to the stomach. Referee Norman McGarity completed his count after 2:12 of the round had elapsed.

Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, Man., lightweight, made it two in a row over George Zengaras in a bloody return fight of 10 rounds. Marquart won all except the ninth and 10th rounds, but could not drop the little New Yorker. In the second round Marquart landed a right to the chin which spun his foe around. In the fourth the rivals bumped heads and each came out of it bearing cuts.

In the opening match Willie Joyce, 1937 Golden Gloves featherweight champion, pounded out a 10 round victory over Harvey Dubs of Windsor, Ont. The decision was unanimous and ended Dubs' chain of four straight victories.

"FOR 50 YEARS WE'VE NEVER STOPPED LOOKING FOR A BETTER WAY!"

Richard Seibold
MEISTER BRÄU Brewmaster

A barn dance wasn't on a stage when we started making MEISTER BRÄU

But we still brew our beer
Without Added Sugars or Syrups
... and bottle with only Natural Draft Beer Carbonation created in the brew itself

I'M READY to be shown a better way to make beer anytime. And we've experimented with dozens of ideas that looked good—but the results just won't come up with the old-time way.

Take adding sugars or syrups to the brew. We could do it easily enough. But we couldn't give you the all-grain flavor that nearly everybody votes for when they taste and compare.

We could stop bottling with only Natural Draft Beer Carbonation created right in the brew itself. But the beer might not come out of the bottle with natural life and sparkle like draft beer.

Get the truth about beer flavor for yourself with the test brewing experts use—the "50 Degrees" Test. Taste and compare flavors undisguised by too much cold—at 50 degrees, where true flavor, good or bad, shows up.

8 JURORS PICKED IN POLICEMAN'S SLAYING TRIAL

Witnesses Heard in Other Abortion Ring Case.

Eight jurors were chosen by late yesterday afternoon in the murder trial of Policeman Daniel Moriarity, confessed fixer for an abortion ring, who is charged with the fatal shooting April 29 of Miss Ada Jane [Jennie] Martin, whom he says he mistook for her mother, Mrs. Ada Martin.

Moriarity is on trial before Judge John Sbarbaro in Criminal court, and the jury, qualified to inflict the death penalty, is expected to be completed today. The shooting occurred in the Martin home at 4367 Lake Park avenue.

Charges of conspiracy to commit abortion brought against Mrs. Martin and two other women, Mrs. Josephine Kuder and Mrs. Edna Bullock, were continued to Sept. 8 by Judge William V. Brothers.

Testimony in another abortion case was heard by the grand jury yesterday. The jury is investigating the abortion death of Mrs. Beve Smith last May 5, as a result of which a charge of murder by abortion was placed against Mrs. Magdalene Motzny Stegeman, 60 years old, wife of a police lieutenant. Mrs. Stegeman is a midwife.

RITES TOMORROW FOR FRED FISHER, CAR BODY MAKER

Detroit, Mich., July 14 [Special].—Funeral services for Fred Fisher, co-founder of the Fisher Body corporation, will be held here Wednesday at 11 a. m. at the Cathedral of the Blessed Sacrament. Fisher, who was 63 years old, died early today of heart disease. His wife, Burtha, and his six brothers were at his bedside.

Fred Fisher.

Fisher, who made his family name synonomous with automobile bodies, and his brother, Charles, founded their company in Detroit in 1910 with a capital of $50,000. Within two years it had achieved an annual production of 105,000 bodies a year. In 1928, two years after the company was acquired by the General Motors corporation, it was able to turn out 7,280 bodies in a day.

Fisher and his wife participated in many philanthropies. Friends estimated that they gave away millions of dollars in recent years.

CHICAGO DEATH RATE DECREASES FOR SIX MONTHS

Chicago's death rate was lower during the first six months of this year than it was during the same period last year, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, announced yesterday. In almost all instances death rates for contagious diseases were reduced.

The rate of deaths from all causes was 10.9 per 1,000 population so far this year compared with 11.2 last year. So far this year there have been 19,310 deaths in the city compared to 18,989 a year ago.

The major disease death rate per 100,000 population for the first six months of 1940 and 1941 follows:

Diptheria	2.3	.8	Syphilis	8.5	7.8
Influenza	4.2	3.5	Tuberc'l's	55.0	54.0
Measels	.3	1.5	Typhoid fv	.2	.2
Pneumo'ia	53.8	44.2	Wh. cough	.6	.6

Board records gave the death rate from heart disease at 390.3 this year, compared with 402.2 a year ago.

NO ONE CLAIMS LOST BOY, 3, AT BROOKFIELD ZOO

Tommy, Brookfield zoo's latest acquisition, still was unclaimed yesterday. Tommy, about 3½ years old, was found at 2 p. m. Sunday wandering thru the zoo unaccompanied. He said he came in his daddy's truck, and insisted that he, personally, was all right, but that daddy was "losted."

Edward H. Bean, zoo director, said yesterday that Tommy will be kept for a few days at the Bean home in the hopes that his father will call. Tommy says his mother has "gone bye-bye" and that he has no brothers and two sisters. His last name, as Tommy pronounces it, sounds like "McArgo." Director Bean said Tommy is "Smart as a whip, full of life, and minds like an angel."

Even a goddess can't depend on the elements, it appeared yesterday, as workmen scrambled to the top of the Board of Trade building to give an acid bath to Ceres, the goddess of agriculture whose 50 foot statue adorns the building. For the last 12 years Ceres has been bathed in wind, rain, and smoke from a nearby chimney. By the end of the week her dark aspect will be exchanged for her original bright aluminum color. The statue was designed by Alvin Meyer of Chicago.

Dr. Ernst Pfennig's Will Disposes of $140,000 Estate

Disposing of an estate estimated at $140,000, the will of Dr. Ernst Pfennig, a dentist for 55 years, was admitted to probate yesterday. The bulk of the estate will be divided between his widow, Susie, and daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Peterson, 5322 Virginia avenue. Dr. Pfennig died June 28 at the age of 75 in his home at 1311 North La Salle street.

CHICAGO GIFTS TO USO NEAR $400,000 MARK

Chicago contributions to the United Service organizations campaign for $679,500 neared the $400,000 mark yesterday. Volunteer workers prepared for a final drive to carry the collections past the quota. The money is to be spent for recreation purposes of men in the armed services.

Herbert J. Lorber, chairman of the commerce and industry division, announced that within a few days this phase of solicitation will be completed among many firms, adding impetus to the drive.

Among latest gifts were: Milwaukee railroad employés, $1,943; Coin Machine Industries, $1,250; Container Corporation, $1,000; Chicago Electrotype union, local No. 3, $385; Provident Hospital and Training school employés, $127; Insulation Manufacturing corporation, $100; Sampson Electrical company, $370; Moses, Kennedy, Stein & Bachrach, $100; Reincke, Ellis, Younggreen & Finn, $124; Apex Motor Fuel company, $118; American Mineral Spirits company, $200; Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin & Ellis, $105.

Wisconsin Flyer's Suicide Blamed on Insanity by Jury

A coroner's jury decided yesterday that Miss Dorothy Powell, 24 years old, La Crosse, Wis., committed suicide by poison Thursday in the Allerton hotel while temporarily insane. She died Sunday in Passavant hospital. Her farewell love letter to "Don," mentioning an illness which gave her only three months to live, was not explained at the inquest. Her father, Robert Powell, Milwaukee, testified she seemed happy two weeks ago. Miss Powell was voted Wisconsin's best woman flyer in 1939.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Emma McNeill Ingraham.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma McNeill Ingraham, a resident of Waukegan for 61 years, will be held today at 2:30 p. m. in the chapel at 408 North Sheridan road, Waukegan. She died Sunday in Henrotin hospital after a fall in the home of her son, Frederick, district manager of the American Steel and Wire company, at 500 Barry avenue, where she had lived for the last 10 years. Mrs. Ingraham was born 90 years ago in Fonda, N. Y. She was the widow of Charles G. Ingraham, a retired manufacturer. Besides her son, she leaves four nephews, Mayor Samuel Gilbert Ingraham, of Evanston; Harold J. Ingraham, an assistant in charge of the tax department in the Lake county clerk's office in Waukegan; Garland Ingraham, Libertyville, and Ira Ingraham, Evanston.

Cyrus Kehr.

Washington, D. C., July 14 [Special].—Cyrus Kehr, 85 years old, patent lawyer and a pioneer in national planning, died here today. Kehr was senior partner in the patent law firm of Cyrus Kehr & Swecker. Born near Goshen, Ind., Kehr attended Knox college and Cornell college [Iowa]. In 1886 he married Anna M. Witmer of Sterling, Ill. After a short residence in Chicago they moved to Winnetka. As a member of the Winnetka village council he was instrumental in building a waterworks system there. Later he and a group of citizens, including Daniel H. Burnham, architect and city planner, inaugurated the building of the scenic highway that now extends from Chicago beyond Milwaukee. He was the oldest member of the Patent Law Association of Chicago.

The Rev. E. L. Semans.

Warsaw, Ind., July 14 (AP).—The Rev. E. L. Semans, 96 years old, of Warsaw, one of two Civil war veterans left in Kosciusko county, died here tonight. He was in 12 major battles and once was wounded. He later became a Methodist minister, serving churches in Portland, Peru, Goshen, Logansport, and Winchester. He also was Wabash district superintendent. He is survived by a son, Dr. Raymond Semans, superintendent of the Rockford [Ill.] Methodist district, and two daughters, Mrs. A. R. Church, with whom he lived, and Mrs. R. D. Elder, 1328 Farwell avenue, Chicago.

Mrs. Marcus Daly.

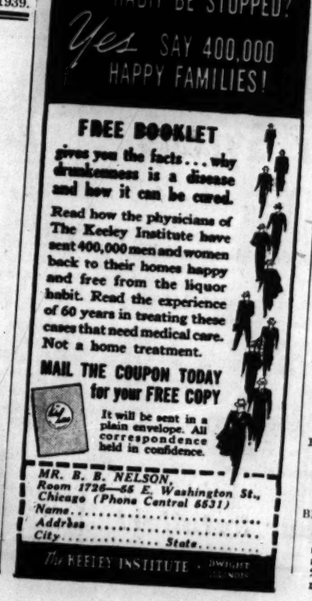
Hamilton, Mont., July 14 (AP).—Mrs. Marcus Daly of New York City, widow of a Montana copper mine operator, died today in her summer home in Bitter Root valley. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. James W. Gerard, wife of the former ambassador to Germany, and Countess Sigray of Budapest.

Mrs. Mary Watrous Dies; Widow of Utility Executive

Mrs. Mary M. Watrous, a resident of Chicago for more than 30 years, died last night in St. Luke's hospital after an illness of two months. She was the widow of Philip Bernard Watrous, public utility and investment executive, who died two years ago. Mrs. Watrous lived at 6105 Woodlawn avenue. She leaves three sons—Capt. Philip M. at Camp Forrest, Tenn.; Gordon G., and George M.; a daughter, Miss Mary Ruth, and a granddaughter, Mary Chilton Watrous. Funeral services will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal church at a time to be announced today. Burial will be in Des Moines, Ia.

Dies of Heart Attack in Bathroom of Hospital

James J. Parker, a real estate salesman, died of a heart attack last night in a bathroom adjoining his room in the Illinois Central hospital. He had been convalescing there after an attack of pneumonia. He was 75 years old and lived at 1369 East 50th street.



JAMES SHEEAN ENDS LIFE; ONCE RAIL EXECUTIVE

Galena, Ill., July 14 [Special].—James B. Sheean, 78, former general counsel and vice president of the Chicago and North Western railroad in Chicago, hanged himself today in the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Bell, with whom he had lived for the last 12 years. Sheean had been ill and despondent for several weeks.

He was born in Anamosa, Ia., in 1863. He attended Beloit college and was graduated in law from the University of Michigan. His first job at railroading was as a mail clerk. He worked for the North Western in Omaha as a solicitor and later was transferred to St. Paul and then to Chicago.

Illness caused his retirement from the C. and N. W. a short time before he was to become president. Sheean engaged in the practice of law in Galena and was one of the founders of the Galena museum.

He leaves a daughter, Laura, and a son, James in New York, a brother, John, in Chicago, and three sisters, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Allen Sanford, and Miss Jane Sheean of Salt Lake City.

[ADVERTISMENT]

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Kent A. Brown Sr.

Kent A. Brown Sr., secretary of the Adam Griesel & Son undertaking establishment, 8944 Commercial avenue, died of a heart attack yesterday while on vacation at Lake Morrison, near Clarksville, Mich. He was 49 years old and lived at 9018 Escanaba avenue. Mr. Brown was a past master of the Triluminiar Masonic lodge. Surviving are his widow, Marjorie; two sons, Kent A. Jr. and Donald Allen, and a daughter, Beverly Jean. The funeral will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow in the South Chicago Masonic temple, 91st street and Exchange avenue, with burial in Manteno.

FIRMS TO RUN 7 NEW ALUMINUM PLANTS NAMED

FINDS NO SHORTAGE YET

The National Association of Manufacturers yesterday announced that a survey of 20 armament centers indicated that there is no shortage currently in aluminum for production of airplanes or other armament, but said "there is no assurance that such a shortage might not develop." The association said its report was not intended to discourage collection of old household utensils. Such a drive will be launched July 21 by the Office of Civilian Defense.

In Washington, D. C., officials of the OCD were plainly irritated by the NAM statement. They made public a letter from Walter D. Fuller, NAM president, in which Fuller one week ago referred to "the aluminum shortage" and pledged the association's cooperation in plans to relieve it.

Meantime, the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply told makers of home laundry and commercial refrigeration equipment at a meeting in the capital that they will have to cut output to save metal.

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—The Office of Production Management tonight recommended five companies to operate seven new government owned aluminum plants to increase the nation's output by 600,000,000 pounds a year.

The plants, their annual capacities, and the sites tentatively recommended to the war department by OPM are:

Aluminum Company of America, three plants; one of 100,000,000 pounds capacity in Arkansas, one of 90,000,000 pounds capacity in the Bonneville-Grand Coulee area in the northwest, and a third of 150,000,000 pounds at Massena, N. Y.

Bohn Gets One Plant.

The increased production, together with 200,000,000 pounds to be obtained from Canada, will boost the American supply to 1,400,000,000 pounds a year, the OPM said.

The plants will be financed by Defense Plant corporation, a Reconstruction Finance corporation subsidiary, and will be operated by the private companies under leasing arrangements still to be worked out.

The OPM also announced that ALCOA would operate a government-owned plant for the production of 400,000,000 pounds of alumina annually. Alumina is aluminum oxide, or aluminum and oxygen in combination. Production of alumina from bauxite is a step preliminary to the processing of aluminum. The OPM said the alumina plant, at an undisclosed site, would be the first ever designed for the combined treatment of both high grade and low grade bauxite ores.

Drop North Carolina Site.

Plans announced by OPM June 27 included a North Carolina site in the group of new structures. It was explained today that power authorities of the Grand Coulee-Bonneville area have since made available for aluminum production an additional block of electric energy.

"Therefore, in view of the power stringency of the southeastern area, the OPM has recommended that the plant originally indicated for North Carolina shall be shifted to Tacoma, where power will be readily available," the OPM announcement said.

'Keel Laying' Ceremony for Luxury Train Held

SUPPLY DEARTH HINDERS RAILS' REPAIR EFFORTS

Materials shortages are delaying the delivery of railroad freight cars and the manufacture of spare parts for locomotives and cars as well as other maintenance supplies, Ralph Budd yesterday told the American Short Line Railroad association at the Morrison hotel. Budd is directing the transportation phase of the national armament effort and is president of the Burlington railroad.

Ralph Budd.

"Orders for repair parts are not being filled promptly, and stocks of repair parts are being depleted thru inability of manufacturers to obtain material," he said. "While the process of rendering cars and locomotives inactive thru lack of maintenance is a slower one than the sudden shutting off of fuel, it is no less effective in crippling transportation."

Car Builders Running Behind.

Budd said the materials situation as applied to car and engine builders is not quite so immediately serious as in the case of maintenance supplies. However, he urged that car and locomotive building not be delayed. Already the car builders are behind about 7,500 cars on their orders, he said. At the rate of the present interruptions due to shortage of material and to strike delays at car building and supply plants, the railways may fall 20,000 cars short of the program set up for completion by Oct. 1.

Just a year ago Budd, after consulting with the individual roads, told the Association of American Railroads that a goal of 1,700,000 railroad owned cars should be reached as soon as practicable. This means an increase of about 60,000 cars and replacements for about 40,000 cars being dismantled, a total of about 100,000 to be delivered by Oct. 1, 1941. The number of cars normally dismantled was reduced because of repair programs.

"Unless material is released for railway use, the program will fall down worse in the future, because for the year ending Oct. 1, 1942, the railways had hoped to add 120,000 cars to their ownership," Budd said. "Taking into account retirements, this would mean a 160,000 car program between Oct. 1, 1941 and Oct. 1, 1942."

Move Only Fraction of Time.

Freight cars actually move in trains only about 2½ hours out of 24, Budd said—or about 10 per cent of the time. If cars could be running on the road an hour more, railroad efficiency would be greatly increased, he added.

"Nothing that I know of promises so much in the way of increasing total railway efficiency as an earnest effort to eliminate all possible waste of time in placing loaded cars, in unloading them, in loading empty cars and getting them on the way," he said. "This effort, together with the heavier loading of cars might even increase the carrying capacity of the existing railway cars of the country by as much as 25 per cent."

Are Meeting Demand, He Says.

Budd said that so far the railroads have been able to meet extraordinary traffic conditions resulting from the emergency. Included are movement of petroleum from gulf to Atlantic ports formerly handled by ship, moving of goods from the Pacific to Atlantic seaboards that formerly moved via the Panama canal by ship and the transfer of traffic to the railroads from intercoastal service.

"It has been our sincere hope that transportation may be so adequately provided that shippers and travelers will be able to choose the form of transportation and the particular route they prefer, and that they may obtain good and prompt service," Budd said. "Thus far that hope has been realized."

STEEL RULE BLOCKS PLANS FOR CHICAGO COTTON OIL REFINERY

Inability to obtain steel equipment, affected by priority rulings, has blocked plans for a 1½ million dollar oil refining plant scheduled for Chicago, it was learned yesterday. The Southern Cotton Oil company, with headquarters in New Orleans, had preliminary plans drawn by its engineers for a big plant where edible oils were to be refined. Recently it was found that tanks and other steel machinery would not be available because of the increased use of steel in armament production and it was decided not to build the plant this year.

A 20 acre site at the southwest corner of Kostner avenue and West 31st street had been purchased from the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company for $118,000.

Southern Cotton Oil has a plant at 1464 West 37th street, in the Central Manufacturing district, where it makes shortening but does no refining. The contemplated new plant, which may be built next year if steel conditions improve, will employ about three times the number now on the company's Chicago pay roll.

Troubles Ahead, Public Told; Talk of Cut in Silver Dollar

PREDICTS BOOM'S END

Atlantic City, N. J., July 14 (AP).—The American public was warned today by Federal Price Administrator Leon Henderson to brace itself for industrial dislocation and harsh sacrifice. "It is a dark picture I paint," Henderson told 1,200 attending the New York Housewares Manufacturing association convention as he predicted an end shortly of the recent boom in sales of automobiles, refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, radios, electric stoves, furniture, and other similar goods.

"The party is over," he said. "Before long there will be more purchasing power hunting something to buy than there are goods available.

Calls for Sweat and Tears.

"I wish I could tell you that we had an easy solution, but can't promise any such hope. Only by sweating blood and tears can the dislocations be held to a minimum.

"No exactly similar paradox ever confronted American business. Customers eager and able to buy will be crowding the market places and stores, but manufacturers will be unable to get enough raw materials to satisfy demands.

Predicts Dire Results.

"It is a picture of factories made idle by lack of raw materials to turn out civilian goods, of men made idle by lack of materials to work with, of single industry towns blighted by spurious prosperity based on production of goods which we can't wear, or eat, or live in."

Henderson asserted nothing could prevent inflation unless the government succeeded in controling prices, purchasing power and instalment buying. He said it must stiffen control of prices, "No matter how ornery and belligerent the outcries become."

THOMAS GROUP SPEAKS

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—A group of senators interested in silver suggested today that the size and weight of the silver dollar might have to be reduced.

"Should our national debt reach the sum now prophesied by some of our citizens," they said in a statement, "then the burden of such debt, together with the state, county, city, and district debts, coupled with taxes and the existing private debts, may mean that the present size and weight of the standard silver dollar may have to be reduced to regulate the value of the dollar to that point where the people can meet such taxes, interest, and debts.

"If this should happen, our large accumulation of gold and silver will go a long way toward liquidating our national obligations."

The statement was made public by Senator Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.] as chairman of the senate's special silver committee.

Find Nation in New Phase.

Cleveland, O., July 14 [Special].—The rearmament program is entering its third phase—large scale production of munitions—and this phase will be "quite different in its impact on business from the two phases that have preceded it," the Cleveland Trust company asserted today in its monthly business bulletin.

The first phase was termed one in which placing munitions contracts constituted the main activity. The second was described as the "tooling-up period."

"What is sure is that we have now really said good-by to business as usual," the bank said, "and that we are entering upon a period characterized by shortages for civilian use of all sorts of things that we are accustomed to have."

PLANS FOR EXPANSION OF U. S. STEEL ARMOR MILLS MADE BY OPM

New York, July 14 [Special].—The plans for the first unit in the government program for expansion of the steel industry have been completed by the Office of Production Management and placed before Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, whose approval would be necessary to federal financing of any added facilities.

Increase in production of heavy armor plate is involved, it was learned, the particular plants concerned being the Homestead and Duquesne, Pa., plants of United States Steel corporation. Of the total of some $85,000,000 to be spent it is believed that only a small fraction will be provided by the steel company.

Next on the schedule of steel expansion will be the $100,000,000 increase in production facilities on the Pacific coast, it was learned. A sharply growing demand exists there for light steel plates for ship construction, as well as heavy steel forgings and other arms materials.

AIR CONDITIONER SALES SET NEW CHICAGO RECORD

Central plant air conditioning system sales in Chicago set a six months' record during the first half of 1941 with a total of 295 installations, with combined capacity of 10,201 horse power, Commonwealth Edison company reported yesterday.

Sales in the corresponding 1940 period totaled 267 systems, of 6,531 horse power. The previous peak period was in 1937, with sales of 277 systems aggregating 9,694 horse power.

Electric room cooler sales also set a record in the first half of 1941 as 829 coolers were sold, compared with 526 a year ago.

GERMAN PATENT DEALS HURT U. S., LAW GROUP TOLD

New York, July 14 (AP).—Samuel S. Isseks, special assistant to the United States attorney general, said tonight his investigation of patent privileges in relation to the antitrust laws disclosed that certain agreements between American and Nazi-controlled companies endangered the national armament effort.

In a speech before the Practising Law institute, Isseks said "the investigations show that foreign companies have taken out patents in the United States and entered into contracts with American companies, with the result that there has been a division of world markets and in some cases price fixing of essential war materials by the American companies."

The investigation has led to indictment of firms handling military optical instruments, tungsten, carbide, magnesium, and magnesium products.

U. S. Money Circulation Climbs Again During June

Washington, July 14 (AP).—The treasury said today there was $9,612,038,124 of coin and currency in circulation on June 30, an average of $72.39 per person. The average at the end of May was $70.51 and a year ago it was $59.61.

MORE MILLIONS EARMARKED FOR ARMS SUPPLIES

Shells Included in New Orders.

Letters of intent covering $6,473,562 of arms materials were issued by the war department yesterday to a number of companies. Letters of intent are issued prior to the formal signing of contracts as a means of speeding production.

Among the companies which received letters of intent were:

Murray Manufacturing corporation, Brooklyn, N. Y., shells, $1,792,000; John Dunlap company, Carnegie, Pa., cartridge cases, $970,000; Servel, Inc., Evansville, Ind., cartridge cases, $797,297; the Gabriel company, Cleveland, shells, $610,000; General Motors corporation, Guide Lamp division, Anderson, Ind., cartridge cases, $601,000; Auto Specialties Manufacturing company, St. Joseph, Mich., shells, $595,000; Pittsburgh Steel foundry, Glassport, Pa., gun carriages, $573,730; General Steel Castings corporation, Eddystone, Pa., gun carriages, $396,035, and Bausch and Lomb Optical company, Rochester, N. Y., optical goods, $138,500.

Let Iowa Contracts.

In Washington Senator Clyde Herring [D., Ia.] stated that the war department has awarded contracts to four Iowa contractors for the construction of the previously announced small arms plants at Des Moines which will cost a total of approximately 30 million dollars. The four contractors were the Weitz company and McLaughlin Brothers of Des Moines and the Central Engineering company and the W. O. Priester company, Davenport. The United States Rubber company has the contract for operating the plants.

Switch Plants to Arms Work.

Starting preparation of its plants to build Pratt and Whitney type aviation engines, the Chevrolet division of the General Motors corporation announced in Buffalo, N. Y., the virtual closing down of its motor and axle plants at which the engines will be assembled. The company notified approximately 3,500 workers that operations will not be resumed until early in 1942.

Rate of Steel Production Pushed Higher This Week

New York, July 14 (AP).—Steel production this week today was estimated by the American Iron and Steel institute at 97.2 per cent of ingot capacity compared with 96.8 per cent in the preceding week. A month ago the rate was 99 per cent.

THE PRESIDENT SAID:

In a speech last Nov. 1, President Roosevelt said:

"I am fighting to keep this nation prosperous and at peace. I am fighting to keep our people out of foreign wars, and to keep foreign conceptions of government out of our United States."

Last Nov. 4, on the eve of his third term re-election, the President said:

"Across the seas life has gone underground. I think I speak the minds of all of you when I say that we thank God that we live in the sunlight and the starlight of peace—that we are not in war, and that we propose and expect to continue to live our lives in peace—under the peaceful light of heaven."

Federal Bond Fee Is Cut by N. Y. Brokers

New York, July 14 (AP).—Commissions on the buying and selling of United States government bonds in the New York Stock exchange have been halved in an effort to bring back to the "big board" a substantial part of the business now transacted by telephone in the over-the-counter market, it was disclosed today.

The Association of Bond Brokers of the exchange revised the charge for buying a $1,000 obligation of the government to 15.6 cents from 31.2 cents.

The rules of the exchange provide only that commission charges of brokers for governments shall be "by mutual agreement," so that the action was not an official one of the exchange, which itself has been studying for months the question of revising upward its service charges on stocks to compensate for dwindling business.

A decade ago the bulk of business in governments was done in the exchange's auction market, and quotations there were regarded as official.

The department of member firms of the stock exchange meantime issued a new ruling governing the participation of member firms in bond underwritings, making it easier for members to participate in the distribution of new issues of interest bearing securities thru revision of the basis of capital requirements and a lowering of margins.

LASHES LEHMAN FOR 'POLITICS' IN SEAWAY STAND

Congressman Fights St. Lawrence Plan.

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—Representative John C. Butler [R., N. Y.] told the house rivers and harbors committee today that Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York had been "sold" on the St. Lawrence seaway proposal from a political angle.

"The obvious reason why he would come down here to testify to such nonsense," said Butler, "is that he was merely doing as he was told."

Representative Joshua Johns [R., Wis.] asked Butler who told Lehman to appear before the committee.

Says Mayor Opposes Plan.

Butler said that the governor did not consult with the lakefront workers or fleet owners, and added: "He hasn't consulted with the city engineer of the city of Buffalo. He hasn't even consulted our mayor, or if he did he is disregarding his advice, for the mayor of Buffalo opposes this project.

"No, he has taken the word of a few so-called experts who like himself have been sold this thing from a political angle."

Butler said the seaway would deprive workers in transportation and terminal facilities on the lakes of their livelihood.

Frederick K. Wing, city engineer of Buffalo, estimated that an expenditure of 46 million dollars would be necessary to improve Buffalo harbor as part of the seaway. Last week Brig. Gen. Thomas M. Robins, assistant chief of army engineers, esti-

OVER 2¾ TIMES AS MANY INQUIRIES!

An outstanding example of the effectiveness of Financial Advertising in The New York Times

BETWEEN February 10 and June 28, 1941, the New York office of the national brokerage and investment firm of Merrill Lynch, E. A. Pierce & Cassatt received 385 traceable inquiries from readers of the firm's advertising in THE NEW YORK TIMES. This compares with 87 inquiries received from readers of the newspaper showing the next best return. From identical advertisements published in both newspapers, the results produced by THE NEW YORK TIMES were 2.84 times those credited to the other newspaper.

But according to Merrill Lynch, E. A. Pierce & Cassatt, new business resulting from written responses to its advertising is only part of the story of the firm's country-wide advertising and merchandising campaign. Equally significant—to the firm and to other financial advertisers—is the fact that the advertisements "opened the door" for the firm's sales staff in New York and other cities to many additional prospective customers. . . .

Evidence of such direct and indirect advertising effectiveness deserves serious attention among advertisers whose copy is acceptable to THE NEW YORK TIMES. Self-imposed censorship of its advertising columns, and the prestige which THE NEW YORK TIMES as a complete, impartial NEWSpaper gives its advertisers, underlie the predominant position of THE NEW YORK TIMES with financial advertisers and their prospects.

RAILS GIVE LIFT TO A LAGGARD STOCK MARKET

Volume Is Sharply Below Last Week's Levels.

New York, July 14 (AP).—Railroad shares advanced in today's stock market but most other groups lagged behind. The list showed considerable reluctance at the start to continue the drive of last week. Revival in the carriers after mid-day proved a steadying influence and gains outnumbered declines at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 43.5. Dealings dwindled as prices hesitated and transfers of 563,830 shares were the fewest for any full session in more than a week.

Some Lighten Holdings.

Brokers reported some lightening of commitments on the theory a reaction might be in the offing because of the sharp advance. Business news stimulated individual issues. Price Administrator Leon Henderson's warning that higher living costs were coming served to keep up talk of inflation.

Transportation stocks were buoyed by bright earnings prospects. Atlantic Coast Line and Southern railway posted new 1941 tops. Ahead also were Santa Fe, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific and Great Northern.

Wright Aeronautical, a 10 share trading unit, jumped 10 points on meager turnover to 111, a new 1941 high.

CHICAGO PRICES ROSE.

Four issues reached new 1941 highs on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday as prices moved moderately higher on transfers of 18,000 shares. Of 90 stocks traded, 40 advanced, 24 declined, and 26 closed unchanged.

The highs were set by Miller & Hart convertible preference and prior preferred at 17 and 6⅝, respectively, and Raytheon Manufacturing common and preferred at 3¾ and 1¾. Two dually listed issues showed changes from the New York exchange close in the trading from 2 to 2:30 o'clock. They were Marshall Field, closing at 16¼, off ⅛, and Peoples Gas, at 42½, off ½ from the New York close.

GREAT WESTERN RAILROAD SHOWS PROFIT FOR MAY

The Chicago Great Western railroad, which emerged from reorganization as a new company in February, reported yesterday that for May it had net income of $186,858. The predecessor company had a net loss in May last year of $61,636. Net income for the first five months of this year was $481,745, against a 1940 loss for the period of $475,131.

Several other railroads, including the Chicago and North Western, Milwaukee road, and the Santa Fe, reported earnings improvement over last year. Yesterday's reports follow:

'UNAUTHORIZED' STRIKE TIES UP BIG STEEL PLANT

CIO Calls Off Tennessee Iron Walkout.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

A strike which a labor leader termed unauthorized tied up production last night at the Copperweld Steel company plant at Warren, O., which employs 2,000 persons.

Harry Wines, organizer for the CIO steel workers' organizing committee, said no strike vote had been taken and that the walkout was unauthorized. He said the strikers were demanding the rehiring of 12 foremen, who were said to have quit rather than discharge 30 men as ordered by the company.

Almost all of the company's production is devoted to rearmament.

A threatened CIO strike involving arms production at the Tennessee Coal, Iron, and Railroad company, Birmingham, Ala., was called off last night, shortly after the dispute was certified to the defense mediation board.

Huge Military Orders.

The company, with a huge backlog of military orders, manufactures about 80 per cent of southern produced steel. The office and technical workers had announced 2,200 employés would walk out at midnight unless demands were met for a 10 cent an hour wage increase, but the strike call was rescinded pending the board's action.

Federal mediation officials began other attempts to settle strikes at the Gulf States Utilities company of Baton Rouge, La., and the Sealed Power corporation of Muskegon, Mich., and to avert a threatened walkout at the Scullin Steel company, St. Louis, Mo.

Power Lines Guarded.

Representatives of the Baton Rouge utility and the AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers accepted an invitation to confer at Washington, D. C., with Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the federal conciliation service.

The defense mediation board has started an inquiry into the Sealed Power strike, called by the AFL United Auto Workers in a dispute over wage increases and a union shop.

Steel Strike Threatened.

The board also opened hearings in an effort to avert a strike threatened by the CIO Steel Workers Organizing committee at the Scullin plant, which makes bombs and war materials for Britain. The union seeks the right to represent its members in the plant.

The board persuaded members of a CIO shipyard union at the Federal Shipbuilding corporation in Kearny, N. J., to defer a strike called to support demands for a union shop and paid vacations.

Seek Chicago Settlement.

In Chicago, negotiations were begun to settle the strike which interrupted production Thursday at the American Car and Foundry plant. Maj. James P. Holmes of the Office of Production Management conciliation service presided at the meeting between company officials and representatives of the United Automobile Workers of America [CIO]. The strike, involving about 1,000 employés, was called to enforce demands that the piecework rate be changed.

Approximately 40,000 workers returned to their jobs in Detroit, Mich., following settlement of a strike involving about 1,000 men at the National Automotive Fibres, Inc., which supplies upholstery to the Chrysler corporation and the Briggs Manufacturing company.

PACKAGE FREIGHTER LINES PLAN MERGER; SAY THEY FACE RUIN

Buffalo, N. Y., July 14 (AP).—Great Lakes Transit corporation and Minnesota-Atlantic Transit company, package freighter lines, filed an application today with the interstate commerce commission for permission to merge.

Company officials said the plan provides for the acquisition by the Great Lakes company of stock and certain properties of the Minnesota-Atlantic line, and the election of H. Townsend Hoopes as president. Hoopes heads Minnesota-Atlantic.

The companies, which together have about 8,000 employés, said the reason for the application "is that because of the diminishing revenues and rising costs of operation, a continuance of competitive operation would mean inevitable bankruptcy."

The lines run duplicate services between Duluth and Buffalo. The firms listed a loss of $2,387,693 in the last eight years.

GRAIN MARKET DROOPS; WHEAT IS DOWN 1 CENT

Corn Closes with a Loss Despite Rally.

The grain market weakened yesterday. Hedging pressure against the movement of the new small grain crops to terminal markets dominated the action of wheat, oats, and rye on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Closing sales of wheat were about the bottom with losses of ⅞ to 1 cent. Corn rallied from the early low point, but finished ⅛ cent lower.

Oats developed weakness under the weight of hedging sales against cash grain, local receipts being about 250,000 bushels, the largest since last September, and finished ⅝ to ¾ cent lower. Rye lost ⅛ to ½ cent.

Soy Bean Trade Lags.

Trading in soy beans was less active than in other recent sessions. Prices moved over a range of a little less than 3 cents and closed ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent higher. Strength in cottonseed oil and hogs was offset to a large extent by the easier tone in wheat and lard as an influence on soy beans. Lard declined 5 to 10 cents a hundred pounds.

More than 10 million bushels of all grain was received yesterday at terminal and subterminal markets, it was estimated, and storage room was said to be rapidly nearing exhaustion.

The Commodity Credit corporation announced that arrangements had been completed whereby 2,500,000 bushels of government owned corn will be shipped to England.

Bar Wheat from Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., July 14 (AP).—An immediate embargo on all wheat consigned to Kansas City for storage was declared today by executives of 10 trunk line railroads.

Notices were being sent that no wheat will be accepted for consignment to the Kansas City market for storage because of inadequate elevator space.

Wheat shippers who can show that their grain is for immediate sale or that they have made arrangements for private storage still may send their wheat to Kansas City.

The railroad meeting was called after the Kansas City Board of Trade disclosed there are 800 to 1,000 cars of wheat—1,500,000 bushels—on tracks for which there is no room in elevators.

Grain men predicted many farmers will have to pile their wheat on the ground.

TWO SUE TO HALT JONES-LAUGHLIN CAPITAL CHANGE

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 14 (AP).—Two preferred stockholders of Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation today asked the federal District court for an injunction to restrain the corporation from holding a stockholders' meeting July 22 to act on a proposal for revamping the capital structure.

The stockholders, Bertha H. Hubbard and Norman Johnson, declared the plan was "unfair and unlawful" and would deprive preferred stockholders of valuable rights. Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker set Wednesday for a hearing.

The plan provides for the merger of two subsidiaries, Vesta Coal company and Shannopin Coal company, and conversion of the present 7 per cent preferred stock and common stock into new securities.

Largest Peach Crop of Ten Years Forecast in Illinois

Carbondale, Ill., July 14 (AP).—The largest Illinois peach crop in 10 years was predicted today by Harry W. Day, general manager of the Illinois Fruit Growers' exchange. The harvest is expected to yield between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 bushels.

OHIO FARMERS ASK U.S. COURT TO BAR WHEAT QUOTA ENFORCEMENT

Dayton, O., July 14 (AP).—The right of congress to limit farmers' sale or use of wheat in excess of quotas was challenged today in two suits filed in federal District court here.

Both called the legislation unconstitutional, confiscatory, and unenforceable and asked permanent injunctions. Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard and state and county AAA officials were named as defendants.

Attorneys for the Farmers Protective Association filed the suits on behalf of a farmer, a farm owner, and his tenant. They declared that the wheat was almost ready to harvest at the time of the national referendum in which quotas were approved, A majority of Ohio farmers voted against quotas in the referendum.

RICHBERG WARNS SEC NOT TO RUSH UTILITY CHANGES

Washington, D. C., July 14 [Special].—Donald R. Richberg, counsel for the United Light and Power company Chicago, told the Securities and Exchange commission today that the company is "entirely willing" to comply with the SEC's general program of geographical integration of the system.

He warned the commission, however, against issuing any orders for disposition of properties that would involve unreasonable losses to investors.

Richberg said the company had no "fundamental disagreement" with the commission's tentative utility grouping plan. However, the company disagrees with a SEC interpretation that all properties of a holding company must be in the same state or in adjoining states, he said.

BANKERS' DOLLAR ACCEPTANCES DIP DURING JUNE

New York, July 14 [Special].—Bankers' dollar acceptances outstanding in the United States amounted to $212,932,000 on June 30, a decrease of $2,073,000 during the month, the Federal Reserve bank of New York reported today. Acceptances outstanding a year ago totaled $206,149,000.

Unusually heavy demand for United States currency from Cuba resulted in the largest shipments of currency during June since February, 1940, the bank disclosed. Shipments were $4,600,000, of which $3,900,000 went to Cuba. Receipts totaled $600,000.

MEAT STORAGE SUPPLY IS DOWN 10 PCT. IN JUNE

Reserve stocks of meat in cold storage plants in the United States on July 1, exclusive of lard, showed a drop of 10.8 per cent from the June 1 total, and were smallest of the year at 851,640,000 pounds, the department of agriculture reported yesterday.

A new all-time record of 367,911,000 pounds was established by lard, despite government exporting and decreased June production.

OLD ILLINOIS OIL WELLS' PIPE MAY EASE SHORTAGE

Centralia, Ill., July 14 (AP).—The possibility today appeared the shortage of oil well casing in Illinois may be alleviated by the use of pipe from some of the state's thousands of old, stripper wells.

That the old casing is usable for new wells was discovered when the Texas company announced it had purchased 1,000 feet of pipe taken from 35 year old producers in the Sandoval field 8 miles north of here. The company, one of the basin's largest operators, said it intended to buy some more of the casing.

The supply of new casing has dwindled rapidly since much of the nation's steel production was turned to rearming channels and some observers feared the shortage would severely crimp immediate development in the state.

ICC Rejects Standardized Form Plea on Rail Loans

Washington, D. C., July 14 [Special].—An unsuccessful attempt by the investment firm of Salomon Brothers and Hutzler to have the Interstate Commerce commission standardize the form to be used by railroads in inviting bids for equipment trust certificates was revealed today. It asserted that its bid for a $2,650,000 Western Pacific issue had been rejected because the firm had demanded that the proceeds be used only to pay for new equipment. The form used, it said, permitted other uses such as payment of rentals or taxes.

Big Supplies Help Weaken Butter and Eggs Futures

Large accumulations in major storage markets and heavily supplied cash markets caused declines in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. November butter closed 0.60 cent lower at 35.70 cents a pound. Prices in the cash market declined ½ cent to ¾ cent a pound. October and November eggs closed at 28.70 cents a dozen with net losses of 0.25 cent and 0.30 cent, respectively.
